Vincent Wartzing, Capitalist of Sacramento, Killed and Wife Injured When Car Turns Turtle On Highway

Henry Mehringer, Manager of Motor Company, Meets Death As His Machine Goes Into River; Other Victims

The ever-growing death toll claimed by motor smashups in and about the bay region was made larger today with the report of additional vehicular accidents, one last night and two Sunday, both of which had not been previously reported, resulting in a total of five deaths and thirteen persons injured, at least four of whom, according to hospital attaches, cannot recover. Two of the accidents occurred at Woodland and another near Monterey:

THE DEAD:

Vincent Wartzing, capitalist of Sacramento.

Mrs. Henry Jacques of Sacramento.

Margaret Mehringer, 7 years old; killed instantly.

THE INJURED:

Mrs. Vincent Wartzing of Sacramento.

J. A. Lynch, wife of the head of a leading Sacramento hardware store; fractured skull and injured internally. No hope is held for her recovery.

J. A. Lynch, serious internal injuries; will recover.

Mrs. Vernon Axtell, 28 years old, of Woodland; almost disembowled. She is not expected to live.

John Mehringer, 12 years old; severe cuts about face and head.

Rev. Joseph Galli, pastor of St. Joseph's church, Oakland; bruises and lacerations.

CAPITALIST IS KILLED INSTANTLY.

Wartzing, Sacramento capitalist, was killed instantly; Jacques, an officer of the Sacramento fire department, and Mrs. Lynch, wife of an officer of a leading Capital City hardware concern, were fatally injured, and her husband and Mrs. Wartzing were injured as the result of an automobile smash on the Woodland-Sacramento highway last night at a point two miles out from Woodland.

The heavy touring car in which they were traveling was driven by Lynch, who was proceeding at a fast rate when he overtook another car and attempted to pass. The wheels on the left side of his car went off the paved highway into soft earth and the big car turned turtle, pinning all of the occupants beneath.

Wartzing was dead when help reached the scene. Jacques and Mr. and Mrs. Lynch were rushed in to Woodland and to a hospital, where it was found that Jacques and Mrs. Lynch had incurred fractured skulls.

Lynch was injured internally, but it is said he will recover.

This latest accident gives a total of eight casualties in the Woodland district within thirty-six hours, resulting in three deaths and three fatally injured.

FATAD ACCIDENT ON CARMEL ROAD.

Mehringer was killed and his family injured in an accident which occurred near Whitlock ranch on the Carmel Valley road, when the machine left the road and plunged 100 feet into the river valley below. A two-year-old infant, hurled from the automobile into the Carmel river, was rescued by its injured mother.

Mehringer left Monterey early Sunday morning with his wife and three of his five children to picnic in the hills of the Carmel valley. Near Whitlock ranch he swerved his machine to avoid another car. The earth crumbled beneath the Mehringer automobile and, with its occupants, it crashed through the underbrush into the valley 100 feet below and hung on the bank of the Carmel river.

Injured and faint with shock, Mrs. Mehringer rescued her two-year-old baby, which had been hurled into the river. Mehringer died at a hospital at Monterey, where he was taken after the accident. Margaret was killed instaptly.

STRUCK BY TRAIN ON WAY TO CHURCH.

Mrs. Axtel will probably die as the result of an automobile accident Sunday morning when the car driven by her husband was struck by a fast Southern Pacific northbound passenger train at Mullens station, two miles from Woodland, killing her eight months' old babe and seriously crippling her young husband. Axtell was driving. He did not see the train because of shade trees until it was upon his car as it was passing over the center of the track. The car was carried twenty-five feet and thrown on top of Axtell and his little son, while Mrs. Axtell was thrown clear. She was almost disemboweled. Her recovery is said to be impossible.

The Axtells own one of the largest vineyards and apricot orchards in the Mid-valley. They were on their way

Accused of Many Crimes

MRS. EVA SOUTHARD, wife of Petty Officer Paul Vincent Southard, U. S. N., alleged feminine "Bluebeard," who arrived on the S. S. Matsonia today to face trial on charges of murdering four former husbands, a brother-in-law and infant child.

Warships Speed To Port Fired by Mutinous Army

By CHARLES EDWARD HOGUE, United Press Staff Correspondent.

HANKOW, China, June 7—Mutinous Chinese troops have looted and partially burned Ichang, a treaty port 165 miles northwest of here, for the second time in six months, according to official reports reaching Hankow.

American, British and Japanese gunboats have been despatched to Ichang, where they are expected to arrive today.

All Chinese shops in the city have been looted and many burned. The Bank of China building was burned.

As yet no action has been taken by the British consul.

Consular reports indicate they attempted to check troops in reported opium smuggling operations, which caused the uprising.

Offices of the Robert Dollar steamship and trading interests, Arnold Bros., the Bank of China and other foreign firms were looted.

The customs house and Japanese consulate were damaged.

Casualties have not been determined, but are expected to exceed those of the November mutiny at Ichang, when sixty were killed and $2,000,000 in property destroyed.

Writers' Club Will Banquet Three Guests

Mrs. Charmain Kittridge London will present the California Writers' club with a bas-relief of the late Jack London, an honorary member, according to an announcement made by the club officers. Mrs. London is expecting that her biography of the novelist, which has been written in two volumes, will be out in September.

Miss Ina Coolbrith, who is visiting in the bay cities from New York, where her home is now being made; Mrs. Nalbro Bartley, who is leaving shortly to establish her home in New York, and Miss Florence Livingston will be honored tonight at the last dinner the California Writers' Club will give this season. The guests will assemble at the Young Women's Christian Association at 6:15 p. m. Awarding of the annual prizes in poetry and fiction will be made.

American In Mexico Is Slain By Maniac

BY UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, June 7.—J. H. Hunken, one of the most widely-known American railroadmen in Mexico, was shot and probably mortally wounded by a maniac today at Irapuato, according to advices from that city.

He was attacked by an insane man in a private car, according to meager information here, and in the battle which followed was shot twice through the head.

Three Executed By British in Jail at Dublin

Pitched Battle in Cork Results in Three Killed, Twelve Wounded.

DUBLIN, June 7.—Three men, two of them Republicans, and the other a constable, were executed here today by British authorities. The Sinn Feiners were Edward Foley and Patrick Mayer, who had been found guilty of the murder of Constable Wallace by British court-martial. Constable Mitchell was hanged for the murder of Magistrate Dixon.

All three men met death in the jail yard of Mount Joy prison. It had been reported that a Sinn Fein plot had been hatched against the life of Executioner Ellis and a special bodyguard was provided for him.

Magistrate Dixon was shot to death during an outbreak of disorders at Dunlavin. The Sinn Feiners were alleged to have participated in an ambush attack upon a police detachment near Knocklarg.

Fresh disorders were reported from various parts of the city today. A civilian was shot to death near Dungarvan. His body was found lying by the roadside. The courthouse at Clonakilty was burned to the ground. A reprisal raid was made at Drimoleague and two houses were destroyed.

Two civilians were found shot to death at Cantough. Cards bearing the word "Spy," were pinned to the breast of each corpse.

THREE KILLED, 12 WOUNDED IN FIGHT.

CORK, June 7.—A pitched battle in which three members of the Irish Republican army were killed, 12 were wounded and 100 captured was fought in County Cork today.

Air scouts attached to the Crown forces located a large body of Republican troops while flying in army airplanes over an area that was known to be thickly infested with militant Sinn Feiners. British troops were thrown about the district and heavy fighting followed. The casualties of the Crown forces were said to be light.

President To Name New Shipping Board

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Announcement of a complete new shipping board is expected from the White House today. A. D. Lasker, well-known Chicago businessman, will be chairman of the new board. President Harding tendered the Chicagoan the post last Friday. Lasker is to give his answer today, and, according to his friends, has already given the White House assurances that he will accept.

Appropriations For Shipping Board Cut

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, June 7. — Appropriations of $111,000,000 for the Shipping Board in the deficiency appropriation bill were cut to $81,000,000 today by Senate and House conferees, the latter refusing to agree to the Senate increase of $50,000,000.

SUSPECT IN POISON CASE REACHES S. F.

Mrs. Southard, Charged With Murder of Four Husbands, Arrives From Honolulu En Route To Idaho For Trial

Married Career Has Been Varied

Married Robert C. Dooley, Idaho farmer, March 17, 1912. Dooley died October 1, 1915, in Twin Falls hospital. Typhoid the alleged cause.

Married William C. McHaffie, waiter, June, 1917. McHaffie died at Hardin, Mont., October 22, 1918. Death reported due to influenza and diptheria.

Married Harlan C. Lewis, automobile mechanic, March 10, 1919. Lewis died at Billings, Mont., June 6, 1919. Death reported due to gastro-enteritis.

Married Edward F. Meyer, foreman Blue Lakes ranch, August 10, 1920. Meyer died Twin Falls hospital, September 7, 1920. Autopsy revealed alleged traces of poison.

Married Paul Vincent Southard in Los Angeles, November 20, 1920.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7—Heavily veiled and refusing absolutely to make any statement or to discuss her case in any manner, Mrs Lyda Eva Southard, alleged "Bluebeardess," set foot on American soil again this afternoon in charge of Deputy Sheriff V. H. Ormsby.

The deputy sheriff afforded his prisoner every protection possible from publicity. Wearing a brown tailored suit and a smart black hat, Mrs. Southard stepped down the gangplank between Deputy Sheriff Ormsby and Mrs. Ormsby, who acted as matron on the trip from Honolulu.

Mrs. Southard was taken to jail, where she will be held until her departure. Ormsby announced that if possible he would leave tonight for Twin Falls on Southern Pacific train No. 20

WOMAN REPORTED TO HAVE TOLD STORY.

An intimation that Mrs. Southard, who is going back to Twin Falls to answer to an indictment charging her with having poisoned Ed Meyers, her fourth husband, had made an extended statement regarding her case during the ocean voyage from Honolulu, came from Deputy Sheriff Ormsby, but he refused to reveal any of the details or to indicate the nature of the statement.

Other than to say the voyage had been pleasant and that his prisoner seemed in good spirits, the officer whose five months' chase ended with the arrest of Mrs Southard in Honolulu had nothing to say.

Passengers declared that Mrs. Southard kept to her stateroom almost all the time on the six-day voyage from the Hawaiian Islands

Ormsby, speaking for Mrs. Southard, announced that she had secured the law firm of Guthrie & Mills of Twin Falls, Ida., to defend her. He intimated that she would have nothing to say until after she had talked to counsel.

VEIL HIDES FACE FROM PHOTOGRAPHERS.

The Matsonia on which Mrs. Southard made the voyage, arrived in San Francisco bay shortly after 10:30 today. Newspaper men boarded the vessel at quarantine and attempted to interview Mrs Southard. She refused, however, to talk and Deputy Sheriff Ormsby was in a non-communicative mood.

Photographers urged her to pose for pictures, but she refused and kept her heavy veil tightly drawn about her face as she passed down the gang-plank to a tune of clicking cameras.

Passengers on the Matsonia said that Mrs. Southard evinced no regret at the parting with her fifth husband, Paul Vincent Southard, a navy officer, who is following on a naval collier.

Mrs. Southard seemed to find great amusement in outwitting photographers, who, clinging to the running board of the automobile which carried her to the Hall of Justice, pleaded for "just one pose." She refused and could be heard laughing as she maneuvered to keep her face from their view.

"Mrs. Southard has been a model prisoner," said Deputy Sheriff Ormsby "She has given no trouble and has not in any way abused privileges allowed her. She realizes she is on her honor and has been treated accordingly. There is nothing about the case that I can tell you other than I told you before I left for Honolulu."

MATERIALS MEN ADMIT NOT SELLING

Local Dealer Says All Yards Are Closed For Purpose of Forcing Readjustment; Illegal Agreement Denied

Meanwhile Work That Was Recently Resumed Will Be Tied Up Soon; Indictments Are Expected Across Bay

New complaints to District Attorney Ezra Decoto that building supplies promised by dealers are not being delivered were made today by a number of local contractors As a result it is said that the work on the Salvation Army Home and on other buildings where activity started again yesterday, will stop tonight and that by tomorrow the building tie up will be tighter than ever

While these charges are being investigated with a view of seeing if the Cartwright law is being violated and if there is any combination in restraint of trade the building material men are frank in admitting that they are not dealing with the public

"We are not selling to anyone," is their answer, "and it cannot be said that we are making any discriminations."

MAY EXPLAIN DEPLETION OF YARDS.

Another story that was brought to the attention of the district attorney today, and which may or may not have any connection with the building situation, is one that a long string of automobile trucks carried sand, gravel, cement and other supplies over the hills and through Piedmont for the open country. Residents of Piedmont were awakened by the noise of the heavy trucks making the grades and report that there were no names visible on the sides of the conveyances. The story is to be run down to see if it offers any explanation for the depleted condition of certain yards that were well stocked but a few days ago

Contractors on the Salvation Army Home today tried at every supply house in Oakland to get materials to continue operations, according to Maury I. Diggs, who has the work in charge, and were told that none was to be had. The work at this place, and at certain others, had been tied up since the situation developed, but was resumed yesterday when Diggs and others announced that they would continue to pay the union scale until June 13, when they would ask a conference with the trades council. There is enough material at the Salvation Army Home to last until this evening.

ADMITS THAT NO MATERIALS ARE SOLD.

No denial of the charge that building material men are refusing to sell materials was made by J. A. Powell of the Powell Brothers company today. He said that his yard and the other yards of the bay district had shut down and were doing no business.

"There is no reason to issue denials or make excuses," Powell said "The builders, the building material men, the building material manufacturers realize that readjustment of business cannot take place until wages come down. We have started out to put wages down and we are going to keep at it until they drop in proportion to other prices

"The building material manufacturers, apparently, have shut down, for we are not receiving shipments in response to our orders. We are refusing to sell We have shut down our business completely. We are not discriminating because we are selling to nobody.

"On Monday when the builders put the 'American plan' of operation into effect we intend to do the same thing with our workmen. Then we will be open for business and will sell to whomsoever is in the market for our goods.

"Our stocks are largely depleted because the manufacturers have not shipped us anything since the outbreak of the present trouble. We understand that they intend to resume shipments this week, however, in order that there will be plenty of materials on hand for the reopening on Monday.

NO AGREEMENT, BUT YARDS ARE CLOSED.

"I believe that the situation is the same in all the building material yards as in my own. There is no agreement among the men to close down during this trouble in any sense that could be called a combination in restraint of trade.

"On the other hand, you might call it a unanimity of opinion. In other words, we all know what is good for us—we know labor must be cheaper before business can get back to normal and we are doing our part in bringing this about."

Powell said that his yard, and so far as he knows, all of the yards, are refusing all business until Monday, including the non-union as well as the union job orders. When they reopen on Monday they will accept all orders without discrimination as whether they are union or non-union, he says.

E. C. Morehead, business manager of the Builders' Exchange, refuses to comment on the charge made by Diggs concerning refusal of the yards to sell material. He said that the building material business is outside of the jurisdiction of the Builders' Exchange and that his organization is concerned solely with building operations.

With two separate grand jury investigations under way and with practically all of the dealers and contractors in the Bay cities called upon to testify, the inquiry into the building tie-up is assuming the proportions as the most far-reaching of any conducted on the Pacific coast in years.

In San Francisco the grand jury was in session almost all night and will continue, with the probability that a number of indictments will be returned. Those who have testi-

Snake in Search of Square Meal Begins on Self

STOCKTON, June 7.—Snakes may eat toads, other snakes, fishes and bugs, but when one tries to devour itself, then it's time to investigate, thought Prof. H. J. Snook, instructor of biology in the Stockton high school, when he discovered his prize bull snake rolled up like a hoop and rapidly disappearing within itself.

Prof. Snook has a collection of queer things in his laboratory for experimental purposes and study. The other day a curious student wagged the tail of the snake in front of its eyes, and, evidently thinking its rear extremity a choice morsel of food, the bull snake grabbed it and hung on. Now a bull snake has teeth which point inwardly. Thus nothing it attempts to swallow can extricate itself So with the tail.

The busy professor gave one startled glance and a pull. Nothing happened Finally he was obliged to procure a pair of pincers, pry the snake's jaws open, hold them open, pull itself out of itself and thus prevent it from completely disappearing within itself, if you get what is meant.

Woman Is Held In Slavery for Nineteen Years

Applies To Police For Aid And Says She Was Doped Most of Time.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

LONG BEACH, June 7—A woman giving the name of Annie Spurrier applied to the police here today for assistance She told them, according to their statement, that she had been held in virtual slavery for nineteen years and was under the influence of opiates for much of that time She said her confinement had been so close that she knew nothing of the world war, had never seen an airplane, and her information was vague as to other developments of life

The woman gave the name of the man who she said was responsible for her detention and also the names of relatives in Texas. The police were searching for the man and trying to communicate with the relatives today.

U. S. Is Ready For Recognition Of Mexico Gov't

Treaty To Be Concluded Safeguarding American Lives and Property.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, June 7 — The American government has proposed a treaty of amity and comity with Mexico, it was announced today at the State Department

"The fundamental question confronting this government," the department's announcement said, "is the safeguarding of American property rights against confiscation"

It was added that the position taken by the United States should not be confused with any personality or administration, but that an agreement containing definite assurances in writing by Mexico as a whole was sought.

When such assurances against confiscation are received, it was said, there would no longer be any question of recognition

This statement of the administration's policy toward Mexico was agreed upon by President Harding and his cabinet today.

J. S. Dodge Named As Bank Superintendent

BY UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

SACRAMENTO, June 7 — Jonathan S. Dodge, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County, will be appointed state superintendent of banks by Governor W. D. Stephens, the executive announced today.

The appointment confirms the report that Charles F Stern had tendered the governor his resignation from that position

The governor also announced the appointment of Henry W Wright, South Pasadena, speaker of the state assembly to succeed Dodge as a member of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors

L. A. Man Is Named Bank Superintendent

SACRAMENTO June 7 - Governor Stephens today announced the appointment of Jonathan S Dodge, chairman of the board of supervisors of Los Angeles county as state superintendent of banks, to succeed Charles F Stern, whose resignation recently was tendered to the Governor.

Henry W Wright of Los Angeles, twice speaker of the California Assembly, the Governor announced, has been appointed to succeed Dodge on the Los Angeles county board of supervisors

Accused of Making False Damage Claim

Edward A. Haynes was arrested today on the charge of making false returns to an insurance company, and is being held in the city jail in default of $2500 bail.

According to Inspector William Kyle, who made the arrest, Haynes' home at 3264 Arkansas street burned on December 24. Recently Haynes put in a claim for insurance, valuing his furniture at $1000 and the building at $2000. Kyle says that the furniture was not worth more than $250.

RECEDING FLOOD WATERS AT PUEBLO REVEAL MORE BODIES; KNOWN DEAD 55

Red Cross Says Death Toll May Reach 500; Million Voted by Senate to Aid Wide Distress

FIRST TRAIN LEAVES CITY

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 7.—An appropriation of $1,000,000 for relief of Colorado flood victims was authorized late today by the Senate in adopting a resolution offered by Senator Phipps of Colorado.

(By Associated Press)

PUEBLO, Colo., June 7.—The first passenger train to leave Pueblo since the flood Friday will leave at 3 p. m. today over the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe tracks for Denver.

The train will carry as passengers persons whose homes are outside of Pueblo who were trapped here by the flood.

(By Associated Press)

PUEBLO, Colo., June 7.—Known dead from Friday's flood in Pueblo today totaled fifty-five, three bodies being taken to the Fountain school, according to reports of Red Cross officials. Forty-two bodies were at the morgues and ten had been recovered on the St. Charles mesa.

PUEBLO, June 7—(By The Associated Press)—A committee of real estate men today estimated the property damage in Pueblo from the flood at between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. This damage is an appraisal of the buildings and contents.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

PUEBLO, Colo., June 7.—With the recession of the flood waters of the Arkansas river to a point which made most of the downtown streets and railroad yards accessible, considerable progress was expected to be made today in the work of clearing up the streets and buildings and searching for bodies

"The list of known dead probably will take a big jump today," Captain O. L Dennis of Denver, commander of the Colorado Rangers, said.

The work of establishing a refugee camp at Mineral Palace park has begun At 10 o'clock this morning trunks are being carried with other supplies to the camp and a crew is engaged in preparing the grounds. The camp will care for several hundred people.

Lieutenant-Colonel W. G. Caples, U. S army corps of engineers, arrived in Pueblo today to aid in restoring sanitary conditions, and immediately telegraphed to Fort Sam Houston for trucks, wagons, mules and drivers to remove dead animals and bodies in the flood district. He also requested apparatus for sterilizing water, cans for garbage and food rations for fifteen or sixteen days for the sufferers.

MILITARY AND RELIEF WORKERS ARE PRAISED.

The colonel praised the state authorities and National Guard for their control of the situation, and also the Salvation Army, Red Cross and American Legion for their relief efforts and policing of the city.

The food supply of the city was estimated by Colonel Caples as enough for seven days, with a truck convoy to Colorado Springs.

Train service into Pueblo as far as the state hospital has been restored, and this is expected to provide adequate food transportation, the colonel said

Aside from the relief work and clean up of the city interest centered in the mysterious fatal shooting of E. E. Withers, prominent business man, as he was riding home from the gas plant in his automobile last night with his son, Vollie. Withers was shot through the head, the top of his head being blown off. An inquest was to be held some time today.

SLAIN MAN HAD BEEN COMMANDED TO HALT.

Withers had been commanded to halt when the fatal shooting occurred, and was bringing his car to a stop when he was killed, according to his son. Captain Dennis was inclined to believe that the shooting was the result of accidental discharge of a weapon, in whose hands no one could say today.

Major Harris, quartermaster corps, in charge of installation of a food convoy system, had a corps of men active today unloading trucks and getting them started back to Colorado Springs for a food supply.

The military order requiring all able-bodied men to report for work brought out a large force of men and they are being put to work in various capacities.

PLAN TO SEND RESCUE PARTY DOWN RIVER.

Local Red Cross To Receive Funds For Flood Relief

THE local chapter of the Red Cross has been authorized to receive funds for relief work among the flood sufferers of Pueblo.

Contributions will be received either at the headquarters in the city hall or at any bank, the latter to turn over the funds to the local chapter. The local chapter will send such money to the national organization which will handle the administration of the relief work, putting the money directly into the hands of the flood victims.

Stephens Asks State Rush Flood Relief

SACRAMENTO, June 7.—California must not forget the response made to her needs in 1906, said Governor William D. Stephens. In a proclamation urging the people of the state to contribute relief and supplies to the sufferers of Pueblo, Colorado.

At the same time the Governor telegraphed his sympathy to Governor Oliver H. Shoup of Colorado. The telegram to Shoup said:

"California extends sympathy in this hour of disaster Calls have been issued Material help will be forwarded by various communities."

The proclamation said:

"A great disaster has fallen upon Pueblo, Colo. Hundreds have been drowned Thousands are homeless and hungry Help is needed.

"The Governor of Colorado has called for assistance The response should be made quickly and in money All who can should give liberally Let each community contribute at once

"California must not forget the response made to her needs in 1906."

Arkansas Valley Loss to Be Heavy

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 7.—The property destruction along the 100-mile stretch of the Arkansas valley from Pueblo east to nearly the Kansas state line, will be enormous, according to meager reports trickling into the city early today.

Because the people had ample warning to escape to the hills, it is believed the loss of life may not reach over fifty.

Reports here said that women and children have been seen hanging in trees crying for help. They had been washed there by the floods and are nearly exhausted from cold, hunger and exposure

U. S. Government May Enter Coal Business

By DAVID M. CHURCH, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Sharp warning that the government may enter the coal business in order to reduce prices was given to coal operators here today by Secretary of the Interior Fall.

The warning came at a conference between Secretary Fall, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and representatives of the anthracite and bituminous coal industries and after the coal operators had voiced their opposition to proposed legislation which would make it incumbent upon them to furnish the government with statistics showing production and costs.

China Will Favor Limit On Armament

LONDON, June 7.—(By Associated Press.)—Dr V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese representative in the League of Nations, has notified the secretary of the league that it is the intention of the Chinese government to give effect to the league assembly's recommendation concerning limitation of expenditure on armaments.

Colorado Governor Thanks President

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Governor Shoup of Colorado today telegraphed President Harding expressing his gratitude for the sympathy of the chief executive and his appeal to the nation for aid. The Colorado governor indicated that it might be necessary to request federal aid but made no direct appeal nor did he state how much he believed the federal government might be asked to give for the rehabilitation of the flood-stricken districts.

WOMAN'S TRIAL DELAYED.

CHICAGO, June 7.—The trial of Mrs. Cora Orthwein, charged with the murder of Herbert P. Zeigler, central states sales manager of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, was postponed again today. The case is to be called tomorrow.

ENTOMOLOGIST FINDS NEW BUG

MIAMI, Fla., June 7.—"Bugologists" here have discovered a new bug, one not uncommon in the tropics, but, according to G F. Moznette, entomologist in charge of the federal experiment station here, one never before seen in the United States. It is the Xylostodoris Luteolus and the visitor has journeyed all the way from Cuba to sample the quality of the tender shoots of the royal palms here.

Because it is a "suckling" insect and feeds upon the leaflets of the trees, Moznette considers the bug an undesirable citizen and war already has been declared. The defenders are attempting to rout the invader with a spray composed of one part of nicotine-sulphate and 1200 parts of water. The insect is yellow and an adult specimen is about one-half inch in length.

Three Cars Damaged But No One Injured

ALAMEDA, June 7.—A car driven by Mrs S S Freeman, of 1049 San Antonio avenue collided with the automobile of J H Brown at Webster street and Pacific avenue last night. The Brown machine was thrown by the impact into an auto belonging to the West End Garage company, which was parked at the curb. No one was injured, but the three cars were damaged.

FADED EYES OF EX-EMPRESS SAW MANY TRAGEDIES

BRUSSELS, June 7.—(United Press)—Forming the sole remaining link with the reign of the late King Leopold of Belgium, the ex-Empress Charlotte of Mexico, attained her 81st birthday today.

This winter the aged Princess, who was the late King Leopold's sister, was within an ace of paying the last debt of nature; in fact, at the end of January the doctors almost gave up hope of saving her, but the iron will that stamps every member of the Saxe-Coburg family carried her through as much as medical skill, and she is now tolerably well, although her entourage admit she is likely to pass away at any moment.

The ex-Empress has probably lived through more royal tragedy and court scandal than any other European princess. Her husband, the ill-fated Emperor Maximilian, was shot by Mexican insurrectionists after a very brief imperial sway in 1867, when his wife was only 27. She returned nerve-shattered, to Belgium, where her brother, King Leopold's, generous provision enabled her to live in comfortable retirement.

Family troubles in the household of the late King swept round her, however. Leopold's illicit loves, the sale of his dead queen's diadem, the lawsuits of his two elder daughters, the wild tales surrounding the death of his son, the death-bed scandal with the royal paramour, etc., all helped to increase the sadness of her life.

Stage Star Stole Husband's Heart, Wife's Suit Contends

FRANCES WHITE, musical comedy and vaudeville star, to whose court career another chapter was added when the lawful wife of Herbert Stothart, song composer, accused her of purloining the affections of the jazz artist and expressed a desire to annex Miss White's salary for several days. The amount asked was $100,000.

'Vamp,' Says Wife of Author.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Frances White, who starred in "Jimmy," was sued in the Supreme Court here today by Mrs Dorothy Stothart for $100,000 damages for alienating the affections of Herbert Stothart, who wrote the music for "Jimmy," "Tickle Me" and "Always You." A summons in the case was served on Miss White and was filed in the county clerk's office today, but the complaint has not been drawn.

Mr and Mrs Stothart were married four years ago, and the alleged alienation is said to have occurred after Miss White took the leading part in "Jimmy." She is sued for the same amount named in a suit by Frank Fay, her former husband, when he brought an action against William Rock, Miss White's dancing partner, after Miss White had sued for a divorce which was granted to her. The suit against Rock was not prosecuted.

Miss White first attained notice in San Francisco in a cabaret entered vaudeville and recently has starred in musical plays. She specialized in "kid songs."

Woman Pleads Not Guilty of Murder

BY UNITED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

CLEVELAND, O., June 7.—Mrs Mary Brickel, mother of Mrs Eva Catherine Kaber, pleaded not guilty before Judge Bernon here today to first degree murder, on which she, Mrs Kaber and Mrs Kaber's daughter, Miss Marian McArdle, were indicted in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Kaber's husband, a wealthy Lakewood publisher.

Chicago Mayor Loses Election of Judges

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

CHICAGO, June 7.—Forces opposed to Mayor William Hale Thompson's organization won a sweeping victory in yesterday's judicial election in Chicago and Cook county, practically complete returns today made certain. Every candidate on the so-called "coalition" ticket, composed of both Republicans and Democrats which opposed Mayor Thompson's ticket of "straight" Republicans, was elected.

Twenty judges of the Circuit Court and one judge of the Superior Court were chosen. The "coalition ticket" carried eleven Democrats and ten Republicans to seats on the bench. Returns today show that the lowest candidate on the coalition ticket received approximately 68,000 more votes than the highest candidate on the Thompson slate.

A proposal to issue bonds amounting to $9,000,000 for the construction of a new county jail was defeated. A proposal authorizing the board of education to furnish free text books to pupils of the public schools was approved by a plurality of about 5000 votes.

Canada's Premier To Back U. S. on Japanese

QUEBEC, June 7 (by the Canadian Press).—Premier Arthur Meighen of Canada sailed for London yesterday to attend the imperial conference of British prime ministers and statesmen, where he will press for consideration of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, as one of the four questions sufficiently important to be settled at this conference. It is understood in reliable circles that Meighen will support the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty only upon the condition that it is satisfactory to the United States. Under existing circumstances it is believed he will be influenced by evidence proving that such an alliance would serve the best interests of the British people.

The conference, which opens June 21, is the first of its kind in the history of the empire. It represents the first attempt to have the dominions formulate a foreign policy for the empire.

Police Probe Suicide Of Film Actor's Wife

BY UNITED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—Police were today pushing an investigation into circumstances surrounding the suicide of Mrs Jack Mulhall, wife of a prominent film actor.

The young woman was found yesterday evening in her bedroom in the Mulhall bungalow in Hollwood, a towel saturated in chloroform over her face.

No motive for the tragedy has been unearthed, according to the coroner's office. No note or clew of any kind was found in the room. The Mulhall home was regarded as a happy one by the Hollywood film colony.

Ballet Is Chief Moscow Attraction

HELSINGFORS, June 7.—The chief attraction of the people in Moscow is the opera and ballet, say persons who have just come out of Russia.

Exquisite performances are given by singers and dancers, many of whom are highly educated and receive 50,000 rubles a night. Tickets for seats are ostensibly free but are unobtainable without a "pull" or emoluments for subordinates.

RELIC RECALLS TWO TRAGEDIES OF CIVIL WAR

WASHINGTON, June 7.—A battered brass speaking trumpet, taken from the hand of Captain Mayhew Wainwright as he lay dead on the deck of his ship, the U. S. S. gunboat Harriett Lane, in Galveston harbor, January 1, 1862, has just been presented to Assistant Secretary Wainwright of the War Department, descendant and namesake of the gallant officer, by P. C. Duff of Houston, Texas., in whose family it has been preserved as a war relic for half a century.

In recalling to Secretary Wainwright the tale of the old battle when the Lane, shot pounded by two Confederate vessels at short range, surrendered Duff told also of another tragic incident on the deck of the battered craft. Captain Wainwright's executive officer, he said, was Lieutenant Lea, whose father, Major A. M. Lea, commanded the Confederate force which retook Galveston in the counter-attack. Major Lea was first to step aboard the Lane, he said, adding:

"It is said that one of the first objects that met his sight was the body of his son, lying on the deck of the Lane mortally wounded. The lieutenant died in the arms of his father a few moments later, and the next day he and Captain Wainwright were buried in the same grave, Major Lea conducting the funeral service."

"The Cabure Feather" Will Be Sunday Tribune Story

Blasco Vicente Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," great book of the war that gained an international reputation, is the author if "The Cabure Feather," one of his best short stories, which will be published in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

This story justifies the oft-used term unusual. It is one of the works of celebrated writers signed up by the OAKLAND TRIBUNE exclusively in the San Francisco bay territory.

"The Cabure Feather" will be published complete in next Sunday's magazine section.

Famous Garibaldi Volunteer Is Dead

LONDON, June 7.—Jules Sambon, aged 84, one of Garibaldi's famous thousand volunteers who fought for the independence of Italy, has just died here. He was twice wounded on the Volturno battlefields.

At one time he owned a remarkable collection of ancient objects illustrative of the history of the theater throughout the ages. This was acquired by the Italian government and now forms the museum of the Scala Theater in Milan. He was also the author of a notable work on coins.

Police Identify Man By Note in Pocket

The police believe that by the finding of a note in the pocket of the man who died yesterday in a rooming house at 470 Fifth street, which was signed "Charles Meyers," his identity has been solved. He came to the rooming house on Friday and rented a room. At the time he told E. Blum, a fellow roomers, that he was 66 years old and had been ill for some time. He said that he was receiving a small compensation from a railroad company for injuries received in a wreck. The note on which the name was written was an order for breakfast.

TAXICABS DRIVE OUT ANCIENT CABS OF ROME

ROME, June 7.—Taxicabs have just invaded Rome. New, bright painted vehicles similar to those of New York, have just made their appearance, replacing as many horse-drawn cabs, which have held sway in the capital of the Caesars for centuries.

The taxicab, though welcomed with open arms by the general mass of Romans, has met for years a stone wall opposition for the right to circulate in Roman streets. The 5000 cab drivers and livery men fought its use and warned the city administration they would be defeated at election if the taxicabs were admitted.

This opposition has in a measure, been overcome but there still remains some cab drivers' prejudice against motor vehicles in their business. They have insisted that the chauffeurs be mainly recruited from the cab drivers.

Mrs Charlotte Cameron of England, now on her third trip around the world, has traveled more miles than any woman in the world.

A prize smoking contest for women was held recently in London and handsome prizes were awarded to women who smoked most gracefully.

Manila Despatches Attacked By Mission

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Recent despatches from Manila declaring that several Filipino businessmen were preparing a memorial urging deferment of independence and that Igorrotes were voicing opposition to independence to the Wood-Forbes mission are attacked in a statement issued by the press bureau of the Philippine mission here.

The statement declares that the Manila businessmen opposing independence are Americans and not Filipinos, and that the Igorrote tribesmen who appeared before the Wood-Forbes mission weer not representative nor many.

Tells England Where U. S. Stands

COLONEL GEORGE HARVEY, ambassador to the Court of St. James, at the Pilgrim Dinner, his first public appearance in London at which he said: "My country stands ready to work with yours," but added that the United States would have nothing to do with the league of nations: Left to right, THE DUKE OF YORK, COLONEL HARVEY, THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT and PRIME MINISTER DAVID LLOYD GEORGE. — Underwood & Underwood photo.

Third Contest Filed in Estate of C. M. Belshaw

MARTINEZ, June 7.—For the third time within a year Attorney E. L. Webber of Napa has instituted a contest in the estate of the late Charles Mortimer Belshaw for seventeen claimants, who claim to be second cousins of the former senator and his true heirs.

In the third petition on file today in Superior Court, Webber asks Superior Judge R. H. Latimer to ascertain and determine the rights of all claimants of the estate. The petition recites the history of Belshaw's family for 200 years in support of Webber's clients' claim to the $500,000 estate. In the petition Bessie Oxner, although admitted to be a second cousin of Belshaw and represented by Webber, is made a defendant.

In the first effort to secure the estate, a straight out contest, Judge Latimer overruled claims of the plaintiffs on a demurrer. The second petition, similar to the one on file today, was withdrawn shortly after it was filed. At the time announcement was made it would again be filed when it was felt the time would be more opportune.

DEATH SEPARATES NURSE CHUMS ON TRIP TO ISLANDS

Miss Agnes Lindblaum, L. A., Brings Home Body of Her Friend, Miss McElroy.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Ending a journey which began a month ago as a vacation trip, Miss Agnes Lindblaum arrived today from Honolulu on the steamer Matsonia, bringing back with her the body of Miss Margaret McElroy, 20, of 345 West Sixty-first street, Los Angeles, who died at the island city as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident several days after the two had arrived there on a vacation tour. Miss Lindblaum made the return journey to San Francisco on the same vessel that carried them on the first leg of their vacation journey.

Several cablegrams, one announcing that Miss McElroy had been injured and the last telling of her death were received by the mother, Mrs. Julia McElroy. Arrival of the last cablegram, announcing the death of her daughter was coincident with that of a letter from Miss McElroy in which was described the splendid vacation she was having.

The last cable read as follows:

On April 20 the two girls, both graduate nurses and inseparable chums, left for the Hawaiian Islands on their vacation trip. Both had just finished a winter of steady work and took the ocean trip for their own health. Miss McElroy was graduated from the Presbyterian hospital at Memphis, Tenn., and had been connected with Los Angeles hospitals about a year. She is survived, besides her mother, by twin brothers, George and Julian McElroy, 19.

The body will be shipped to Los Angeles tonight.

You'll Ha! Ha! Over Tribune's Lardner Series

"DEAR CHARLEY: I bet when you here what I & Grace has made up our minds you & Mary will wisht you was doing the same thing or may be you will follow our exampel & do the same thing & I hope you will because its the only way to live when you get children."

Ring W. Lardner never wrote anything funnier than the Fred A. Gross letters. Gross is a city detective creation of Lardner, who tells of his experiments in home owning in a series of letters to his brother Charley.

The Ring Lardner series will start in The OAKLAND TRIBUNE Thursday.

"Own Your Own Home" is the subject of the letters, and the illustrations are by the celebrated Fontaine Fox, author of The Toonerville Trolley and other cartoons appearing in The OAKLAND TRIBUNE daily. It is a new thing for Fox to step aside from his usual comics to illustrate the work of some other man. But he does it in this case, knowing that the Lardner humor will prove a sympathetic vehicle.

PIPE FITTER SAYS THERE'S A DIFFERENCE IN DENTISTS

Moore Shipyard Employe Praises Dental Work Done by Dr. R. C. Anderson of 1225 Broadway.

"We made full upper and lower bridges for this man—and satisfied him completely, after he had previously told us that dentists were all alike and that he had no faith in them," says R. C. Anderson, well-known Oakland dentist with offices above the Owl Drug store at Thirteenth and Broadway. "Mr. Willis had made up his mind that in justice to health his teeth should be properly cared for, but he disliked the idea, as he put it, of paying out his money for unsatisfactory work.

"It was up to us to convince him that not all dentists were mediocres, so after assuring him that he could mention hundreds of satisfied people, we began work upon his mouth. When the bridges were completed Mr. Willis proved to be one of our best boosters, and is today one of our most satisfied patients.

"It will be well worth while to watch your teeth," continues Dr. Anderson. "Don't neglect them for a single day. If you do not know exactly the condition of your mouth, come to this office for an examination. We use the X-Ray Radiograph pictures in diagnosing every case, eliminating all guesswork. We can tell in a minute just how much attention and work your teeth will require. It will be a pleasure to supply an estimate.

"A quarter of a century is our record of experience. Only the newest and most approved scientific methods of modern dentistry are practiced in this office—finest materials used and finest workmanship."—Advertisement.

Nickels Are Found Among River Piling

SACRAMENTO, June 7.—The Sacramento river in the vicinity of the city water works' intake, near the Southern Pacific bridge, was found to have become literally a nickelodeum. On top of the wooden piling which has been under water for several weeks, several handfuls of nickels were found As they could easily wash off or be knocked into the water, it is believed a large quantity of the five-cent coins had been dumped there for some reason yet unknown to the mystified city employees.

Justice Brandeis Among Men Resigned Because of Convention's Action.

CLEVELAND, June 7 (by Associated Press).—Repudiation of the administration of the officers of the American Zionist organization by the twenty-fourth annual convention today resulted in the resignation of Judge Julian W Mack of Chicago and six other officers of the organization and thirty-five of the fifty members of the national executive committee and its secretary

Peter J Schweitser, treasurer of the organization, was the only incumbent to retain his position The resignations were announced at the close of a long night session by Judge Mack after the convention had voted, 153 to 71, to disapprove the president's annual report

OFFICERS WHO RESIGNED

Besides Judge Mack American Zionist officials who relinquished their offices are Justice Louis D Brandeis of Washington, honorary president, Rabbi Stephen S Wise of New York, honorary vice-president; Harry Friedenwald of Baltimore and Nathan Strauss, New York, vice-presidents; Jacob de Haas, secretary of the Palestine department, Reuben Horchow, assistant treasurer Other executive committee members who resigned include Bernard Flexner, New York, Felix Frankfurter, Cambridge, Mass., Nathan D Kaplan, Chicago, I Irving Lipsitch, San Francisco; Emanuel Mohl, Jerusalem, Palestine, I Rudd, Denver, Jonas Rosenfield, Dallas

In contrast to the stormy demonstrations which have taken place repeatedly since the opening of the convention Sunday afternoon, there was extreme quiet when the vote was announced

WILL REMAIN IN RANKS.

After Treasurer Schweister and Louis Lipsky of New York had attacked the report, and Rabbi Silver and Felix Frankfurter had delivered addresses defending the administration, the delegates last night adopted a resolution declaring

"That while we appreciate to the fullest extent the services rendered to our cause by present officers of the administration, we regard it, however, as our duty to state that the course of action pursued by the present administration constituted a violation of the discipline of the organization fraught with danger to its integrity and contrary to the highest interest of the Zionist movement at this time; and we therefore regretfully express our disapproval thereof"

Judge Mack then assured the delegates that he and the others who resigned with him would remain in the ranks of Zionism

Mother Needs Work; Asks Help of Tribune Bureau

A mother who is in need of work and who is looking for a place where her children will be cared for during working hours, writes the following letter to The TRIBUNE'S Information Bureau:

"Would like to enquire if there are any canneries where a mother can work and the children are taken care of during working hours? If so, where, and also if women employees are wanted?"

One of the establishments answering these requirements is the California Packing company, 105 Filbert street. It will open in July

The query from an Oakland reader signed "A Subscriber," asking if a marriage is legal in Michigan when a final decree is not obtained and the parties have not been divorced a full year and one of them marries within a year from the date which they start court proceedings, can not be answered in this column, as it is against the rules of this department to answer legal questions.

Swimming Hole Traditions Ignored

TURLOCK, June 3.—Those Apolos who have been wont in the past to display their manly forms at the "old swimming home" while getting ready to take a dip have received a severe blow here. Several agitated females went to the mayor recently, asking him to censor the bathers' lack of attire.

Twitching Nervous Trouble Overcome by Neal-Tone

Prominent mining man thinks Neal-Tone best ever

"I have suffered from nervous trouble for a long time to such an extent that it caused twitching, apparently, of the nerves in my body and thus prevented me from sleeping. Since I began Neal-Tone this nervous trouble has entirely disappeared, and I eat well, sleep well and feel strong and vigorous I gladly recommend Neal-Tone as the greatest nerve tonic I have ever taken."—L. N. Parks, Oroville, Calif

Neal-Tone is Dr. B E. Neal's favorite prescription for the nervous and physically failing; the weak and weary. It has been tested by his 30 years' experience and thousands of run-down constitutions So certain are the beneficial effects of Neal-Tone that you can get your money back on the very first package if it fails to bring satisfactory improvement For TRIAL PACKAGE send 10c to Neal-Tone Co., or W. AIR SPECTACLE IS PLANNED FOR FOURTH OF JULY Parade, Fireworks, Drills and Ball Also Outlined For Program.

Air evolutions by squadrons of planes will be one of the features of Oakland's Fourth of July celebration, as decided last night at the Mayor's office by the committee of war veterans appointed by Mayor Davie to prepare a program.

The air spectacle will be only one item of many. There will be a parade, fireworks, various drills and a big public ball at the auditorium at night. Various committee heads were chosen last night by Major Harry F. Huber, general chairman, and these will appoint their own committees.

All the fraternal orders in Oakland will be invited immediately to participate in the parade. All Northern California, it is planned, will be scoured for military and air forces to participate. Present plans include heavy artillery, infantry, sailors, field batteries, high school cadets and Boy Scouts from Oakland and the surrounding cities.

All the veterans will be asked to appear in uniform if it be possible. Major Huber last night requested the committeemen to emphasize that point.

The chairmen appointed last night, who will name their own committees, include:

Los Angeles Voting For Officers Today

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—Meredith P. Snyder was a candidate for the eighth time for chief executive of Los Angeles at the biennial municipal election today. His opponent was George E. Cryer, former assistant United States district attorney of the Southern California district. Mayor Snyder has served four terms, not consecutive.

A city council of nine members and board of education of seven are also to be elected. The ballot also contains a referendum on a proposed prohibition enforcement order drawn along the lines of the Volstead act, and six propositions involving the issuance of $24,800,000 in bonds for various municipal improvements, one of which was $12,500,000 for an outfall sewer; $4,800,000 for harbor construction; $2,500,000 for library buildings and $3,000,000 for water works.

Northern Ireland Parliament Opens

BELFAST, June 7 (by Associated Press).—The parliament of Northern Ireland, elected last month under the new home rule measure, was opened this morning amid impressive scenes in the council chamber of the city hall here. The ceremony took place in the presence of a distinguished gathering. None of the Nationalist or Sinn Fein members elected to the parliament were present as the forty Unionist members took their seats and proceeded to the organization of the house. Hugh O'Neill, son of Lord O'Neill, was unanimously elected speaker, and Sir James Craig, the premier, announced the following cabinet:

Home secretary, Sir Dawson Bates; minister of finance, H. M. Pollock; minister of education, the Marquis of Londonderry; minister of labor, J. M. Andrews; minister of agriculture.

RAIL PAY CUT ORDERED.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Members of the train and engine service brotherhoods on the Denver and Salt Lake railroad will be paid the new reduced wage scale recently ordered by the railroad labor board on certain lines, according to a decision issued today. Because of the financial condition of the road notice was served nearly a year ago of a desire to reduce wages. The employees refused to accept a cut and the case was heard before the board in April. The board's decision said that, beginning July 1, the effective date of the wage reduction order, the Denver and Salt Lake would pay the reduced scale.

Retiring Official of 'Y' Honor Guest

A few of the intimate friends of Charles Titus, retiring general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, were hosts at a dinner Saturday evening in his honor.

Among those present were R. A. Leet, Fred Hunter, C. H. J. Truman, Wm. Nat Friend, E. C. Lyon, B. A. Forsterer, L. H. Kibbe and Charles N. Walter. Titus left today for his new position with the International Association with headquarters in New York.

Man Risks His Life To Save a Child

LODI, June 7.—After saving the life of a baby, T. Nagawa, Japanese, is in a local hospital, having fallen a victim to the auto. He was carrying the little child of S. Sumeita, a neighbor, and did not see a car turning the corner until it was upon him. The driver was unable to stop quickly enough. Nagawa tossed the little one aside to safety and was struck down, the wheels passing over his abdomen. He will recover.

EX-CONSTABLE ENDS LIFE.

YUBA CITY, June 7.—Martin Luther Strite, former constable at Pleasant Grove, Sutter county, committed suicide by shooting himself through the stomach with a gun. He was 63 years of age and a native of Missouri. He is a brother of Mary Strite, postmistress at Pleasant Grove, and well-known pioneer resident of Sutter county. Ill-health is believed to have been the cause of his act.

Women Prepare for Cleveland Sessions

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 7.—Eight hundred business and professional women from all parts of the United States are expected to attend the third annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at Cleveland on July 19-23. Approximately four hundred voting delegates selected from the various clubs of business and professional women affiliated with the body will attend. Nearly three hundred and fifty business and professional women's clubs are now federated, having a total membership of about forty thousand

HAS FINE IN CLOTHES.

TRACY, June 7.—It cost Manuel Luna, Mexican, $150 and 60 days in the county jail to steal Andrew Smith's suitcase. Luna, to the surprise of the arresting officers, had $275 sewed in his waistband. Judge McLean fined him $150 and sent him to prison.

was fired just before daylight and rangers were sent out immediately in an automobile to investigate. No report was made on it.

It was planned today to send a rescue party down the river in boats in an effort to recover bodies along the river.

Clear weather today would make possible recovery of many bodies which have been found but which could not previously be extricated from the debris, officers said.

Check on The Associated Press totals of yesterday on the number of bodies showed that this figure of 52, of which 42 are in the city, was as nearly accurate as possible. Identification has been difficult because refugees have been scattered too widely separated sections of the city.

RED CROSS ESTIMATES DEATH TOLL AT 500.

Red Cross officials, at a meeting last night, estimated that the death list will amount to 500 when a complete count is possible.

A man who witnessed the great flood at Galveston contrasted the situation here with that in the Texas city, where crowds of refugees sat about in groups weeping.

"At Swink, the Arkansas Valley railway was wiped off the map," stated Pape.

"Fifteen men who were standing on the bridge watching the flood waters come down were rescued with difficulty.

"I was told that one woman, living near Manzanola, lost her four children. The whole family was washed away in its house, but managed to get on top of the roof. The children slid off, one by one, and drowned. I do not know of any bodies recovered."

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Continued showers in the western flood districts were reported today by the United States Weather bureau.

"Pressure is falling gradually and is relatively lower over the central and southern plains States and the Rocky Mountains and plateau regions," said the official report.

"Showers have occurred within the last 24 hours in the Rocky Mountain region and in the central and southern plains States."

Blind Man Tells How He Escaped Death in Flood

By SAM I. FREED,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PUEBLO, Colo., June 7. — Blind Harry Wade, on a cot in the emergency hospital at the court house here today, jested about his narrow escape from drowning in the flood.

"I've been through the San Francisco fire, had both my eyes put out in a mine explosion seven years ago and got a game leg," said Wade, who is 55 years old.

"I lived at 328 North Union avenue," he continued. "Doris Deaber kept the rooming house there. She was saved, I hear, but how, gets me. She screamed something frightful when the house caved in on us."

Wade has not been told that the body of the woman lies in a local morgue.

NOT HIS TURN TO DIE.

"I'm bruised and skinned on my arms and legs where planks and other things hit me," said Harry. "But I guess it simply wasn't my turn to cash in.

"I'd heard that the river was rising," he continued, "but didn't think our place was in danger until the Paris Restaurant block next door started to cave in. I went into Doris' room and told her we'd better beat it. The rear porch had gone down when the Paris collapsed.

"Just then the whole building seemed to fall on us. We were on the second or top floor.

"'We're gone!' I yelled to Doris.

WAS UNDER WRECKAGE.

"The water was rushing around me. I was down on the street level under the wreckage.

"I could move a little, the timbers apparently protecting me from the stuff piled up.

"I could not get far beyond where my head lay. I next felt to one side of the stove. There was an opening and I crawled along. The water occasionally lapped against me. I climbed down over wreckage until I struck the full force of the flood on the street.

"I never called for help. It didn't occur to me just then. I was so busy thinking what a fix I was in. Standing in three feet of water, I was getting hit every second by something.

CALLED FOR HELP.

"I kept going uptown. I know the district perfectly. A block down I heard some men yelling at me to come toward them. I had been knocked down a dozen times. When I heard them yelling, I began to think of yelling for help.

"When bowled over another time, I was almost too weak to get up. I rolled over and over with the flood, getting half-way up and then going down again.

"Then I yelled for help. I hollered I couldn't make it to the corner, where stood several men whose voices I recognized.

"One of the boys, a mailman—I don't know his name—waded in and grabbed me. And here I am. I'm glad Doris is saved."

Water Subsides in Rivers of Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore., June 7.—A drop in the Snake river and reports of a smaller rise in the Upper Columbia as compared with the rise reported from the same points yesterday caused the weather bureau today to forecast nearly stationary stage in the Willamette back water flood stage here Friday after attaining 24.5 feet Thursday. Reports from The Dalles today said basements of stores on Second street were flooded following the rapid rise yesterday and that merchants were mostly in stocks.

Railway Damage at Pueblo $4,500,000

PUEBLO, Colo., June 7.—Flood damage to the three principal railroads entering Pueblo will aggregate $4,500,000, according to an estimate made today by H. A. Tice, division superintendent of the Archison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad. Tice estimates the damage to his road in Pueblo and vicinity at $2,000,000; that of the Union Pacific at $1,000,000, and that of the Denver & Rio Grande at $1,500,000.

E. B. Orr of St. Louis, director of civilian relief for the Red Cross for the Western division, who arrived from St. Louis today, said the damage "appears to equal or exceed that of the Corpus Christi, Texas, disaster.

AUTO CASE DELAYED.

After the prosecution had presented its case against Alvin E. Rose, a Berkeley hardware manager, who is charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, his attorney, J. J. Jerome, asked that the case be continued until Friday in order to allow him more time to gather evidence. The request was granted by Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell.

Half Carload of Food Donated in S. F. for Victims

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—More than half a carload of substantial staples were contributed by various firms in this city in response to Mayor Rolph's proclamation appealing to the people in behalf of the flood sufferers of Colorado.

The contributions include flour, rice, tea, coffee, sugar and a variety of foods most likely to be needed in a condition of famine and distress.

Upon the Mayor's being advised of the movement among the food merchants he telegraphed to Governor Shoup of Colorado, asking advice as to what would be most acceptable, and in what quantities. A reply is expected this morning, when the railroads will be approached concerning possible shipping arrangements.

Heretofore, in such cases, it has been customary for the transportation companies to contribute their service and the necessary cars. In the event, however, of their inability to do so in this instance, the Board of Supervisors, at yesterday's meeting voted in favor of the city assuming the necessary expense.

Child Only Pawn On Divorce Chessboard

CINCINNATI, June 8.—"In the last twenty years one-twentieth of the population of the United States has been involved in divorces," declared C. C. Carstens, of New York city, national director of the Child Welfare League of America, who conferred here with the thirty executives of local child welfare institutions.

"The child is generally merely a pawn on the chessboard and is given but little consideration in most divorce cases," he said. "The total number concerned in these divorce cases has been 5,335,000 men, women and children. These figures are based on census returns and other data. They give an idea of the vast extent of the problem of the child's welfare in divorce cases.

"The Child Welfare League is striving to see tha tthe child gets a square deal. We are also actively interested in protecting the minds of girls and youths under 18 years of age from the baneful influence of 'movie' pictures of the eternal triangle' type. We believe that rigid proper remedy."

Elks Give $10,000 For Flood Relief

DUBUQUE, Iowa, June 7.—Fred C. Robinson, grand secretary of the Elks lodge, today telegraphed $10,000 to Russ L. Holland, past grand ruler, at Colorado Springs, as the grand lodge's contribution for the relief of Pueblo flood sufferers. In his message Robinson stated that further funds would be sent if needed.

DEALERS ADMIT MATERIAL IS NOT BEING SOLD NOW

Explanation Is That All Yards Are Closed Until After Readjustment.

fied include: C. E. Parker of the Certainteed Products company, Richmond; John Cassaretto, Sixth and Channel streets, dealer in rock and sand; James A. Yost, employed by Cassaretto; Charles Schroff, of the Bole Rock and Gravel company; Frank Geary of the Pacific Portland Cement company; Kenneth Pettis of the General Roofing company.

District Attorney Brady and Judge I. M. Golden, assistant district attorney, have charge of the investigation.

In Alameda county the grand jury will meet again on Thursday, by which time a mass of additional evidence will be ready for presentation. There is said to be in waiting testimony that certain Oakland dealers have refused to sell material to contractors, even after warned by the district attorney, and there is other evidence that wholesalers have refused to supply the local houses.

Following a conference with District Attorney Decoto today, which lasted for more than three hours, certain local building material dealers renewed their promises that their stocks will be thrown on the open market for sale and that they will do all in their power to lift the embargo on construction work which has temporarily hindered the building industry in Oakland.

STOCKS WILL BE THROWN ON MARKET.

Acting as spokesman for the material dealers, George G. Jamieson of the firm of Rhodes-Jamieson company told Decoto that beginning tomorrow morning the building material stocks will be thrown on the open market.

"We have no wish to work a hardship on the building industry," he said, "and the embargo was only placed on materials because we were operating at a loss.

"Although we will throw open our stocks for sale, we can not promise to make any deliveries for the time being. Those who send for materials will be taken care of to the best of our ability but no deliveries will be made now."

The conference between the dealers and Decoto today followed what was termed a breach of a gentlemen's promise when they failed to put their stocks on the market following their promise to Decoto last Saturday to do so. The men denied that they had broken faith with Decoto. They maintained today that there had been a misunderstanding.

Aside from the renewed agreement on the part of the dealers to lift the local embargo in the face of a grand jury investigation, the material men placed the responsibility for the embargo on the large manufacturers of plaster, roofing and cement.

DELIVERIES ARE NOT TO BE MADE.

"This is the phase of the situation we are going to work on when the grand jury meets again Thursday," said Decoto today. "I am thoroughly convinced following the conference this morning that all dealers have supplies on hand and will throw them on the market, but I am also convinced that they will make no deliveries. Anyone, as I understand it, wanting building materials will have to send for them.

"It has now reached a stage where the men higher up, the manufacturers, will have to come in for a share of the grand jury investigation. At the same time we will consider our consideration of whether or not the local dealers have been guilty of an ingringement of the Cartwright law to restrain trade. We have made no promises, despite the renewed agreement, that those found guilty will not suffer punishment."

Decoto also said that he would investigate the prices placed on building materials, which are said to be higher now than during the war.

"We have information," said Decoto, "that certain cement companies which are now withholding materials from the public recently declared dividends of 100 per cent."

The building material situation will be the first matter to be considered by the grand jury when it meets Thursday morning.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—An indorsement of the policy of the Builders' Exchange and a denial that there was any friction within the ranks followed a meeting of the board of directors this morning. The board unanimously endorsed the action of its executive council in working out the problem of resuming building operations under the so-called "American plan."

W. H. George, secretary of the exchange, declared that there was no further action taken, but repudiated the statement that certain members of the exchange were against the move.

JAIL CHANGES MAN'S MIND; HE DIGS UP MONEY

The troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Arbanos, who were sent to jail by Judge St. Sure because they refused to pay a judgment of $500, are over. The $500 has been paid.

Arbanos and his wife decided last night that liberty was really sweeter than the possession of $500. A relative of the family from Salinas appeared today with $2000, which he said belonged to Arbanos and which had been placed in his keeping so that Arbanos would not have to pay the $500 judgment.

"Arbanos is lucky that he was not given a longer term for perjury," said Judge St. Sure today when the amount was paid. "He swore on the witness stand that he did not have the money to meet the judgment. Had I known the true circumstances I should have given them a heavier sentence."

COLORADO RIVERS CONTINUE TO RISE; LIVES IMPERILLED

Platte Several Inches Higher At Greely; St. Vrain Also Near Danger Mark.

DENVER, June 7. — Telegrams from correspondents of the Associated Press received at the Denver office today indicated flood conditions in Northern Colorado were as follows:

At GREELY—The Platte river was several inches higher here this morning and is doing considerable damage east of here, where it has overflowed. The river yesterday had risen two feet following rains of two days' duration. Near Masters the Platte is one mile wide and the highest it has ever been in Weld county. Scores of workmen are attempting to restore tracks near Lasalle on the main Union Pacific line to Julesburg. A heavy rain fell here all night.

At LONGMONT—The St. Vrain river was 6 inches higher this morning and still rising. Eight bridges over the St. Vrain were washed out in this section of Boulder county. It rained heavily here all night.

At LaSALLE—Another bridge over the Platte was washed out near here last night.

At FORT MORGAN — Jackson Lake dam, ditch, holds the largest body of water in Morgan county and which was feared to be near the breaking stage last night, is safe. The Platte river is within its banks.

At FORT COLLINS—The Poudre river, which reached its highest stage Sunday afternoon, continues to recede. All danger is passed.

Five Killed and Thirteen Injured In Auto Crashes

to church when the train struck their car.

The automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Key Route train at Sixty-third and Sacramento streets, Berkeley. Rev. Galil, pastor of St. Joseph's church, Oakland, and Rev. Turco, assistant pastor of the church, narrowly escaped possible death late yesterday afternoon. A broken rib, bruised back and other injuries were sustained by Father Turco, who was taken to Roosevelt hospital, Berkeley, from where he was later removed to Providence hospital, Oakland. His condition is not serious. The automobile was carried a distance of 35 feet by the impact and Father Turco was thrown from the car.

MOMENTUM BLAMED FOR COLLISION.

Motorman Frank Yeoman of the Key Route train declared to the police that although he endeavored to stop as soon as he saw the automobile the momentum carried the car along after the brakes were applied.

Struck by a street car at Oxford street and Allston way, Berkeley, Robert McGrath was picked up in an unconscious state by a passing motorist and rushed to the emergency hospital, where it was found he was not badly injured. The lad was riding on his bicycle when the accident happened and was struck by a street car. Driving by in his machine Leo Freuder, 2142 Oxford street, saw the body of the boy and took him to the hospital and later to his home. The motorman of the street car apparently did not stop.

Florence and Gordon Ketson were treated at the emergency hospital for minor cuts and bruises, after they had been struck by an automobile driven by John Timm at Sixteenth and Linden streets today. Timm resides at 927 Myrtle street. He stopped his car when the accident occurred and a passing motorist took the children to the hospital and later to their home. Timm started his car and was stopped by Patrolman O. J. Connley for driving without a license and an identification card. He was taken to the police station where he was released on $20 bail, $10 on each count, and ordered to appear in court tomorrow morning.

Timm drove his machine home and turned it over to his brother, Ben Timm, who less than an hour later was taken into custody charged with the same offenses, and released on the same amount of bail.

Jeff H. Eichner, 2429 Eighth street, Berkeley, escaped injury yesterday in a collision between the machine he was driving and another car driven by E. E. Watson, expressman with headquarters at the Southern Pacific depot, at Channing way and McGee avenue, yesterday. Watson's car is declared to have skidded 75 feet before stopping. Both cars were slightly damaged. Eichner was returning from a visit to his wife at a local hospital when the accident occurred.

MERCHANT RUN DOWN BY AUTO.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Walter J. Maylan, importer and exporter, with offices in the Dollar building, was struck by an automobile today at Post and Montgomery streets. He was taken to his apartment at the Palace hotel, where Dr. Boskowitz found that his right ankle had been fractured. Maylan had just stepped from a Valencia-street car when a machine driven by Leigh A. Galloway struck him.

Bird's Teeth Found In Kansas Field

LAWRENCE, Kan., June 7. — "Scarce as hen's teeth" is proverbial for that which doesn't exist. But did you know tht birds once had teeth?

One of the two specimens in the world of bird's teeth has just been found in the chalk beds of western Kansas by Prof. H. T. Martin, curator at the museum. The Kansas fossil is of the Cretaceous period, about twenty-five million years ago. Ten teeth are included with the fossil.

This is the second oldest known type of bird life, according to Professor Martin. It is the most complete specimen that has been preserved. The bird was of the Hesperornis family. It was five feet long, had a short vertebrae tail and possessed no wings. It was a marine bird and resembled the modern penguin.

Oakland Policeman Just Escaped Flood

Police Inspector Lew Agnew missed being stranded in the inundated area of Colorado on Friday when the flood started by ten hours. When he passed through Colorado the river was rising at the rate of a foot every fifteen minutes.

For miles he watched out the window of the car and saw houses, cattle, barns and large trees floating down the river. In one place north of Pueblo shortly after his train passed, five miles of tracks were washed out. Agnew left Chicago on the morning of June 1.

Agnew was returning from Norfolk, Va., with William Gallagher, an alleged automobile thief. In April Gallagher and Jack Leonard, it is charged, stole an automobile which belonged to John Werner, 429 Perkins street, which was parked at Eleventh and Franklin streets. They drove the machine, the police charge, to Coltax, where it was wrecked and abandoned. Leonard was arrested in Reno a short time ago.

Gallagher was arraigned this morning before Police Judge Mortimer Smith and the preliminary hearing was set for June 17.

BODY FOUND ON ROAD.

MARYSVILLE, June 7. — The body of an unidentified man was found by a milk wagon driver today lying in the street. The man's skull had been crushed, one leg broken and his body cut and bruised. Police believe an autoist ran over him and left him in the road to die.

POOR SENT HOME.

SAN PEDRO, June 7.—Twenty-five destitute Mexican families, brought from Mexicali by Mexican Consul Hermol So Torres, have been sent to their former homes on the transport Mexico. Conditions of indigence in Mexicali are said to be desperate.

Two Pueblo Papers Continue to Publish

PUEBLO, Colo., June 7.—Both the Pueblo Star Journal and the Pueblo Chieftain are publishing editions of their newspapers, but under difficulties.

The papers until today were printed on bill poster paper on hand presses.

The Chieftain this morning has a four-page paper, four columns wide. Both newspapers are getting the full Associated Press leased wire service from a wire set up in a hallway of the First Baptist church, which also is the temporary headquarters for the telephone company. Several telephones are now in operation. The first telephone wire was opened Sunday morning and yesterday the Associated Press had a wire operating into the city from Denver.

PARK-BIEHL WEDDING.

Another large wedding in Berkeley will be that of Miss Mary Eva Park and Albert George Biehl, the ceremony to be read in St. John's Presbyterian church in Berkeley before many hundred guests from about the bay cities. There will be many of the university set as guests, since the bride-elect is a member of this year's graduating class of the University of California and an Alpha Phi sorority member.

It is to be one of the beautiful summer weddings. Miss Josephine Park, who recently returned from abroad, will be maid of honor for her sister and her bridesmaids will be Miss Louise Parke, Miss Helen McCreary and Miss Harriet Rinder.

Miss Catherine Morgan who, with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. Morgan, will leave the latter part of this month for Europe, was hostess at a tea at the Hotel Fairmont for a number of her girl friends. Seated about the daintily appointed table were the Misses Doris M. Teague, Agnes Marcella Carter, Virginia Rosalie Dowd, Marion M. Wallace, Maud A. O'Donnell, Bernice R. Simpson and Alice M. Martin.

WEDDING SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

Four hundred guests witnessed the nuptials of Miss Marion Wilma Jones and Edwin A. Schottman of Berkeley Sunday at 1 o'clock in the First Methodist church in this city, Rev. John Stephens officiating. Miss Muriel Jones was bridesmaid and John R. Worthington best man. Pryce Jones, brother of the bride, gave his sister in marriage. The little bridesmaids were the Misses Beth and Florence Peterson.

A wedding breakfast was served later for the family and members of the bridal party at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Jones.

The bride wore an all-white frock of georgette with bridal veil and carried bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was in flesh-pink georgette and carried pink bride's roses, while the little flower maidens wore frocks of white organdie, and carried baskets of Cecil Breuner roses.

A surprise at the wedding was the announcement of the marriage of Miss Grace Jones, sister of the bride, and Albert Collin of Stockton, the ceremony having taken place a fortnight ago in that city, with Rev. A. C. Bane officiating. Collin is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Edwards of Piedmont, and of Mr. and Mrs Zabriskie of New York and San Francisco.

At the regular meeting of the Phi Mu Alumnae Saturday in Berkeley the engagement of Miss Ermyn Norton, daughter of Mrs. F. L. Norton, and Benard F. Lucas, of Diggs, Butte county, was announced. Lucas is a son of Mrs. George Lucas and a member of a pioneer family of that section of the state. He is cashier in the bank at that place.

Miss Norton is a member of the class of '17 University of California and for four years has been a member of the faculty of the University High of this city.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH SCENE OF WEDDING.

St. John's Presbyterian church was last night the scene of the marriage of Miss Susan Adelaide Pratt and John Louis Cooley. Masses of pink roses adorned the pulpit and chancel of the church, the same color scheme carried out at the home of Mrs. J. W. Pratt, mother of the bride, where a reception to friends was held following the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of heavy crepe de chine embroidered and with a court train. The veil of point lace was arranged at the headdress with sprays of orange blossoms and the shower bouquet of butterfly orchids and gardenias.

The Misses Dorothy Willett and Phyllis Buckley were the bridesmaids, Miss Willett in apple green and Miss Buckley in orchid.

The bride, who was a former student at the University of California, is a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Cooley is a son of the late Andrew Edward Cooley and Mrs. Cooley of Cloverdale. He is a University of California graduate and a Beta Theta Pi fraternity man. The future home of the couple will be in Berkeley.

Injuries End Life of Oakland Conductor

James Hiram Keel, 37 years old, for several years an employe of the Southern Pacific company and formerly a member of the Oakland police department, died yesterday in the Southern Pacific hospital, San Francisco, following injuries received in an accident at Redding about a week ago, when he was acting as a conductor on a freight car. In some manner his foot was caught under a flatcar and crushed. He was rushed by train to the hospital in San Francisco, where every effort was made to save his life, including blood transfusion.

The funeral will be held from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keel, 3013 Wheeler street, Berkeley, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be conducted at the University Christian church.

Keel was a resident of Contra Costa county and leaves a widow. He was a member of the Oakland lodge of Elks, the Brooklyn lodge of Masons of Oakland and of the Order of Scots.

Nightingales, starlings and skylarks have been repeatedly introduced in the United States, but have never survived.

Fire Chief Rounds 52 Years' Service

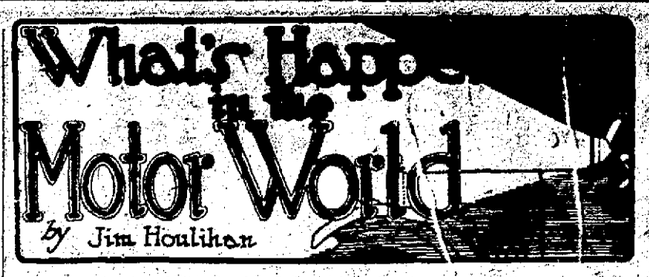
CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 7.—With the rounding out of 52 years of continuous service in June, friends of Fire Chief George A. Wallace claimed he is the oldest fireman in the world in point of service. Chief Wallace has been at the head of Cleveland's fire department for more than twenty years. Never in that long career has he had a demerit mark.

Wallace, 73 years old, joined the department in 1869. He carries himself like a man of 40. When he joined the department there were 85 members, 78 of whom are now dead. He has seen the hand apparatus of volunteer firemen give way to the fire horse and has seen the horse replaced by motor apparatus, the local department being completely motorized.

Los Angeles Fights For Sierra Power

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7. — The laws of the state supersedes those of the municipality in condemnation proceedings and the City of Los Angeles has complied with state law in its suit against the South Sierra Power Co., to condemn 320 acres in the Owens river gorge for hydro-electric development purposes it was argued by attorneys for the city before the U. S. District court here today.

The company claimed the city had adopted no ordinance authorizing the proceedings. In arguments on behalf of the city it was set forth today that a resolution by the city council was, under the state law, sufficient.



Just a bit of advice to be taken for what it's worth. If anyone in Oakland has business to transact with the motor car dealers of this city, the time to consummate it is on either Wednesday or Thursday.

Friday noon the majority of them will be started on the Feather River Inn run, to be gone until next Monday night. With forty cars entered, and all plans completed, the annual TRIBUNE tour starts from the ferry building in San Francisco at 11 a. m. Friday. The cars will be met on the Oakland side by the transbay delegations and the whole "motorcade" will wind out through the streets of this city on the way to Feather River Inn.

The San Francisco and Oakland tourists will line up in Clay street for the start of the tour. They will be given complete road maps and rules of the run before the start.

Billy Hughson, well-known motor car expert, will pilot his trusty Ford on the trip. This is the same car he drove into Bear valley, near Los Angeles, on the motor car dealers' run, and with which he made a perfect score.

MRS. WEBSTER AN ENTRANT.

Mrs. P. K. Webster, Oakland automobile dealer, will drive her own Sheridan, and will make the contestants step to keep up with her.

An official, Harold L. Arnold—Hamlin & Boqua—Essex car will be in line, Frank Perkins will drive the machine and will be accompanied by E. A. Hamlin or A. E. Boqua of the Oakland agency.

Mayor Davie of Oakland will lead the parade in a Lincoln piloted by James Gray, manager of the Walter M. Murphy Motors Company. With him will be Robert W. Martland, secretary-manager of the California Automobile Trade Association, and George Haberfelde, president.

Gray in his Lincoln will set the pace.

Frank Herman will leave Thursday morning in his Buick with a load of road signs, to post the roads so that all tourists will be able to find their way without trouble.

The first night's stop will be Grass Valley and Nevada City. These two places are only four miles apart. There will be a dance at Grass Valley Elks' Club Friday night.

Saturday morning the tour will leave early and lunch at Sierra City, where the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce promises to provide a trout feed. The party will arrive at Feather River Inn early enough Saturday night to rest up before dinner. That evening there will be a dance at the inn and other entertainment features.

WASHINGTON NOTES

WASHINGTON, June 7. — The House today adopted a resolution providing for an inquiry into agricultural conditions by a joint congressional committee.

An appropriation of $50,000,000 for the war finance corporation to be used in making loans on farm securities is provided in a bill introduced in th eHouse this afternoon by Representative Hudspeth of Texas.

AIR STATION COMMANDER.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Commander Frank R. McCary has been ordered to the command of the air station at San Diego, Cal., from his present post aboard the U. S. S. Idaho of the Pacific fleet, it was announced in naval orders made public here today.

Funeral Is Delayed By Row Over Union

CHICAGO, June 7. — The funeral of Miss Martha Veroch, a prominent Bohemian girl, was in progress from her late residence in Chicago. There were fifty-two motor cars in attendance, carrying many Bohemian societies. A band of fifty pieces struck up a mournful dirge. The band was non-union. The chauffeurs hooted the band. An agent of the Musicians' Union kicked in the sides of the bass drum. The corpse was slowly carried to the hearse. The band headed the procession. It walked off, but nothing else stirred. The union chauffeurs refused to follow a non-union band. The funeral was halted for two hours.

The band leader said he had an agreement to play certain music, and he was ging to do it. Relatives begged him to take his band away, and they would pay him double. He refused. The chauffers made ready to wipe up the street with the band. The leader then ordered the musicians to quit and the procession took up itis course to the grave.

Personal Injury Cases Up in Court

MARTINEZ, June 7.—Trial of a suit instituted by the Pullman Water company against Alois J. Meindersee and Sheriff R. R. Veale, in which an injunction is asked to prevent the defendants from levying on property owned by the company in Richmond to satisfy a $5000 judgment, was set for June 13 by Spuerior Judge R. H. Latimer today. The judgment was rendered in favor of Mrs. Meindersee several months ago for injuries she sustained by falling into a ditch.

Date of trial of two damage suits was set in Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie's court. An action filed by George Huffman against the Martinez Hotel company for injuries he claims he sustained through the alleged negligence of the hotel management was set for June 21. September 20 was set as the time of trial of a $25,000 damage action against the Southern Pacific company filed by L. H. Bryan, former station agent, who charges false arrest.

Stockton Girl, S. F. Man Wed At Tracy

TRACY, June 7.—Another young couple gave their friends the slip and were married here yesterday at high noon by Justice of the Peace S. S. McLain in his offices.

The attractive bride was Josephine Baumgarten just turned 18 and a member of a prominent Stockton family, while the lucky bridegroom was Gerald H. Russell of San Francisco, who is employed as a salesman.

Immediately after the knot was tied the happy couple took the stage for San Francisco.

Walnut Creek Votes On Disincorporation

WALNUT CREEK, June 7.—Citizens of Walnut Creek are balloting today on a proposal to disincorporate the town. The election was called last month by the board of trustees on petition. Opponents of disincorporation charge the move is sponsored by persons dissatisfied with paving plans and costs of improvements contemplated by the board and the report that a plan is afoot to bond the city for a water system. Two disincorporation moves have been defeated at elections.

Many of the oldest settlers of Sierra and Plumas counties attended the meeting. Some of the pioneers were Mrs. E. McGiney, 84 years old; Mrs. Charles Heintzen, 83 years old; Mrs. Henry Kinkdon, 86 years old, and Mrs. William Simms, 90 years old, all of Sierra county. Plumas county settlers included Dr. J. Rhinehart and Mrs. A. J. McGuire.

FORMER WEEDS NOW VALUABLE

CALGARY, Alta., June 7.—Conditions change with the time. Take the dandelion, for instance. It was once a hated plant assiduously pruned from the landscape. But it has come into great favor, according to reports from the arid nation to the south, which hint that the long-despised weed is being squeezed into a palatable wine with a neat wallop.

Then there is the sunflower, probably forefather of the dandelion. It, too, was classed with nature's pests down through the ages. But this summer square miles of yellow fields will form a patchwork over the rich agricultural stretches from Winnipeg to the Canadian Rockies. The value of the 1921 sunflower silage crop will mount into huge figures.

Scientific tests have disclosed that the nutritive value of sunflower silage, ton for ton, is equal to corn fodder. The yield is nearly double that of any other silage crop, running from thirty to thirty-five tons to an acre. When ripe the plants stand thirteen feet high, making a gorgeous field of yellow blossoms.

Recent tests on cattle show butterfat 3.6 from sunflower feed, 3.5 from peas and oats, and 3.4 from corn. Sunflowers produce 1.2 pounds more of milk than the next best silage, these tests show, and a higher percentage of butterfat. The tests further prove that the sunflower will more than double the livestock carrying capacity of the land. Its value in developing the rich mixed farming sections of Western Canada is calculated in large figures.

Halley's comet has been observed twenty-nine times in its seventy-six year passage around the sun.

Club Women Invite Husbands To Dinner

RICHMOND, June 7.—The Richmond Club closed its season last evening with a dinner at which the husbands of members were guests. Cards and dancing followed. At the final business meeting of the club Mrs. H. A. Silver, retiring president, thanked the women for cooperation during the year and excellent results.

COMPETITION

Competition is the life of business. Without competition, the public would be badly served, for business is only the process of serving the public—at a profit. Man may exist when food, housing and means to cover the body are available. But man is not satisfied to merely exist. We must progress and progress comes only with TRANSPORTATION.

Competition in transportation makes better transportation. Improved transportation means better food, better homes and better clothing. Life itself is better in every way.

The SIX MINUTE FERRY COMPANY will bring about better transportation.

Motor vehicles do now cross the Bay. However, they start to cross the Bay, usually after a vexatious delay, and they do not cross by a logical route.

The Automobile Ferry of the SIX MINUTE FERRY COMPANY will adopt the most logical route. Its equipment will be of the best. It will be directed by men who are not only proven ferry constructors and operators, but men who say "THE PUBLIC BE SERVED."

There is a demand for this service. Satisfactory service will increase the demand. Profits cannot help being commensurate with the service and the demand.

Eliminate the question of your duty as a citizen. Analyze this project as an INVESTOR.

WOMAN TRAPPED IN TRAIN BY FLOOD TELLS OF ESCAPE

Mrs. Ruby Ellis and 9-Year-Old Daughter Near Death As Coach Overturns.

PUEBLO, Colo., June 7.—A graphic description of passengers caught by the flood in the Missouri-Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande trains during the flood here Friday night was given today by Mrs. Ruby Ellis of Wichita, Kan., who was imprisoned in an overturned Pullman coach on the Denver & Rio Grande with her 9-year-old daughter for more than four hours.

"We were in the car next to the engine, and the train was pulled out of the station yard to a point near the river," Mrs. Ellis said. "It seemed as though we were only 20 feet from the river bank. The car turned over gradually as the water rushed under the bottom. It seemed that the others turned one by one shortly afterwards.

"The car turned on the right side and my little daughter, Mildred Mary, and I were thrown to the bottom of the car into the water. I struggled to the surface and found mattresses and bedding over me. Then I found my little girl and pulled her to the top of the car which was not yet filled with water. We stood on the rods of the upper berths and held on the rods on the top of the car.

WATER REACHES CHIN.

"The water rose rapidly until it had reached my chin. My little girl was clinging to my neck. Fortunately the ventilator windows were opened and we were able to breathe freely.

"I had given up hope of life when the water came to my chin. Mildred Mary had not cried or complained up to this time and she asked:

"'What shall I do mother?' and I told her to pray.

"Then she repeated over and over: 'Jesus, I trust you.'

"It seemed only a few minutes then until the water began to recede. We made our way to the end of the car where some women in the train had broken out a window and were helped to the side of the coach by the rescue party. They carried us to the Nuckols Packing plant."

TRAINS TO BE SEARCHED.

Mrs. Ellis had no idea of the number drowned in the two trains. Two of the passengers, whose names she did not know, were not seen by her in the group of rescued, she said.

No additional bodies were taken from the overturned trains today. Rescue parties were able to reach the trains today and searched through all cars, it was announced. The bedding, in the bottom of the cars had not been removed yet, and it was stated there was a slight possibility that some bodies might yet be found.

Age May Send Youth To Cell in Prison

MARTINEZ, June 7.—T. C. Terhune, sentenced from here three weeks ago with Harvey Hamel and Joseph Piva to the Preston School of Industry at Ione for burglary, today faces the possibility of a San Quentin sentence on account of his age. Preston officials have notified District Attorney Tinning that Terhune is 26 years old, and not 19 as he represented. Tinning in investigating his age, and if it is found to be more than 21 he will be returned here to face Superior Judge R. H. Latimer. The trio pleaded guilty to robbing the cabin of Charles Eskstrom of a $500 accordeon.

FALLS INTO ACID.

MARTINEZ, June 7.—Joe Ramos, 20, an employee of the Shell Oil company, was severely burned late yesterday afternoon when he fell into a pit containing sludge acid. At the hospital today it was said that while Ramos' burns are extremely severe, he will probably survive.

TRUANT OFFICER QUITS.

MARTINEZ, June 7.—Anthony Reggiardo, appointed a year ago by the board of supervisors as county school attendance officer, resigned the post yesterday afternoon. His resignation was accepted by the board. Reggiardo is contemplating a business venture in Martinez.

SOLO CAROLA

THE MIRACLE PLAYER

Here is a player piano of limitless scope. It is truly a Solo Player, accenting every melody note, subduing the surrounding harmony to a velvet softness, answering every whim of the guiding hand with absolute perfection and retaining its solo features, no matter in what key the composition is played—a feature impossible to any other solo instrument.

To those who love the classics, who would create or interpret real music, the Solo Carola is a very real boon. Its unmatched musical beauty makes it really a miracle among Player Pianos.

NATION'S CAPITAL IS NORMAL AGAIN, TOURISTS RETURN

Washington Resumes Old Pre-War Appearance, With the White House Open to All.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Long kept out of Washington because of the exigencies of war and the aftermath of war conditions, tourists are beginning to flock back to the capital this spring in ever-increasing numbers. They first began to arrive in noticeable numbers about inauguration time, when the capital foliage was just beginning to emerge from its long winter's sleep, and now that the Japanese cherry trees are blooming in Potomac Park and the magnolias are gleaming against the faint green flush of reborn grass, they are here in full force.

Washington is "returning to normalcy" in more ways than one. The tourists are back, the White House grounds are open again; it is again possible to go through the White House proper, and one can take pictures about the capitol without being followed around by a gumshoe gent, or being barked at by an irate guard who has visions of deep, dark, dark foreign plots.

THEY COME AGAIN.

From all over the states they come. Languid millionaires stop off here on their way up north from spending an arduous winter on the sun-kissed sands of Florida. Sturdy farmers from the south and mid-west mingle with them in the hotels. Three-gallon hats of glossy sheen bob in and out with sombreros and derbys.

Augmenting the regular tourists this spring are thousands of perennial job seekers who cluster about a change in administration as flies about a molasses jug. Many of them are really tourists. Tehy mentally excused a sight-seeing trip to Washington on the ground that they might hook on in some capacity with the new administration. Thousands already have seen the sights and gone back home poorer of pocket and richer of experience.

The "ballyhoo" men who conduct the sight-seeing buses are reaping a harvest. For them it is really a return to normalcy. For several lean years they were forced to repeat monotonously many a day: "No, ma'am, yuh can't go through th' White House. Closed on account of th' war." And with slight variations as to place, it was the same advice concerning most of the other points that a man from South Dakota or Arizona wanted to see. The "ballyhoo" men are in clover again. They solicit patronage on the sidewalks with langour because they don't have to bid for trade. It comes to them.

BALLYHOOS BUSY.

To the ballyhoo artists all tourists are "yaps," just as to circus men all patrons are "rubes." It is not exactly a term of derision, but rather one of affection. The first thing a "yap" wants to see is the White House. In ninety-nine cases out of one hundred the big white mansion on Pennsylvania avenue is uppermost in his mind when he gets off the train at Union station. The Capitol comes next, then the Washington monument, the Treasury, Mount Vernon, Arlington Cemetery, and so on down the line of the lesser known of Washington's points of interest.

This year there are many new points of interest added to the sight-seeing routes. The completion of the beautiful Lincoln Memorial, standing, solitary and alone by the banks of the muddy Potomac, is a conspicuous one, as is also the Arlington Memorial Amphitheatre, from which can be obtained the most beautiful view of the Capitol city.

And not the least of the new places of interest is a flat-looking house in S street, where Woodrow Wilson has retired to his books and reminiscences of past glories. The Wilson home has been added to the routes, and it is proving almost as big an attraction as the White House itself. The sightseers, however, seldom see any signs of activity about the dull-looking house. The garden where the former President takes his airings is in the rear of the house, shut off from the street view.

WHITE HOUSE GATES OPEN.

Many now calling themselves Washingtonians, who came to the capital during the war, were in the class of tourists themselves when the Hardings first threw open the gates of the beautiful White House grounds. The gates were swung open as soon as Mrs. Harding could give the order after the return from the inaugural ceremonies at the Capitol. From that moment on there has been a constant stream of people circulating about the semi-circular walk that leads up to the veranda.

The first crowds in their exuberance were not particularly solicitous about the foliage, and the gardeners have had to labor diligently to repair the ravages of their feet. But the throngs are more orderly now and give the uniformed guards but little difficulty.

Inside the White House, however, the sightseers have to be watched sometimes. The mania for souvenirs, inherent in the American tourist, is ever ready to crop out and is the bane of the guards' lives. Tassels have been clipped from curtains and draperies despite watchfulness. And as for palms, they are shortlived in the White House. The ordinary life of a healthy palm is about four weeks. People will strip off the long blades, and the guards pay little attention to them, evidently figuring that palms are cheaper for the Government than legs of chairs and candelabra.

Washington has "returned to normalcy," at least so far as the tourist is concerned.

Booze Ladened Wind Lands Two in Jail

STOCKTON, June 7. A chance puff of wind landed Dominic Aldaba and Michael Treasalent in jail here last night, and two barrels of wine in safekeeping as evidence. Traffic officer Dubois took them to the police station for driving a truck without a tail light. They were about to be released when a sudden gust of wind brought an unmistakable odor t othe nostrils. Dubois then investigated the contents of the truck. The men claimed to be sheepherders.

Woman Tells of Her Greatest Success Was Not Being Elected to Congress

Lands Her Grandfather, Who Was Imprisoned Two Years in Georgia For His Vigorous Defense of Cherokees

Give Her Nation of Mothers, Is Her Appeal, and She Weclares That She Cares Not Who the Husbands May Be

All Her Life She Was Opposed To Woman's Suffrage; Now It Is Her Great Duty to Vote —Office Forced On Her

By ALICE M. ROBERTSON.
(Congresswoman from Oklahoma.)

People think I am puffed up because I have been elected to the House of Representatives from Oklahoma. I am puffed up about it. But I'm prouder of several other things.

"I'm proud that my grandfather spent nearly four years in jail as a result of his refusal to agree to the way the Cherokee Indians were treated back in the 30's, and I'm proud that I've raised under my own wing 13 young women who have all made good as workers, wives, mothers, citizens of the United States.

My life has been a disappointment to me.

I could have done so much more, I often think, with a little more favorable circumstances at the beginning, gone so much farther, "put over" so much bigger things.

But I know that I have worked through others, and I know the results of my work better than anyone else, and it gives me satisfaction and pride.

That is the test of a life. It is not the things you personally accomplish. It is the people who through your offices are able to accomplish, the number and quality of these people, which determines your record, as I verily believe, at the judgment day.

Nearly all my "granddaughters," as I call them, have married and are living happily. They have been brought up to love life and to do the right things as well as they may. The one I had longest, Susanne Barnett, had been in my care from her 6th to her 26th years, when she married.

WARNING, NOT EXAMPLE.

"I've not married, you see. I tell them all that I'm a warning, not an example, and that there is nothing I think so little of as a poor imitation.

I've told my girls that they must realize their birthright. God made man first, you know. Then he made woman and improved upon his job.

Bear in mind that he made her from a rib close to the man's heart. Around that nucleus he built a superior being. The woman must recognize her birthright and her duty, and make good. Her first and her greatest way of making good is through her motherhood.

I tell the girls this:

"Give me a nation of great mothers and I care not who the husbands be."

You may be surprised when I tell you that all my life I was anti-suffrage. That's a fact. But when it became one's duty to vote, that was a different matter. The people wanted me. It would be a long story if I told you the how and why of it, but they did.

This political appointment—which, by the way, is by no means what I consider the greatest honor in my life—came wholly without my foreseeing it until a very short time before the event, and it came as a result of doing the next thing.

ONE HIGHER UP.

If one does that, there is always someone else farther along who is beckoning a step higher. The task done means that you are needed for another task, usually a bigger one. It was a great thrill to me, though. It is still.

The one discouraging thing is that some people seem to think that since being elected my whole mind and nature has changed so that I can say great, ponderous things for the world to admire. I can't, and I won't try.

A politician must get up his pet phrases and catch words and so on, but man or woman, he's the same stuff, the same elements which he or she was the day of their birth. I tell them all they'll have to take me as I am, and so far they've been very nice about it.

They have been nicer than I could have dreamed down in Washington and principally, I think, because I have not tried to "butt in" or make myself too conspicuous.

For example, I am the only woman today in the United States who can go on the floor of the Senate.

Jeanette Rankin had, of course, the same privilege, but her privilege expired when her time of service in the House was at an end. But being a present member of the House I can go into the Senate chamber during a session.

SENATE PRIVILEGE.

The other day I wanted to see our Senator Harold. Outside I told two of the Senators I wished to see him, and had sent him a message.

"But come on in," said those gallant gentlemen, taking me ach by an arm, and trying to pull me along. "It's your right, you know."

I backed away.

"Gentlemen," I said, "it may be my right. It would have been my right, only a few months ago, to have gone into a barroom, put my foot on the rail and taken a drink. But I didn't want to use that right. Of course, this isn't the same thing. Just the same,

ALICE M. ROBERTSON.

I'm the only woman about, and I think it would be better for me to see Senator Harold right here. Why, good heavens, gentlemen, gentlemen, if I went in there I'd feel like the mouse at the banquet. I'd expect someone to come and shove me out with a broom!"

I met once an old Quaker couple. They had been married 60 years, and they were out inspecting, for the Friends, the Indian reservations, and I was showing them around.

"If thee wishes to keep the body young, Alice," said the wife, "thee must keep a young heart."

I never forgot it.

They were older than I am now, but they were working, not sightseeing, and they worked for years after that—with young hearts.

LOT NOT EASY ONE.

My lot was not an easy one, but it is one in which I glory. My family were refugees from Georgia at the time of the Civil War. They had come down there from the North.

They called my father a missionary, a Yankee Abolitionist.

He kept pretty quiet about it. But it meant long, hard years to follow, for us all. And still worse things for the Indians.

Most of my life had been spent doing missionary work among the Cherokees. The chapter of the treatment of the Cherokees by the soldiers and politicians, back there in the '30's, is not wholly creditable. Men have forgotten it. God remembers it. It is recorded in his book. In time justice will be done. God isn't dead.

In the beginning of this article I said that the thing I am proudest of is not this great honor of election to the House. The greatest things are the lives of my "grandchildren" and the work of my ancestors, which I have been able to carry forward, among the Cherokees.

You must understand that my grandfather, who came from these parts, and was educated for missionary work at Andover, was the man who put into type the alphabet made for the Indians by one of the greatest men America has ever seen—Sequoyah, of the Cherokkee tribe. You will observe by his name that every syllable of the Cherokee tongue ends with a vowel sound. Sequoyah perfected an alphabet of 84 characters, representing these sounds.

GRANDFATHER'S WORK.

My grandfather was asked to go out to the Cherokee Indians while he was a young student at Andover. Bear in mind that at the time the Cherokee Indians were farther off from Andover, judging by time and difficulty and danger of travel, than China is today from the United States.

My grandfather's name was Worcester, and he was born in that city of Massachusetts. Lucy Winthrop was an ancestor of mine. She went to Boston with John Winthrop at a time when, I believe, women voted in town meetings there.

I told you how my father was a refugee at the outbreak of the Civil war—a missionary, driven out for his beliefs. My grandfather was persecuted for the same reason.

He refused to be a party to the ejection of the Indians, and they decided to put him in jail. He knew that. But he had a child who had just died and my grandmother was sick in bed. They thought he had been "scouting"—"scouting" in those days meant hiding about the country from the sheriff—but they thought they might find him at home because of his family.

They were right. They found him, and my grandmother didn't shed a tear. She put up her arms when they came, drew her husband down to her, kissed him and said: "Have no fear. Go with them. The Lord will care for us." And he went.

IMPRISONED TWO YEARS.

And he stayed in prison two years. Then the country began asking whether Georgia had any right to act as she did toward the Indians, and as she had acted toward some political prisoners, and decided she hadn't.

Georgia wasn't disposed to argue the matter at that time. She merely stuck by her actions and her ideas. At last Chief Justice Marshall handed down the decision which ultimately set my grandfather free.

Well, I'm proud of those stripes. I'm even proud that when our baby, the youngest of his family, came into the cell to talk to her daddy she was frightened by the sight of the stripes, the shaven head and face, and screamed and tried to run away, until she heard his voice. And grandmother never shed a tear. To all who offered sympathy she said: "Should I be otherwise than happy that my husband stands invincibly for what is right."

That's my heritage, and may I never betray it.

That's what the people of the United States want as they never wanted it before.

That's how we won out in Oklahoma.

In spite of everything; in spite of a Democratic machine so powerful that it tried to stop women voting at the polls. Why, I know a woman—she was a Republican and her husband a Democrat, too, who was put off and out by the clerk at the booth when she went to the polls.

VOTING BY FORCE.

Her husband was one of the good Democrats, one of the real Democrats and citizens of this land. He took out his little six-shooter and visited the polling booth.

"My wife will vote, good and plenty," he remarked to the clerk, "or there will be a little trouble hereabouts."

That was a man above party. He saw that his wife voted, despite the fact that her vote nullified his. But they do make a lot of men like that out west.

When I ran I was in a position to say this to my party machine:

"You've forced my candidacy on me. You've asked me to be a candidate and forced my candidacy on me. I haven't asked you for any favors. I am making you no promises. I can't be bought. I can't be sold. I can't be intimidated."

That last is my war-cry. Isn't it a pretty good one.

I've said that I didn't believe in woman's suffrage. But all that's changed. Since women, wives, mothers and single women have to vote; since I can't be a real sure enough wife or mother, it's up to me to help all the women who are what I'd like to be to come into their own, isn't it?

WOMEN MUST KNOW.

And I'll tell you what I'm telling all the women about that. I'm telling them to quit forming this or that woman's party.

To me that is simply plain laziness. It's the way of those who are not willing to work up from the bottom. In order to do cleaning up work in our politics, the women must enter the different political parties and work up from the bottom, exactly as the men do. Only by working in that way will they be a lasting healthy political influence.

I believe in God, my country, and the Republican party.

Hence, I'm working as a Republican.

On the other hand, it isn't necessary to be a Republican to believe in God or your country, and all I say is that whatever her party, the woman must get down to business, meet the men fair and square, work with or against them, as her reasons and conscience dictate. But first of all, to accomplish their great ends, the woman must know. That's a motto I've suggested for Republican clubs we are forming out in Oklahoma. "W. M. K." Women must know. In nothing as in politics is it so true that knowledge is power.

TEACH MEN LESSON

Also, not to be so strong a party woman as to become a rank, thoughtless partisan.

The other day in Washington I was in the House restaurant when a man came alongside and sat down.

He was Victor Berger, representing, he said, his paper.

In a minute along came one of the Democratic leaders from the South, very conservative, highly opinionated.

Now I had less sympathy with Berger than I had with my other neighbor. But I was just between the two extremes, and it came to me that my position at the table symbolized my position in politics pretty well.

We didn't fight.

We shook hands, exchanged the news of the day, and went our ways.

That is the way I want to see women work in politics—of the principle on which they should work anyhow, and I think that's the way they are going to go about it. And when they do—I hope we may teach some men I know a little lesson.

FRANCE TO SPEND HALF BILLION TO HARNESS RHONE

PARIS, June 7.—Financial experts and engineers have set to work on the gigantic project by which France plans to harness the river Rhone within the next few years at a cost of about half a billion dollars.

The undertaking will begin in 1924 and is expected to take more than six years. When it is completed France expects to derive benefits in electrical power, navigation and for the irrigation of huge tracts of lands that will more than wipe out her economic losses of the war.

President Millerand has just completed a tour along the Rhone. He was accompanied by a score of engineers and by officials of the departments through which the Rhone flows. Swiss officials met him near the Swiss frontier and informed him that their government had approved the plans.

The Rhone project contemplates the erection of seventeen big power houses, from the Swiss border to the sea. It is estimated that the Rhone waterfalls will develop more than 1,700,000 horsepower, of which 800,000 can be utilized, energy equivalent to that produced by 6,000,000 tons of coal.

It is estimated that 400,000 acres of land can be irrigated and put under cultivation when the work is completed. Furthermore, a wide stretch of waterway connecting the River Rhone with the Mediterranean Sea, long the dream of European engineers, will be available.

The government plans to defray a large share of the expense, cities and departments directly benefiting paying the remainder. A number of private corporations which have been granted concessions will subscribe large sums.

Natural gas and coal gas are both combustible gases, but are not identical.

Stock Feeding Makes Beet Growing Pay

SALT LAKE CITY, June 7. — A close relation exists between the production of sugar beets and the raising of livestock, especially cattle, according to M. M. Justic of the bureau of crops, who has just received the results of a survey on the question made in western states.

"The keeping of livestock enables the beet grower to make the best possible use of the beet tops, which, in connection with roughage, easily produced, keeps the livestock in good condition and enables the farmer to return the mineral element in the tops to the soil and increase the supply of humus, which is of especial importance in irrigated sections. Sheep as well as cattle thrive on beet tops, but it is wise to feed them sparingly at first. The by-products of the beet field and sugar mill that are of especial importance to the farmer are the beet tops, pulp, molasses and the waste lime."

Do You Know that New York City Was Once an Island?

She must learn them if she wishes to dominate the Pacific Coast as New York does the Atlantic.

There is a striking parallel between the things Nature did for San Francisco and New York.

Marvelous harbors, river roads as well as sea roads, advantageous geographical position—these things were the birthright of both cities.

They said, "Manhattan Island is large enough only for our workshop. Long Island must be our home.

"We cannot waste the time of our million workers on the East River ferries.

They flung Brooklyn Bridge across East River.

They did not listen to the wails of the ferry-boat proprietors.

They did not listen to dismal prophecies that New York was attempting a task that belonged fifty years in the future.

With its building, New York ceased to be an island.

Today there are four great bridges over East River. The subway and the Long Island Railroad burrow under it.

East River is no longer a bar to New York's growth. Manhattan Island and Long Island are literally one.

Long Island houses New York's workers. Brooklyn, Flushing, Jamaica Plains, Long Island City, Port Washington, Forest Hills, Garden City; these are a few of the Long Island communities that furnish every conceivable variety of home, from the workingman's cottage to the millionaire's mansion.

The bridges, the tubes, have built them every one, because they permitted rapid transportation.

As for New York itself, the workshop, there is no need to remind you what the bridges built there.

What of the Jersey shore, to the west of New York, across the Hudson, served by the ferry boats?

What have the ferry boats built?

Study the railroads that enter New York.

Because it landed its passengers in the heart of New York City.

As long as the Pennsylvania railroad had its terminal at Jersey City and all its passengers were compelled to ferry across the Hudson, it never served to help build New York.

Not until the Pennsylvania tunneled under the Hudson, linking the Jersey shore and Manhattan Island did it become a vital factor in New York's transportation.

One significant thing to remember about the building of Brooklyn Bridge is this:

They knew that two could make a bargain and both profit by it.

Brooklyn knew that the tide that poured across the bridge in the morning would return in the evening.

They knew that stagnation of traffic, not motion, was the thing to be feared.

We believe the project to bridge the bay is as big as the Bay Region's future.

For that reason we believe it larger than the interests of any one man or set of men.

We believe it imperative for the workers of San Francisco to have more room for their homes than the city hills provide.

We believe the Bay Region must follow New York's example and provide the room for homes by means of a bridge and rapid transportation, rail and motor, between Alameda County and San Francisco.

We believe that such a bridge could be made to pay for itself in tolls.

We believe that just as the time came to New York when it could no longer afford to remain an island, that the time has come when the Bay Region can no longer afford to have San Francisco remain a peninsula.

THIS is the fourth of a series of pronouncements for a Greater San Francisco Bay District. Whether you agree with it or not, approve or disapprove, cut out this page to save and file, as you will want the whole series.

FIREMAN AVERTS THREE-STORY LEAP BY AGED WOMAN

Near Panic Follows Blaze in S. F. Flats—Fire Horse Killed.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—An aged woman was saved from death by the prompt action of a fireman, damage amounting to several thousand dollars was done and thirty persons were sent scurrying to the street when fire broke out today in a row of six flats, 1128 to 1138 McAllister street. While en route to the blaze engine No. 6 collided with an automobile truck, so badly injuring one of the horses that the animal had to be shot.

The property is owned by the Languendorff Baking Company, which adjoins it on McAllister street, and which was menaced for a time by the flames. Mrs. Sarah Abnham, 60 years old, became excited by the alarm and, seeing smoke and fire deluging her home, was about to jump from a third-story window when rescued by Fireman Charles Lutz. Three alarms were turned in for the blaze, which was controlled with difficulty by reason of the high wind.

The accident to engine No. 6 occurred at Seventh and Stevenson streets. The sirens on the apparatus were blowing and the hose wagon had passed the corner safely. As the engine approached a truck belonging to the Marathon Automobile Company and driven by George Zilix backed suddenly into Seventh street. The fire horses were swerved around but one of them had his shoulder torn open and was in such pain that he had to be shot by Policeman J. Fredericks. Captain William J. Rees and Lieutenant Martin Tehaney, who were riding on the apparatus, had narrow escapes from injury. At the southern station Zilix was charged with violating a traffic ordinance.

Legion Asked To Help Burlingame

As a last step in her effort to secure executive clemency for her son, Paul Burlingame, convicted hold-up man, Mrs. Laura Burlingame today appealed to the San Francisco county council of the American Legion to use its influence with Governor Stephens. The legion has refused to take up the matter until a thorough investigation of all circumstances surrounding the sentencing of the wayward scion has been made.

Leon French, chairman of the San Francisco county council of the Legion, today called up Assistant District Attorney John U. Calkins Jr. for information concerning the case. Calkins declared the release of the boy would be a crime against society and cited Burlingame's long criminal record to show that it would be a disgrace for the legion to meddle with the case.

Heirs May Settle Fight Over Estate

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Prospects were reported bright today for a settlement of the prospective contests to the will of the late James K. Murray, who left a $15,000,000 estate, James E. Murray, Marcus M. Murray, nephews, Miss Mary A. Murray of Seattle, a niece, and representatives of the Golden and Flynn families of Pennsylvania are participating in conferences here with Mrs. Mary Haminon Murray, the widow, and Stuart Haldorn, her son, principal beneficiaries under the will left by the Montana land baron.

It was reported today that a compromise was being worked out which might result in two contests being dropped.

LOGAN GIVEN MANILA JOB.

The Department of Commerce has named George L. Logan of Berkeley as office manager at the Foreign and Domestic Commerce in Manila. Logan will remain a few days in San Francisco before departing for his new post, to discuss with other business men possibilities in the Philippines. Logan will stop at the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce while in San Francisco.

DEATH BY GAS AVERTED.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—An aged woman, known only as Bertha Bruan, was found unconscious from gas asphyxiation in a room at 1309 Fulton street, today. The cocks on the gas stove were open. At the Central Emergency hospital belief was expressed that Mrs. Braun would recover.

BURNS CAUSE DEATH.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—As a result of severe burns received Sunday in a fire at the Pacific Gas and Electric company's plant at Third and Army streets, Victor Garvalo, 52 years old, a laborer, living at San Bruno, died today at St. Luke's hospital.

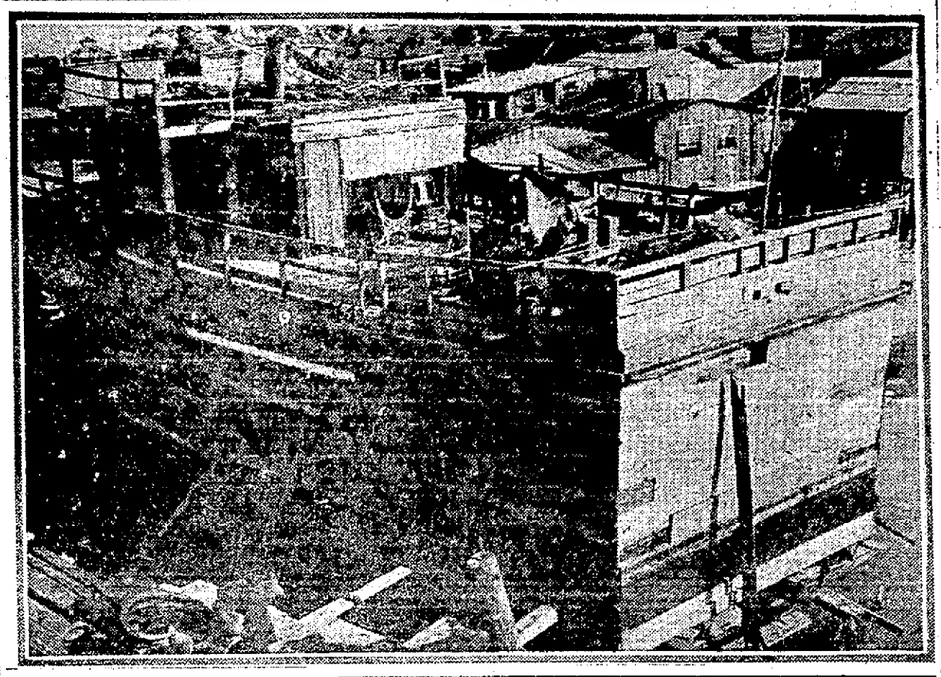
Ark of Modern Noah Is 15 Feet From Shore

Rev. J. E. Lewis worked three years at Los Angeles building his conception of a duplicate of the historical ship. He had hoped to sail for Liberia, a land of milk and honey, with himself as skipper and crew. In attempting to launch the ark, the boat went to the bottom and the hopes of "Noah" went with it, temporarily.—Photo by International.



LAKEVIEW SCHOOL WINS GARDEN CUP

Children of the Lakeview school are today permanent owners of the H. K. Jackson school garden cup, after having won it for three successive years, when judges yesterday ruled their garden the leading school garden of Oakland for the present year.

The cup was formally presented to the school at ceremonies conducted at the school yesterday. Ribbons were awarded to students of the various schools in honor of their individual achievements in school gardening under the direction of George Hensley, superintendent of school gardens.

The school garden contest was promoted by the Chamber of Commerce. The judges are Edwin Stearns, James Warrick and W. R. Armstrong. The contest for the cup was a close one as the Lakeview garden won over that of the Lockwood school by but one point.

Student ribbons were awarded as follows:

Big Naval Bill Is Put Up to Conferees

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The House sent the naval appropriation bill to conference today without instructing its conferees how they should vote on the Borah disarmament resolution.

By a vote of 34 to 30, the Senate late today approved an army of 170,000 men instead of the army of 120,000 provided for in the House by the army bill. Ten Republican senators voted for the smaller army.

S. F. Woman Robbed At Point of Pistol

ALDEN LIBRARY MEETING.

The regular weekly meeting will be held at the Alden Branch library this evening at 7:30 o'clock. There will be a discussion of plans for the celebration of the first anniversary of the club, which will take place on the evening of June 21, at the usual meeting place. All members and other persons interested in the study of the Spanish language and the countries of Spanish America are urged to attend.

S. O. S.! Ship "Ark" Sails for Liberia; Gets 15 Feet Away

Today it was reported as fifteen feet due west of the coast of Southern California and apparently not making satisfactory progress. No danger to the captain or his crew from possible sinking of the craft was felt, however, as the vessel was already resting comfortably on the bottom of the San Pedro harbor in shallow water.

The "Ark," a creation of wood and concrete, was built by the Reverend Captain for a journey to the promised land of Liberia, which, the ecclesiastical navigator informed newspaper men on the eve of his "departure," is a land flowing with milk and honey, and alleged to be located on the coast of Africa.

A large crowd, made up principally of small boys, gathered last night to bid the "Ark" a God-speed. Captain Lewis' activities in getting his craft pulled off the mud were somewhat embarrassed by numerous personal comments from the juvenile admirers of his craft.

The "Ark" was launched by the simple process of kicking out props which had held it upright during course of construction. Instead of sliding gracefully into the waters of the harbor, it squatted ponderously in the mud, careening enough to ship considerable water into the hold.

A steam tug, working for an hour, moved it fifteen feet offshore. Operations were suspended when the last spare hawser went the way of its predecessors by breaking in twain.

Pending a return of the tug today with more rope, Captain Lewis will put in his time on shore, be confided to interviewers, by perfecting the organization of the Liberia Transportation and Steamship company, capitalized at $20,000,000.

Although the state of California at present insists that the company handle all its financial affairs at the Liberia end of its operations, Captain Lewis expressed confidence that Californians would soon be permitted to have equal rights of participation in the sale of stock.

Bubbling Love Letter Gets Navy Man Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Lieutenant Andrew L. Parker, U. S. N., stationed at Mare Island navy yard, was granted a divorce by Superior Judge James Troutt today from Anne Parker, solely on the exhibition of a letter from an alleged affinity referred to as "Jimmie X.," and who, it is understood, is also in the navy at the submarine station at San Pedro. For two years, Lieutenant Parker testified, he lived happily with his wife, until he found, two weeks ago, two letters from the mysterious Jimmy. Only one of these he took to court. It reads:

Mare Island, Calif., Jan. 18, 1921.

My Own Anne: Back again, and of course my first thoughts are of you. Left 'Frisco last night at 8:30 and would have written on my way up, but couldn't find stationery. Sweetheart, I have so many things on my mind that it is very hard to do my work. If you only knew how much I love you and how much I really appreciate you, it would help some; but no one can explain.

If I could only take you away to some place where you could be alone with me, maybe you would be much happier. You are mine, dear, body and soul; the only way you are anything to "him" is by law, and as I told you before, the law doesn't trouble when it comes to our relation to each other. When I am with you I can't tell you things, for some reason, and it's awfully hard to write them, so you can guess, baby girl, how hard it is for me to explain myself.

Your eyes have told me many wonderful things—yesterday afternoon in particular dear—and you even spoke of things that made me realize what we are to each other. I am hazy as can be, so don't expect a sensible letter from me.

The world is so deceitful, but you just be fair and square to me so that I will have someone to love and hold in my arms now and then.

Maybe some day I can make you just as happy as I'd like. Then I would be satisfied, in a way. I had almost given up hope of finding you, Anne dear, but I had you in view before you ever knew the facts.

I've got the blues terrible today, but suppose it will cheer up by and by. It will seem a year for me to wait until Tuesday for you to come up on the boat to meet me. Don't forget baby, it leaves there at 9:45 a. m. and I will meet the boat unless I receive word that you can't get away.

Love Daddy? Honest? I'm all upset over you. I found many nice things about you that no one but me will ever know. The beautiful part of it is that it is natural with you and suits me to a T.

Honey, I must cut this short as it is a few minutes before we go to lunch. I hope to get a sweet letter from you soon, so I close, dear, with all my love and kisses to you. Regards to Sis. Your Daddy,

JIMMIE X.

P. S. We can have a long talk on the boat, sweetheart.

Husband Has Aversion to Paying Debts, Wife Asserts

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Newton E. Andruss, head of a motor supply company, was continually in hard luck from a financial standpoint and was possessed of a peculiar fascination for certain household necessities, according to a third amended complaint for divorce filed today by Mrs. Winifred J. Andruss.

She says that in his business her spouse was compelled to do a great deal of traveling selling motor parts. On his return, she says, he would bring towels, napkins and sheets, bearing the markings of the Southern Pacific Company, the Santa Fe and the Pullman company. At other times he would arrive with salt cellars, penholders, electric bulbs, laundry soap, paper and envelopes of the sort found in hotels. Not infrequently, she says, his pockets would yield loaf sugar, potatoes and pepper.

She was compelled, she says, to submit to his going through bankruptcy and to his being repeatedly in arrears in the house rent in their fashionable residence at 82 Jordan avenue. He refused, she sets forth, to put nickels in the telephone, causing her great humiliation when employees of the company would come to find out about the service. When they would ride on the street car he would endeavor, she charges, to avoid paying some of the fare. Even the children joshed him, she says, for not satisfying his garage bill.

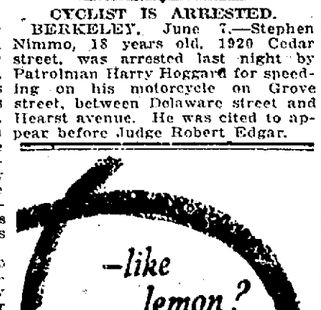
Finally, she asserts, the climax was reached when he borrowed $1200 from her father, which he did not repay and gave away their piano to satisfy a personal debt. Her protest yielded finally this response:

"Dearie, that's my failing, you've got to overlook it."

Through Attorney Franklin P. Bull she asks for $150 a month alimony and $200 counsel fees.

CYCLIST IS ARRESTED.

BERKELEY, June 7.—Stephen Nimmo, 18 years old, 1920 Cedar street, was arrested last night by Patrolman Harry Hoggard for speeding on his motorcycle on Grove street, between Delaware street and Hearst avenue. He was cited to appear before Judge Robert Edgar.



PRICE OF FUEL OIL TO GOVERN RATES FOR GAS

Railroad Board Hears Application of Cities For Lower Charge.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—After arguments before the State Railroad Commission today on the application of a group of California municipalities for adjustment downward of the gas rates charged by the Pacific Gas and Electric company, it was agreed these rates should be governed by the price of fuel oil.

With this understanding the commission undertook to reconsider its recent schedule, which allowed the company increases ranging from 5 cents to 15 cents a thousand cubic feet. Since this schedule was announced fuel oil has declined 25 cents a barrel.

Attorney C. P. Cutten of the Pacific Gas and Electric company declared that the company had suffered a deficit through low rates and that the new charges should be permitted to remain in effect. Assistant City Attorney John J. Dailey of San Francisco declared that he thought the company should have some allowance for a 12-cent increase in the price of oil earlier in the year but that he believed there should be some decrease in the present monthly charges.

CITY PREPARING SUMMER CAMP

Work on whipping into shape the Oakland municipal summer camp, located on the middle fork of the Tuolumne river in the Stanislaus National forest, 14 miles above Groveland, for campers from this city, was begun yesterday and arrangements are being completed to accommodate several hundred.

This camp of 100 acres in the Sierras, has been deeded to the city by the United States Forestry Service for a municipal camp, catering to the class of people whom lack of automobiles or other means of transportation prevents from spending the season in the outdoors. The camp, which is being conducted under the auspices of the recreation department, is open for anyone for almost any period, for an exceptionally low price. Information may be secured from the office of the Oakland Recreation Department, room 404, City Hall building.

AUTO TRANSPORTATION.

In order that the persons who make application to attend the camp are not required to depend on railroad transportation, automobile trucks equipped with upholstered seats will leave Oakland and carry the campers into the mountains, to the camp, and return.

Floored tents, equipped with individual cots and mattresses, will be provided, the campers to furnish their own bedding. Care has been taken to provide sanitary facilities which conform in every way with rules of the United States Forest Service and health boards. Plenty of wholesome, well-cooked food will be supplied, with two chefs in charge. An athletic field in the center of the camp will afford opportunities for games of volley ball, baseball, football and soccer, while a big open air camp fire with entertainment, to be furnished by the campers, will be the center of the night life. Two swimming pools, one suitable for experienced swimmers and the other for beginners and children, will be provided.

CAMP SCHEDULES.

Applications are being received by the recreation department and reservation are being taken up rapidly. Officials in charge of the summer outing declared that time extensions can be made upon application and the schedule for the camp will be flexible in order that those who do not have an opportunity to make reservations for the various dates can be taken care of.

The camp's schedule for this summer follows:

	Camp A	Camp B
June 6 to June 20	Men	Men
June 20 to July 4	Girls	Families (No boys over 12)
July 4 to July 18	Boys	Families
July 18 to Aug. 1	Girls	Families (No boys over 12)
Aug. 1 to Aug. 13	Boys	Families

Reservations will be made for family groups for periods of one week or longer.

All young people attending the boys' or girls' camp must do so under group supervision.

Oaklander Held in L. A. As Car Thief

Carl Morrison of Oakland is under arrest in Los Angeles and will be returned to Oakland to face a charge of stealing an automobile belonging to H. H. Patton. The car was taken last Saturday night. Morrison was arrested in Los Angeles last night in possession of the automobile. When questioned by the Los Angeles police, according to a telegram from the southern city, he maintained that he had been hired to drive the car to Los Angeles. A deputy sheriff will leave today for Los Angeles to bring Morrison back to Oakland.

Money, Paper Lost; Paper Is Returned

Mrs. Betty Troutwein, 3137 Peralta avenue, reported to the police last night that on Sunday night she left her purse in the dressing room of a local theater during the performance. When she returned for the purse it was not there. It contained $47, a card case, papers and keys. Yesterday afternoon the papers and keys were received by mail addressed to Mrs. Troutwein. The letter was mailed in Oakland.

Smith-Towner Bill Will Be Discussed

Tomorrow evening at 8 p. m. in the Rockridge Masonic Hall, College avenue and Keith, a public meeting is to be held when Lieutenant Gordon will speak on the Smith-Towner bill, now before Congress. The bill provides for a department of education with the secretary of same in the President's cabinet. The public is invited. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Protestant Publicity Bureau.

S. F. BOARD ASKS FOR CONFERENCE ON BAY BRIDGE

Chairman of Alameda County Supervisors Willing To Co-Operate.

Continuing the movement for the bridging of San Francisco bay started with the announcement last week of A. J. Rich, San Francisco broker, that he can shortly announce a definite bridging project, the San Francisco supervisors last night passed a resolution calling for a conference on the matter of representatives of the supervisors of Alameda, San Francisco and San Mateo counties.

The Civic League of Improvement Clubs of San Francisco has also passed a resolution calling for a bridging conference and calls upon chairmen of the supervisors of the three counties to appoint citizens' committees of one hundred to promote the matter of a bay bridge.

COMMITTEE PROMISED.

No formal word of either of the resolutions had been received by W. J. Hamilton, chairman of the Alameda county supervisors today. When unofficially advised of this action, he said, however, that he would co-operate by appointing a citizens' committee at once and that he would take up the bridging matter with the rest of the board at its next meeting in reference to the action requested in the resolution of the San Francisco board.

The San Francisco supervisors' resolution was prepared and presented by Supervisor Richard J. Welch. Welch declared that the purpose of his resolution was to arrange for a joint agreement of the counties involved for an investigation of the bay bridge projects.

Welch urges that the State Highway Act is sufficiently broad for the purpose of organizing a counties unit under provisions of the act to handle the bridge matter.

MRS. BREWER'S WILL ADMITTED

The will of Mrs. Margaret A. Brewer, wealthy resident of Piedmont and widow of John H. Brewer, pioneer Oakland attorney, disposing of an estate estimated to be worth about $200,000, was admitted to probate by Superior Judge E. C. Robinson today. Miss Anne W. Brewer, daughter, was appointed executrix without bond.

LEGACY FOR "REPUBLIC."

Mrs. Brewer, who died at her home, 770 Kingston street, May 7 last, made her will while visiting the George Junior Republic, near Chino, founded by Henry George, single taxer, last February, to which she left $2000.

Richardson & Richardson, attorneys for the executrix, state the republic is the pet charity of the daughter and that Mrs. Brewer became much interested in it while visiting there.

The will leaves varying amounts, from $150 to $3000, to distant relatives and remembers a number of charities, but makes no provision for the residue of the estate. The attorneys state that the balance, under the law, will be divided among the heirs, these being three daughters.

BEQUESTS TO CHARITY.

The charitable bequests were: Oakland Y. W. C. A., $1000; Oakland Ladies' Relief Society, $500; Oakland Social Settlement, $500; University of California Y. M. C. A., $1000; Oakland Y. M. C. A., $500; Alameda County Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, $100; George Junior Republic, $2000; Women's Board of Missions for the Pacific, $2000; Oakland First Congregational church, $2000.

SAYS PURITANISM WON'T LENGTHEN WOMEN'S SKIRTS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Puritanism won't lengthen women's skirts, the Rev. Dr. R. J. Campbell, Christ Church, Westminster, London, believes.

"The abuse of anything always furnishes its own corrective," the Rev. Campbell declared, and he indicated that he wasn't going to get worried over the ankles displayed on Market street.

"Remember this," he said, "the short skirt is more hygienic than the long skirt of past ages.

"Both men and women know immodesty when they see it. Don't try, as a remedy, the measures of the Puritans."

Dr. Campbell is in San Francisco filling the pulpit of the First Congregational Church for the summer.

Official Insists On Foreigners in Parade

SACRAMENTO, June 7.—Gus S. Turner, city commissioner of finance, yesterday stated he would resign from the Fourth of July committee and also recommend that the city cancel its appropriation of $2000 unless the objection to foreign races marching in the pageant is withdrawn.

Turner said the attitude of the committee would bar Italians, French, Russians and Chinese. Primarily the action is supposed to have been aimed at the Japanese, who always have a band and take part in the Independence Day celebration.

Suspect Is Halted After Shots Fired

Several shots were fired in an early morning chase by police near Webster and Sixth street when a man who had been stopped by Sergeant E. W. Brock for questioning broke and ran. Brock, Patrolman A. A. Macomber and Special Officer A. J. Delto chased the man for several blocks before overtaking and arresting him.

The man at the city jail gave the name of Fred Thomas and told police that he is a narcotic addict and was out seeking to purchase "dope." He is being held for investigation.

Dramatic Club of Fruitvale To Stage Comedy

MISS MARGARET MARY who will play leading role in "The Private Secretary" for benefit of St. Jarlath's church.

St. Jarlath's Players To Give Two Performances of "The Private Secretary."

St. Jarlath's Dramatic club of Fruitvale will stage Charles Hawtrey's three-act comedy, "The Private Secretary," tomorrow and Friday evenings in the Club hall, [illegible] avenue and Montana street, for the benefit of St. Jarlath's church. The performances will begin at 8:15 o'clock. Several of the cast of "The Fascinating Mrs. Brown," presented several months ago, are included in the new play with a few additions.

The best local and outside talent has been secured, the committee in charge announced, which brings the result above the usual standard of amateur theatricals. Rights of production were secured only after long negotiations. Miss Margaret Mary [illegible] has been assigned to play the feminine role in the play, [illegible] for which have been in progress for two weeks under the supervision of Mrs. Ira Alleb.

The cast selected for the play follows:

REDDING, June 7.—The recall movement against three [illegible] city trustees is dead. The [illegible] recall petition was not presented [illegible] the city council today as enough signatures were not obtained.

AMERICAN HOME IS PICTURED AS BEST IN WORLD

Housewives earn a salary that not infrequently surpasses that of the husband, according to Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who is a visitor in San Francisco for a part of the week in conference with California leaders.

"When wages for the amount of work performed and its nature are considered, the wife's earning power far outweighs the man's," she declares.

"Wives are listed in government census reports as having 'no vocation,' whereas they really have an aggregation of vocations," she says. Mrs. Winters has ideas on the monetary value of women's work.

That women can think or work alone for women is denied by the leader of 2,000,000 femminists.

"The biggest business of the world is the nationalization of home life," Mrs. Winter advances, and to this job she would assign men and women alike. The old-fashioned idea of the home as an individual institution is frowned upon by her.

"The American home should be made a national asset. Americans have the best homes in the world. We should carry our family life out into community, state and national service," she urges.

Women in rural communities are commended by the national executive for their pluck and business foresight in erecting clubhouses to serve as community centers.

Mrs. Winters was the guest of honor at a luncheon at the Fairmont hotel in San Francisco today, club women from all parts of the state assembling to greet her. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. W. A. Fitzgerald, who succeeds Mrs. Aaron Schloss as president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Fitzgerald now resides in Berkeley. Mrs. Winters was the principal speaker of the hour.

Police Free To Raid San Francisco Club

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Captain Charles Goff of the Southern Police Station will have three days in which he can raid the Yellowstone Club, 57 Sixth street, at will. Superior Judge Ward today dissolved the temporary injunction restraining police interference with the place and announced that he would hear arguments on the matter of a permanent injunction on Friday.

MAN FRIGHTENS WOMAN.

While standing waiting for a street car at Tenth and Washington streets last night Miss A. Sheppard was accosted by a man who got out of an automobile and asked her to get into the machine. She ran up Washington street. The man was about 50 years old and well dressed. Miss Sheppard resides at 1930 Bonita avenue. She took the number of the machine. The police are trying to locate the owner.

He recommends Herb Tea for All Ills

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 11th, 1921.

I had skin trouble for over four years, pimples and eruptions all over face, neck and parts of my body. They were annoying and itching terribly. I also had constipation. In vain I spent much money with doctors, including the best known specialists in America, and tried various remedies until my friend who was cured of throat trouble by drinking the Fong Wan Herb urged me to try it. I took a treatment and am well, have gained several pounds, face looks clear. I would recommend the herb tea for any suffering.

MANICURIST ASKS HEART DAMAGES OF SAUSAGE MAN

St. Francis Employee Tells in Legal Phraseology Her Shattered Romance.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7. — The alleged courtship of Leon Martin Brunner, wealthy sausage manufacturer, which is said to have won the heart of Miss Beatrice Christensen, manicurist at the Hotel St. Francis, became a public record today when she filed a $50,000 breach of promise suit against her former fiance.

Brunner is a resident of the Elks' club and a member of the firm of Rathjens & Kupfer, sausage manufacturers, and a nephew of M. Kupfer.

"COURTSHIP" DESCRIBED.

Miss Christensen alleges that Brunner started courting her in 1918 and that she first promised to marry him in July 1918. Since that time she has been ready to march to the altar any time her fiance might wish, she says.

Since that time, further, she has never appeared at theaters or social functions except in his company, and, according to her suit, Brunner informed his relatives and friends that he intended to marry her.

First serious difficulties came on January 31, when she charges that Brunner "unlawfully and without excuse assaulted her, so seriously injuring her that she was confined to her room for four days and was unable to resume work during the week following"—to use the words of her attorney, Robert Beale.

JILTED, SHE SAYS.

A state of armistice followed. Miss Christensen was called to Salt Lake in March by the death of her mother. While there, she says, Brunner telephoned her to return and bring her mother's household furnishings with her for their home and that he would pay the expense. She did so, but says that no expense money was forthcoming.

On her return, she says, she heard nothing from her fiance and when she finally wrote to him he answered on the telephone asking her not to annoy him further and that "as far as he was concerned she could 'go plumb to ——.'"

Bill Signed Ensures Berkeley Memorial

BERKELEY, June 7.—The paving and widening of Oxford street as the first step toward creating a memorial to the city's hero dead is assured as a result of the signing of an appropriation bill by Governor Stephens.

Owing to the fact that two bills were passed providing for the work the definite status of the improvement appropriation was not known until yesterday. The signing of assembly bill No. 50, introduced by Mrs. Anna Saylor, was one of the last acts of the governor on Friday, while senate bill No. 54, providing for the widening of the street, was ignored. According to Mrs. Saylor and city officials, the work desired by the city is assured in the assembly measure.

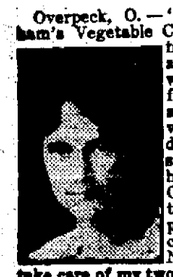
The improvement of Oxford street, from Allston way to Hearst avenue, is planned as the first step toward making the west frontage of the Berkeley campus a lasting memorial to the Berkeleyans who gave their lives in the world war. Memorial gates are planned to front the wide esplanade proposed for the thoroughfare.

TRACY WOMAN DIES.

TRACY, June 7.—The funeral of the late Emma Dearing Willis will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the late residence. She passed away Sunday. A husband, Benjamin F. Willis, and two children are left, besides a sister and two brothers. She was a native of Missouri, aged 62 years.

BEFORE AND AFTER CHILDBIRTH

Mrs. Williams Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Kept Her in Health



Overpeck, O. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me both before and after my baby was born. I suffered with backache, headache, was generally run down and weak. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers and decided to try it. Now I feel fine, take care of my two boys and do my own work. I recommend your medicine to anyone who is ailing. You may publish my testimonial if you think it will help others."—Mrs. CARRIE WILLIAMS, Overpeck, Ohio.

For more than forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been restoring women to health who suffered from irregularities, displacements, backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness or "the blues." Today there is hardly a town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman does not reside who has been made well by it. That is why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for such ailments.

How to Rid the Arms of Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.—Advertisement.

Guests Received Under Arbors at Society Event

SAN JOSE, June 7.—Mrs. Warren B. Reilly was hostess on Friday afternoon of last week at one of the season's most handsomely appointed "al fresco" affairs, which took place when she entertained more than forty of her friends at Nippon Mura, the beautiful and quaint tea garden in the Saratoga foothills. Cards were played under the vine-covered arbors, while the tea tables were prettily decorated with dainty yellow flowers. Among Mrs. Reilly's guests were: Mrs. O. A. Harlan, Mrs. J. P. Elder, Mrs. Harold Chase, Mrs. Roy Haywards, Mrs. Cora Hatch Johnston, Mrs. Sidney Farrington, Mrs. Wilbur Edwards, Mrs. Charles M. Richards, Mrs. George Richmond, Mrs. E. N. Richmond, Mrs. Benjamin C. Ledyard, Mrs. Sara Field, Mrs. Chester Herold, Mrs. P. A. Jordan, Mrs. L. D. Bohnett, Mrs. L. T. Smith, Mrs. Paul Rudolph, Mrs. Charles E. Hablutzel, Mrs. William Gay Alexander, Mrs. Charles F. Crothers, Mrs. Charles M. O'Brien, Mrs. George Singletary, Mrs. Walter Crider, Mrs. E. T. L. Pellier, Mrs. Arthur Curtner, Mrs. Harold Hunt, Mrs. A. Don Hines, Mrs. Leonard P. Edwards, Mrs. A. R. Thompson, Mrs. Edwin Willcox, Mrs. Mark F. Hopkins, Mrs. Charles R. Parkinson, Mrs. Frederick A. Curtiss, Mrs. Clarence B. Goodwin, Mrs. William Binder, Mrs. John G. Robinson, Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mrs. Newell H. Bullock, Miss Marian Thompson, Miss Sarah Cory, Miss Maynard, Miss Nellie Evans and Miss Edna Latta.

Another pleasant event of last Friday was the afternoon enjoyed by a dozen or more members of the Santa Clara Sewing Club, which assembled at the home of Mrs. Robert Irving Bentley in the Alameda. A basket luncheon was enjoyed in the pretty garden of the Bentley home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. O'Brien are at present spending a vacation trip at Tassajara Springs, where they will be for some time.

Mrs. Louis E. Wood very charmingly entertained a number of her friends at bridge and luncheon Saturday afternoon, the affair taking place at her home in Naglee park. The huge table around which the guests gathered was beautifully arranged with a gorgeous basket of flowers. Mrs. Wood's guests included Mrs. Louis Sonniksen, Mrs. George H. Anderson, Mrs. Floyd Stull, Mrs. Norman B. Kooser, Mrs. Frank G. King, Mrs. Edward Havens, Mrs. Frank E. Fleming, Mrs. Terry McKead, Mrs. J. Roy Phelps, Mrs. Walter H. Wood, Mrs. Charles P. Braslan, Mrs. Leo B. Archer, Mrs. P. H. Jarman.

Mrs. Georgiana Scherrer has just announced the engagement of her niece, Miss Emma Klein, to Miles Fitzgerald. The wedding has not been set as yet, however.

Mrs. L. R. Beverson is at home again here following a brief visit with several friends in San Francisco and other of the bay cities.

Neighbors of Woodcraft in Annual Session

Delegates Open Meeting Santa Rosa; Mayor Gives Welcome.

SANTA ROSA, June 7.—With 300 delegates from the Coast district of the Neighbors of Woodcraft in attendance, the biennial convention of the order has opened for a three-day session in this city.

The delegates were welcomed yesterday afternoon by Mayor W. E. Rutherford and Monday evening District Attorney George W. Hoyle addressed the convention in behalf of Sonoma county.

Mrs. Serena Spooncer, district inspector, called the first session of the order and officers were installed in their positions by the drill team under command of Captain Elizabeth Hinds of San Jose.

The regular business session will be held today.

District Past Guardian Minnie Savage, San Francisco; District Guardian Jessie Van Hooser, San Francisco; District Adviser Margaret Shreeve, Fortune; Clerk Mabel Campbell, San Francisco; Banker Maude Alberts, Santa Rosa; Magician Marie Miller, San Francisco; Captain Elizabeth Hinds, San Jose; Attendant May Wheeler, Eureka; Inner Sentinel Alice Gibbons, San Francisco; Outer Sentinel Cora Castro, Salinas; Manager Mary Davis, San Francisco; Ann Erickson, Glen Ellen; Kathryn Donovan, San Francisco; Musician Josephine Griswold, San Jose.

Man Believed Suicide, Dead In Auto Smash

Petaluma Rancher Found To Have Driven His Car Into the River.

PETALUMA, June 7.—Fred Buletti's dead body was found floating in Petaluma river, was after all not a suicide as was first reported. The Ford machine he was driving when last seen, was discovered yesterday at low tide and hauled from the bottom of the river at the foot of F street. There is no bridge over the river on this thoroughfare and Buletti, being a stranger, mistook his bearings and drove into the river, on the wharf of which at this point the barriers had been removed to unload a schooner, but not replaced, as usual.

CROOKS BEAT SALVATIONISTS TO MANTECANS

MANTECA, June 7.—The meanest crooks yet have invaded this city in the garb of Salvation Army officers and made a clean-up. When the regular Salvationists arrived yesterday to begin a canvass for the Army fund, to their astonishment they discovered that three men, dressed in regulation uniform, cap, drum, tambourine and all, had made a canvass of their own several days during the past week and, being received without suspicion, had taken in a considerable sum of money before ending their labors Saturday night. How much they obtained may never be known, but Mantecans are really...

Short Change Men Work in Petaluma

PETALUMA, June 7.—Short change men are operating in this county, according to word received today from Deputy Sheriff Jewett at Santa Rosa. The game has frequently been worked here and Chief of Police Flohr has issued a warning to Petaluma merchants to be on the lookout for this ilk. Hoboes and tramps, also itinerant beggars, are becoming more numerous in the country districts as the warm season adv...

Body of A. E. F. Is Buried By Comrades

SANTA ROSA, June 7.—Russel Ledford of Cloverdale was buried, Sunday, by members of Sotoyome Post, American Legion, of Healdsburg. Ledford, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ledford of Cloverdale, was the first northern Sonoma county soldier to fall in battle in France. His body arrived from New York, Saturday.

Sarah J. Green, Club Leader in San Jose, Dies

Founder of Social Hour Club and Prominent in Eastern Star.

SAN JOSE, June 7.—Mrs. Sarah J. Green, prominent in women's club circles in this city for a number of years and a citizen beloved by all who knew her, died at her home here yesterday, following an illness of a little more than four months. She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her wide circle of friends, her daughters, Mrs. R. J. Butler and Mrs. John J. Jury, and a sister, Mrs. C. G. Crofot of Pontiac, Mich.

During her lifetime in this city Mrs. Green was an active member in Fraternity chapter, O. E. S.; Rose Croix Shrine, White Shrine of Jerusalem, San Jose Woman's club and the Social Hour club. She was founder of the last named organization.

Mrs. Green came to San Jose with her husband and family 30 years ago, immediately entering into all civic matters with a whole-hearted interest and intensity that won her instant friendships everywhere. Funeral arrangements had not yet been completed at an early hour this morning.

Sebastopol Apples Need Warm Weather

SANTA ROSA, June 7.—Despite that the spring bloom on the apple trees gave grounds for predictions that the 1921 apple crop would be the heaviest in twenty years farmers of the Sebastopol Gold Ridge section declared this week that unless a season of hot weather comes the crop will fall at least thirty per cent below normal.

Cold weather and rains damaged the apple bloom until only a fair crop set. Unusually late cold weather has given the aphis a start on the apples which only will be controlled by hot weather, the farmers declare. Many orchards will suffer a fifty per cent loss of crop as the result of the encroachments of the aphis.

Bible School Opens Five Weeks' Session

ESCALON, June 7.—An undenominational Bible school opened here yesterday for a period of five weeks in the Presbyterian church. It will continue every morning. Children from four to 14 years will be instructed by competent teachers. Girls will be taught sewing, basket weaving, raffia work and bead making. Boys will receive instruction in sloyd work, scroll saw work and hammock making. In addition there will be calesthenics, motion drills, dramatizing Bible stories, songs and habit stories. Kindergarten features will be provided for smaller children. The school is intended to appeal to children who are not constantly employed during vacation. Local women have volunteered to give instruction.

Stanford Women Put On Athletic Teams

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, June 7.—Stanford women who have made the best showing in baseball and swimming during the past college year were today named on all-star teams of the two sports. The baseball team is made up Frances Fish, Marion Dwight, Esther Culver, Mary Learnard, Myrtle Klahn, Helen Watts, Imogen Aten, Doris Stevenson and Mildred Maurer. Those selected for the swimming team are Beatrice Caughey, Alberta Mark, Alverda West, Doris Stevenson, Muriel Stewart, Dorothy Grant, Margaret Carlsmith, Myra Waterman and Mildred Waters.

BRIDGE OVER BAY IS ENDORSED BY CITY OFFICIALS

No Location Mentioned in Resolutions Adopted By Councilmen.

BERKELEY, June 7.—Resolutions favoring the bridging of San Francisco bay were passed by members of the city council at a meeting here today. The resolutions were adopted following the receipt of a communication from J. T. Short, secretary of the Ashby club, asking that such a step be taken.

The members of the council went on record as favoring such a project, but declared that they did not believe that the resolution they adopted would be the cause for any action, and that it was merely an expression of sentiment. The mayor was instructed to draw up resolutions emphasizing the need of such a structure extending across the bay. No location was mentioned.

Following an examination conducted into the water supply at the Thousand Oaks region, resulting from the receipt of many complaints from citizens of that district, City Engineer C. L. Huggins presented a report at today's meeting declaring the situation was serious. According to the report, the water shortage in this vicinity was acute. While no action was taken, it was indicated that demands would be made upon the water company to remedy the difficulty.

WASTE PROBLEM TO BE DISCUSSED BY COUNCILMEN

ALAMEDA, June 7.—The garbage situation will be discussed at the meeting of the council tonight, when City Manager Charles E. Hewes will urge establishment of an incinerator. For many years the city has been dumping its garbage on Bay Farm Island; but the owners have notified the city to seek another ground. With City Engineer C. E. Hickok, Hewes has been making a study of the garbage problem of other cities and he will report his findings tonight.

Another question which maintains the interest of a large number of the citizens is the extension of Versailles avenue to the High street bridge. This extension has been recommended by the City Planning commission. It is expected that the set-back ordinance will come up for its share of discussion tonight.

BREW CONTAINS CARBOLIC ACID; CORONER CALLED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7. — A mixture of 10 per cent carbolic acid and 10 per cent alcohol, caused the death early today at the Colton House, 224 Third street, of a man registered as M. Murphy, but who may be M. O'Neill, a former resident of Salt Lake. Murphy was found sitting in a chair fully dressed. On the dresser nearby were two six-ounce bottles which had contained the mixture of poison and alcohol. Whether he planned suicide or purchased the concoction for its alsoholic content will never be known. Although registered as Murphy, the name O'Neill is found in the marking of tailors who made his clothes. He was about 53 years old, very heavy, weighing approximately 250 pounds and was poorly dressed.

YOSEMITE CAMP PLAN FOR STATE GUARD APPROVED

SACRAMENTO, June 7. — Approval by the War Department of the recommendation of Adjutant General J. J. Borree that the California National Guard annual training camp for infantry and signal corps organizations be held in the Yosemite Valley from July 10 to 24, was received today by the adjutant general's office.

Eighteen companies of infantry and one signal corps company will attend the encampment it was announced.

During the encampment the men will receive regular army pay on a basis of $1 a day for privates.

General Borree stated that he expected an attendance of between 1400 and 1500.

TWO NEW SCHOOLS ARE PROPOSED BY EDUCATION BOARD

McChesney and Lakeview Regions Each To Get One Is Board Proposal.

The dispute between the "highlanders" and "lowlanders" to determine whether the new junior high school shall be placed at the top or the base of Excelsior avenue was partially lulled last night when the Board of Education brought forward a compromise for junior high schools in both places.

The board adopted a resolution of intention to create a junior high school for the Lakeview district at the present Lakeview school site, by the construction of two wings to the present Lakeview building, and for the construction of a junior high school for the McChesney district on the Mary Smith property, sufficient to care for the needs of McChesney and Glenview districts.

After listening to some objections from McChesney residents President Floyd Gray of the board said that the matter will be reconsidered later. This leaves it nearly where it was before.

CAMPBELL TALKS MONEY.

"Where would we get the money for this plan?" was asked, after which Marston Campbell of the building department asserted that some of the money must come from funds saved in previous transactions. He asserted that the McChesney junior high school will cost approximately $175,000, including the Lakeview wing. McChesney would get 66 per cent of it and Lakeview 34 per cent.

O. S. Murray of McChesney made an objection.

"We ask this board to stand by its agreement," he demanded. "We were told we were going to get this school and now we get a compromise. We have no ill-feeling against Lakeview. We are willing to go before the supervisors and ask a larger tax to help them out, but we feel it is unbecoming of this board to change its implied agreement."

"TECH" GYMNASIUM.

The plans for the new Technical high school gymnasium were approved, as well as plans for the Lockwood storm sewer. Fremont high school grading, Dewey school subway and Hawthorne school culvert.

The board voted "that the salary schedule for certified teachers for the year 1921-22 be the same as the salary schedule for 1920-21, with whatever changes may be occasioned by the funds furnished by the tax levying bodies."

Two principals were assigned to the Oakland evening high school and Technical evening high school and three of Fremont evening high school.

W. A. Benner of Frick school was ordered promoted to the head of a maximum elementary school and J. C. Hammel was transferred to Frick school. Willard E. Givens was elected as principal of Garfield school.

Thirty-seven resignations were accepted from the teaching staff.

Secretary of C. of C. Offers Resignation

MODESTO, June 7.—After serving seven years as secretary of the chamber of commerce, S. T. Webber has tendered his resignation, effective August 1. It came as a complete surprise to the chamber which, hoping to induce him to reconsider his action, has laid the matter over. Webber seems decided, however, to withdraw from the work, but has not announced his future plans.

240 ARRESTS IN MONTH MADE BY SAN JOSE POLICE

132 of Cases Are For Violation of City and State Traffic Laws.

SAN JOSE, June 7.—The San Jose police department made 240 arrests during the month of May and handled a total of 353 actions of all kinds, according to a report filed with the city council here last night by Chief of Police J. N. Black. This is a big increase over May of 1920, when but 96 arrests were made and only 201 actions handled.

Out of the 240 arrests, however, 132 were for violations of city and State traffic laws.

The report showed an increase in the number of arrests for intoxication and vagrancy over 1920, but showed a marked decrease in felony arrests. Twenty-one persons intoxicated and 27 vagrants were arrested last month, the report states, as against 16 drunks and 9 vagrants arrested in May, 1920. There were but three arrests for burglary in this city last month, while 12 were arrested for burglary in May, 1920. Seventeen were arrested for lottery offenses.

Relative to complaints filed, there were but 11 burglary complaints last month, opposed to 15 the same month last year. There was an increase of 7 in complaints of petty larceny thefts of a miscellaneous nature, 31 such complaints being made, although there were but 24 bicycles reported stolen this May, as compared with 27 last May. Ten automobiles were stolen in San Jose during the past month, 6 being stolen in May, 1920.

Of the 24 bicycles stolen, 8 were recovered, while out of the 10 automobiles stolen 8 also were recovered.

Finger prints of 76 persons arrested by the department during the last month were taken, 24 of that number being identified through the bureau of identification of the local department. Finger print exchanges with other cities now total 14,326, while records now on file, all types, in the identification bureau number 40,342.

Maude Fulton To Present Her Newest Comedy

Maude Fulton, playwright and actress and patroness of the Fulton Playhouse, arrived in Oakland today with Robert Ober, whom she married last fall in Boston.

Miss Fulton is well known as author of "The Brat," which has been repeatedly produced locally with success.

She has completed a new comedy, entitled "Pinkie," of which she will give a premier production at the local theater during the summer, playing the leading role herself. She appears in a role similar to that of "The Brat," a whimsical little red-haired girl always in everybody's way.

YOLO GRAND JURY INDICTS THREE ON GIRLS' TESTIMONY

Action Follows Investigation of Illicit Liquor Sale To Young People.

WOODLAND, June 7.—Four indictments were returned by the Yolo county Grand Jury yesterday, three of them against alleged bootleggers of the Knights Landing district, near Woodland, and which witnesses said was a prolific source of supply of illicit liquor. The fourth indictment was against Cyrus V. Wood, arrested some time ago for alleged cattle rustling, but was released by Justice of the Peace R. W. Harrison for lack of evidence. District Attorney C. C. McDonald was not satisfied and asked for an indictment and a Superior court trial.

Blind-pigging has been so open in various parts of Yolo county, it is alleged, that the Grand Jury last week summoned 33 men and 7 young women before it. Out of the testimony of the men, L. H. Williams was indicted for distributing illegal liquor. Williams pleaded guilty and yesterday was sentenced by Superior Judge W. A. Anderson to serve four months in the Yolo county jail.

After listening half an hour to the testimony of the seven girls the jury returned into court with indictments against R. H. Hutchings, Nick Viponand "Red" Simmons, all residents of Knights Landing. They are under $1000 bonds each.

It was the busiest session ever held by the Yolo county Grand Jury.

A PLEA FOR INITIATIVE

Mr. Howard Elliott, chairman of the board of directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad, in testifying last week before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, gave his opinion as to the attitude the government should adopt at this time toward the railroads. He voiced a sound judgment, and his views are restated here chiefly because they are in the main applicable to every phase of the government's interference in business:

"I believe that it is in the interest of all the people for the lawmakers to study the subject of regulation with a view of giving to management the power of prompter action, and of using the regulatory powers in a supervisory and corrective way, rather than to prevent any action until governmental approval is first obtained. If the management does wrong, overrule it and make it do right, but do not prevent it from acting until the approval and permission of a regulating authority can be obtained.

"It is a very grave question whether regulation has not been overdone, encroached on the field of management, and by dividing responsibility and checking initiative, done more to increase costs, and therefore rates than would have been the case with more freedom of action permitted.

"Better and more prompt results for the public could be obtained if railroad managements, familiar with all local conditions, studying constantly their business, and trying to expand it, should be allowed to make rates effective, subject to investigation and review by the commission and to be set aside after such review, if found in any way contrary to public policy, and due reparation then made."

There is only one contention in Mr Elliott's statement that it seems proper to challenge, and that is that the railroads should be permitted to put rates into effect subject to review by the Interstate Commerce Commission and reparation ordered if such rates were found contrary to public policy.

This practice might prevail without injury if applied only in cases where the railroads make effective a rate lower than the one existing. It would be unsafe to permit them to decree higher rates except with the explicit approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. When higher rates are contemplated, the law and federal regulations require that a showing of the propriety of the higher rates first be made before the commission. That is a good rule and should not be modified. However, if the railroads should desire to lower their rates, under pressure of competition or in order to attract a larger volume of traffic, the government should constitute no factor of delay in permitting the public to enjoy the benefit of reductions.

As to the other pleas for the privilege of showing initiative and adopting methods for the more efficient and economical conduct of their business, there should be no disabling laws and regulations. There has indeed been too much of regulatory adventures on the part of the government already and the government would do well to stop for awhile and see how present laws and regulations work out under a fair trial.

There are several members of Congress who believe that there should be new railroad legislation at once. Forces outside of the government are driving for a revision of the present railroad act. There is a cry for a new panacea before the existing law has been tried out under normal conditions. Yet the law seems to have worked fairly well so far. No loss to the public can be charged to the letter or the spirit of the application of the law. All the troubles of the railroads are due to acts that had their origin before the law was enacted, and those acts would have brought on a critical condition in spite of any law or act of providence imaginable.

But not only is this thought applicable to the railroads. It should guide the government in all its regulatory policies. In just so far as government aims to provide a corrective, and eschews prohibition of effort and obstruction, it will prove beneficial to the whole public body. If we are to have less of government in business and more business in government, it is time to slow up on imposing new regulations that can only work for the harassment of business.

At a recent convention of confectioners at Atlantic City, there was a tearful recital of a "great business tragedy," this putting of thirty cent sugar into candy that must be sold for twenty cents. But there was none so brave as to recite the delicious romance of business profits of putting ten cent sugar into candy that sold for one dollar. The romance was a year or so older than the tragedy, and perhaps it is forgotten.

AS CHICAGO SEES IT.

It is noteworthy that a newspaper so far inland as Chicago, the Chicago Tribune, should recognize the imperativeness of establishing a new naval base on the Pacific Coast. That paper makes no effort to say which of several sites that have been mentioned should be selected as a naval base, but it does not doubt that "some location ought to be selected and work begun upon it as speedily as possible."

"A navy without adequate bases is virtually helpless," says this Chicago newspaper. "A fleet of warships can no more be maneuvered over a wide area without coaling stations, drydocks, repair stations and supply depots than a fleet of automobiles could be driven across the continent without filling stations, repair kits and extra tires."

The Chicago Tribune also recognizes the fact that the naval bases on the Pacific Coast are at present far below complete needs, even in time of peace; that vessels would have to be sent back to the Atlantic Coast for repairs if the entire fleet were stationed here. "The chief bases at San Francisco and Bremerton are lacking and the danger of allowing such a situation to go unremedied is evident." And then this palpable truth:

"The Pacific Coast should have at least one base which can maintain the entire fleet. A divided base would necessitate a divided fleet. The Russian fleet was so divided at the start of the Japanese war and Japan destroyed it without difficulty. We want no such possibility on the Pacific Coast. We do want one point from which the entire fleet can operate. The absurdity of having such a base only on the Atlantic Coast is evident. Our chances of war in the Pacific are at least equal to if not greater than the chances in the Atlantic. In such circumstances it seems evident that the recommendations of the Parks-McKean board which surveyed the need of bases in the Pacific should carry weight. One point must not be forgotten. Naval bases are as essential to sea power as are naval vessels. To build the latter without the former would be as absurd as to build a motor truck without an engine or a factory without machinery or equipment."

This is a pretty accurate statement of the situation which exists with reference to the absence of and the great need for a new naval base in the Pacific. There is no point made by the Chicago newspaper which can be successfully controverted. Work on the new naval base should be going on now. Instead of that the country is shamefully stopped from completing its Pacific Coast naval defenses by a few willful obstructionists in the Senate.

The country is able to consider two ways of handling the Philippine question. Given a national sentiment favorable to Philippine independence, or at least not unfavorable to it, there is a wide difference between the Wilson method of manifesting this sentiment and the Harding way. The former administration would disregard all responsibility and withdraw summarily; the present national control is investigating to ascertain, first if absolute independence is the unanimouse desire of the island people, and then if their welfare, for which this country has been sponsor for more than twenty years, starting them well on the way to a higher civilization, is to be best conserved by suddenly withdrawing all responsibility. Remembering the outcome of Governor Harrison's administration of the islands, the reports from the Wood Forbes mission are certainly instructive.

The State Prison Board has refused to parole three bandits who held up a social club and killed one who failed to get his hands up promptly. They were sentenced for life. If the precedent is established of refusing clemency to all in whose conviction the taking of human life figures, it would be reasonable and just. Murderers and accessories to murder very seldom suffer the extreme penalty nowadays, and there would seem to be no good reason for ameliorating their lesser punishment. A very notable recent case is in point, and another is pending that has a notoriety much more than State wide.

If it is a fact that "Reds" are working among the negroes of the South, fanning racial animosities, it may be something that demands less summary and more deferential treatment than that of unmitigated force. We must always calculate that the Bolshevik idea will appeal to the lowest instincts, and we should not lose sight of the fact that the natural superstition of the negro and the antipathies of the whites are more likely than not to furnish ready soil for the teachings that come out of Russia and are so persistently urged in saner sections of civilization.

It is a fact that buyers of wool have legally created standards which protect them in their purchases; but buyers of cloth have to rely on their individual acumen, or take their chances. The war demoralized fabric manufacture, and there is likely to be slow recovery to pre war conditions unless something is done in law to help out. A branding of cloths that will guarantee quality would meet a situation, though it would be a step in that undesirable direction of interfering with industrial action.

NOTES and COMMENT

It would seem to be the psychological time for Congress to develop a homogeneous spirit. We entered the war more than four years ago, and we are still in it, though not allied with the other nations as to subsequent policies. There could be a near unanimous effort to get the country out of the attitude that this nominal state of war must involve.

The Pueblo disaster for one thing discloses the necessity of the utmost certainty in the strength of storage water reservoirs. Primarily, that disaster may be laid to cloudbursts, but these have caused dams to give way, adding to the destruction and demonstrating a contingency to be rigidly guarded against. In water conservation in California, which is to be so extensive, this fact is brought home.

The accounts of bandit efforts show slight diminution, though instances of capture are on the increase, indicating that amateurs are invading the field. What is noted, however, is absence of definite treatment of those come up with. If ruthlessness can be applied to any class of malefactors, it would seem that the modern Dick Turpins should by no means be exempt.

Reading Monday's account of Sunday's mishaps it is readily concluded that the great menace to life in this modern time is the inexperienced, intoxicated, incautious and otherwise inadequate person abroad with an automobile. The highest competency in the handling of the modern vehicle is not immune from this menace. A great and growing problem is that involved in what is to be done about it?

Appraiser Leake of the Woodland Democrat is still unreconciled: "Norman Hapgood says the Senate oligarchy is trying to get Hughes. The trouble seems to be that Hughes has adopted too many of the Wilson policies, with the result that any movement originating at one end of Pennsylvania avenue provokes hostilities at the other."

In pocket vetoing 237 legislative bills the Governor may have gone as far as was expected. Whether he went farther than was to the greatest public interest is a matter of opinion. Of course, he approved some bills over which there were arguments, and failed to approve others which were urged in some quarters. The outstanding fact is that the Legislature wasted such time as was required in digesting and passing 237 measures that will not become laws.

The situation in Russia may be improving. Omsk is reported to have been captured by anti-revolutionary forces, Semenoff is making an effort to enter Vladivostok, and they are uprising in Moscow—all of which may be taken as evidence that the Bolshevik thing is getting toward the end of its day.

The frequent money drives are all for worthy ends, it may be, but that designed to raise funds for the preservation of California redwoods should have a distinct appeal. It is a very unusual privilege to save from summary destruction something that has been alive for a thousand years.

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

A distinguished chemist declares that the ancient alchemist's theory that basemetals could be changed into gold is still worth investigating. THE SECOND FLOOD.

NEUROTIC LITERATURE

The neurotic school of art and letters likes to call itself "futurist." The future to which it unconsciously appeals is one in which, if we do not take care, we shall all be losing control of our nerves and shrieking dementedly and throwing things about. That future may be nearer than we dare realize. The more highly specialized literary fashions of the hour invite not so much the ministrations of the critic as those of the neuropath and the alienist. They affect, not art merely, but civilization. The breakdown which they portend involves a good deal more than some few erratic cults and coteries in orange-curtained studios. It involves the nervous tissue of the race.

The importance of the current literary revolt lies, then, in the fact that it is not a revolt at all, save in a few narrow and special particulars, but rather a betrayal of dangers and disorders common to society. It is the symptom of a disease which is both endemic and epidemic. Thus the present neo-literary drift, whether or not it is intrinsically important, is worth a moment's very serious consideration as an index of the popular consciousness. The crowd's mental and nervous state has been communicated to literature by a process analogous to electric induction, and is there registered with just enough exaggeration to emphasize and clarify the truth." It is not here proposed to weigh the esthetic merits and defects of futurist literature. Let these be what they may, there remains the importance of the newer cults as social symptoms of the common malady; and this affects us all, because it affects the body of which we are all members. No more conclusive reason could be offered for ascribing importance to even the wildest eccentricities of "futurism" in the arts. What we must try to read, obviously, is the relation of the symptom to the disease. And that we can best do by analyzing briefly, first the essence of literary neuroticism, and then the neuroticism of the modern social organism at large.

These two connected realities of the moment, although they have come to the same destination, have reached it by two slightly different routes. Fundamentally, of course, the neuroticism of both artist and audience had its origin in the maddening complexity of modern affairs. Civilization has grown involved on our hands faster than our ability to administer it could grow, and as a result we are driven to the brink of hysteria, as a man is when harassed by more private worries than he knows how to cope with. When J. Smeaton Chase explains the imagists, futurists, cubists and their kind by saying that "Civilization has got on their nerves, and they simply have to scream," he clearly implies that these highly specialized artists express what the inarticulate crowd merely feels. But, though the general feeling and the special expression do indeed hark back to the same fundamental cause, it is still true that that cause has operated in one way upon the artist and in another upon the common man. The great classes of society have succumbed to the actual physical conditions of modern life and to the nervous unrest which these conditions breed. The artist is even more sensitive to this general tension, and his balance would probably have been upset by it in any event; but the ostensible and immediate cause of his overwrought state is an insidious and false theory—a scrap of perverted science which he has invoked to dignify a weakness by parading it as a strength. So, while society is afflicted with a nervous panic of which it is barely conscious, and which it would resist if it could, the ultra-modern artist has been busy inventing a philosophy to prove that his own case of bad nerves is really quite normal. He has glorified his own debacle; he has used his intellect to justify the disuse of it; he has frankly committed himself to the theory that pure neuroticism alone can be valid in modern art.—Wilson Follett in Harper's Magazine for June.

About YOUR HEALTH

Are You Overworking Or Not Doing All You Can?

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It is a common thing to speak of some man who has just died as a "victim of overwork."

There is no doubt that one can work too hard. Tired men and women are the ready victims of disease. Some diseases are essentially diseases of the over-tired. Any overworked person is more likely to take an infectious disease than is the well and rested person.

But the martyr to what is called "overwork" may, after all, be the victim of wrong living and wrong habits and not of hard work.

Let us reason together about this matter of overwork.

Last night at dinner I sat next to a famous man. I have known and admired him for years, but never before did I realize how he works, how many hours in each twenty-four he gives to labor.

We spoke of a great foreign journal. It so happens that both of us agreed it was a privilege to read it, and that both of us do read it. But how does he read it? Every day he goes through its many pages, devours its supplement, and then clips for his scrapbook such material as he thinks should be saved. If I read all of that one journal as he reads it, it would consume at least half of my working hours. But, in addition, he does a dozen other things and a full day's work besides!

Is he overworking? He is. Why? Because he does these many things at the expense of hours for sleep, hours for out-of-door life, hours for recreation, hours for rest of his eyes, hours for changes of work.

If one will take time for three frugal meals, for eight hours of sleep in a well-ventilated room, for an hour in the open air, an hour and a half for the toilet and recreation, I believe the remaining twelve hours can be spent safely in the hardest kind of work of any sort.

I do not approve of such a schedule, because it does not contain time enough for pleasure, for enjoyment of family and friends, for doing good and serving humanity. But it is a schedule possible of carrying out without shortening the physical life. It may dwarf the spiritual life and lessen one's real usefulness, but it can be done in safety so far as health is concerned.

The trouble with the overworked man is that he neglects the demands of his body. He bolts his food. He neglects his bowels and kidneys and skin. He is neglectful of ventilation and exercise. He is careless of his body and its needs.

If he loves his work and really takes joy in it there is enough stimulus to keep his heart at full action. This gives him the same effect golf or horseback riding has for another.

But what a life! Better far to live unmentioned and unsung than to live the selfish life of a narrow devotion to one's own hobbies. If it is a life of devotion to the public good, perhaps we may excuse it. But, generally speaking, overwork is the foolish manner of life of a misguided and self-centred individual, who, after all, can be spared when his end comes!

NEW DISTRICT SUBMITTED TO ZONING BOARD

Council Proposes To Exclude Business Houses From Large Tract.

Another large portion of the Oakland residential district will be set aside against the encroachment of stores, garages or commercial houses of any sort, including apartments and flats. The City Council this morning passed to first reading an ordinance denning a great tract east of Grand avenue and south of the Piedmont line as a strictly residential district, and referred the matter to the City Planning Commission for a report.

Part of the new district is already in a zoning district which allows apartment houses, but the new ordinance takes this part out of the old district and into the new. The district is bounded as follows:

The southern line: Cross lots from Valle Vista to Walker avenue, thence to Lake Park avenue, thence along the north end of Excelsion avenue to a point just east of Haddon road.

The eastern line: Northward to Indian Gulch, west to Lake street, east along Longridge road and thence northeasterly along a line just east of Clarendon Crescent to Piedmont

The northern line: City of Piedmont.

Dr. W J. McCracken spoke in favor of the new zone, referring to the handsome residences therein. The Council held no debate.

Upon recommendation of the City Planning Commission, the Council declared its intention to cut a street from Monticello avenue at Fairfax to terminate at Vicksburg avenue.

It was also decided to widen Bond street from Forty-seventh avenue to Fremont way.

"Pursuit" of Clothes Included in Suit

Not only $50 for the value of a suit of clothes but $25 damage "for the pursuit thereof" is demanded by Attorney J. C. Thomas from the Acme Cleaning and Dyeing Works in an action heard by Judge Pulcifer today.

Thomas, who is appearing as his own attorney, signing his name to the complaint "propria persona," does not explain the length nor the exact nature of the pursuit but contents himself with the implied declaration that any suit which is pursued becomes at once much mor valuable. He claims the cleaning company lost the suit and refused to make good the loss. William E. Mildner, proprietor of the concern, testified that he received several suits from Herman Starke, to whom Thomas delivered the clothing, and that all were returned to Starke.

Tests To Be Held For Army Commissions

Announcement of a final examination for appointment as second lieutenant in the army, to be held on August 22, was made today by Major-General Charles H. Muir of the Ninth Corps Area headquarters in San Francisco.

Preliminary examinations covering an inquiry into the physical, moral and mental qualifications of candidates will begin at once and continue up to August 13. The final examination will cover general academic subjects of junior college grade and an advanced examination in three chosen subjects. For appointment in special branches, special technical examinations in these subjects will be offered.

Application for the examinations should be made to the nearest military post or R. O. T. C. unit, and not through the office of the adjutant-general, according to Muir's announcement.

Irish Refugee To Speak At Meeting

Rev. Father Andrew McCarthy, an Irish refugee, will speak on conditions in Ireland at a meeting of the local branch of the Irish Relief Committee at the headquarters in the Hotel Oakland this evening. Father McCarthy will recount some of his experiences before the committeemen in charge of the Art Hickman Ball to be given for the relief work at the Auditorium on June 22.

WOMAN'S CASE CONTINUED.

Mrs. Mary McGee appeared this morning before Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell on a charge of forgery and the case was continued until November 7. She is alleged to have forged the name of I. H. Spiro to a check of $16. On the promise that she would make the check good she was given probation. At the present time she is on probation for one year in San Francisco.

WOMAN'S CASE DELAYED.

Mrs. Minnie Leach Hook of Berkeley, charged with practicing medicine without a license by the State Medical Board, appeared before Judge George Samuels today and asked that the case be continued until June 14. The request was granted.

Dancing Instructor to Teach At Summer Session at U. C.

MISS GENEVIEVE KELSO, who will be in Berkeley to give instruction in dancing

Physical Education Tutor, Former Producer, Will Have Berkeley Class

BERKELEY, June 7.—How success is achieved in the threatrical profession will be told to women students at the coming summer session of the University of California by Miss Genevieve Kelso, dancer and theatrical manager.

For two years Miss Kelso was manager of the Marion Morgan dancers, one of the best known companies of dancing artists in the theatrical world. She is a gifted dancer herself and has appeared professionally in her role of star as well as producer.

Miss Kelso is coming from Los Angeles, where she is an instructor in physical education in the Los Angeles schools, for this year's summer work in Berkeley. Her courses in dancing are expected to be among the most popular in the summer session, where an unusually wide range of subjects is afforded this year.

Tribune Carriers Invite Boy Friends to Theater

TRIBUNE carrier boys, their substitutes, and all their boy friends, between the age of 9 and 16, are invited to attend the big free moving picture and vaudeville show given by The TRIBUNE Carrier Boys' Association and the Oakland T. & D. theater, Saturday morning, June 11. An unusually fine program has been arranged for the boys, one which will please them from start to finish.

The curtain goes up at 9:45 sharp, but all those who wish to be in the big parade which precedes the show, and which will be held on the principal downtown streets, must be in line by 9 o'clock sharp. Every boy in Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley is invited, who is between the age of 9 to 16.

The picture to be shown is "Peck's Bad Boy," featuring little Jackie Coogan, the world's greatest boy actor. This is a picture that every boy will want to see as it is a typical boy's picture, and just think, it costs you nothing at all; just smile and present yourself in line and be a guest of The TRIBUNE Carrier Boys' Association and the Oakland T. & D. Theater.

And here's some more good news which will make you happy. A number of The TRIBUNE'S clever juveniles including some of the boys' favorites, will be on hand to act, sing and dance in a fine vaudeville program. They are Dorothy Lossman, Bernice Claire Jahnigen, Alberta Blair, Betty Jane Teeple, Slater Fischer Jr., Evelyn Cavanaugh and her dancing chorus (Jennie Johansen, Bernice Qualls, Alta Stagonlocker, Minnie Louis, Lorraine Qualls and Marian Cavanaugh) and the following clever kiddies who will please you: Adele Leahey, Dorothy Burke and Josephine de Pasquale.

Citizens' Army Camp To Open On July 6

A citizens' military training camp commencing July 6 and continuing to August 5, will be conducted at the Presidio in San Francisco, according to announcement of the Ninth Corps Area of the War Department in San Francisco today. The camp will be one of two in this district, as another one is planned for Camp Lewis, Washington. Together they will accept 1200 students.

The War Department plans to provide transportation to the camp and return, board and lodging, medical attention, uniforms, equipment, arms and ammunition for those who attend the camp. Any physically sound citizen between the ages of 16 and 35 is eligible for the camp.

Applicants for admission to the camp should address the Citizens' Military Training Camp Officer, Ninth Corps Area, 247 Monadnock Building, San Francisco.

CITY HAS $1,959,502.

The city of Oakland had $1,959,502.43 cash on hand June 1, according to the monthly report submitted to the council today by Auditor Harry Williams. There is $788,899.11 in the general fund and $1,871,146.40 in special funds.

Husband Is Branded Spendthrift By Wife

Charges of desertion, failure to provide, felony and infidelity were set forth as counts in the divorce suit for separate maintanance filed by Mrs. Pauline Freeman against Edward Freeman, a retired merchant. The suit was originally filed in San Francisco but was transferred to Alameda county courts. In her bill Mrs. Freeman alleges that her husband pleaded guilty to a felony in 1917 in Alameda county court and was given six months' probation.

Instead of reforming, she says, he entered a mad career of spending, rented an expensive limousine, a hunting lodge in San Mateo county and staged wild parties. Mrs. Freeman mentions an "unnamed" woman in her bill.

SCHOOL BOARD TO HOLD HEARING ON STUART CHARGES

Hunter To Present Reasons Tomorrow For Seeking To Oust Principal.

Opposition of Principal R. R. Stuart of the Technical Evening High School to efforts of Superintendent F. F. Hunter to remove him from his position will find expression before a special meeting of the school board which has been called for tomorrow forenoon.

It was apparent today that the exact nature of the charges upon which Stuart's removal is demanded will not be told the Oakland public until the hour for the meeting actually arrives. Superintendent Hunter today would only hint at them in general terms, intimating that objections had been taken to the method by which Stuart handled school funds. Stuart and his legal representative, A. D. Carter, were equally uncommunicative.

"Why," they said, "shall we reply to charges that have not yet been even made. When they say what their charges are it will be sufficient time to answer them."

READY, HUNTER SAYS.

"I was perfectly willing to bring my charges before the Board of Education last night," said Hunter. "As the matter was laid over, I cannot see the justice of making my charges public before the hearing. The Board of Education has the right to hear them first.

"Two years ago," said Hunter, "Stuart was transferred from the commercial department of Technical at the request of Principal P. M. Fisher. He was placed in the night school. The whole episode has been unfortunate, but action must be taken for the discipline of the school department."

The episodes with which Stuart is alleged to be connected did not happen yesterday, according to the officials, but it was decided to handle the matter by dropping his name from the list of employees for the coming year. This privilege is allowed the superintendent of schools by law, provided it is done by June 10.

FIGHT BARES CHARGES.

Had Stuart not elected to fight the matter, his name would have merely appeared among the "resignations," with no public comment, according to the officials.

Instead of dismissing Stuart it was admitted, the superintendent used the legal privilege of notifying educators who cannot be appointed for the next season. This privilege, by law, must be acted upon by June 10. The superintendent recommended to the Board of Education last night that the following be notified that they cannot be employed:

1—All substitute teachers except those who have been appointed.

2—All teachers on leaves of absence who said they would not return.

3—R. R. Stuart.

STUART ASKS DELAY.

"Stuart only got in touch with me a few minutes ago," protested Carter. "I do not know what it is all about. I request you lay the matter over."

"I would regret very much the bringing of this matter into full publicity," said Hunter. "The superintendent's counsel and myself went over the matter very thoroughly Saturday and Mr. Stuart was then told that his usefulness in the Oakland schools is at an end. I did not request his resignation as much as I gave him an opportunity to resign."

Hunter intimated that, no matter what the specific charge, the present situation is the outcome of several years of misunderstanding.

"It is a matter of long controversy in the Oakland schools," intimated Hunter, "and he knows there has been a very serious question about his work. With me there is no ill-feeling. I have had no personal difference with him since three years ago. There is in this case, however, a definite variation from those things which conserve the efficiency of the Oakland schools. If necessary I will speak, but I hope that I will not have to."

SPECIAL SESSION.

"Mr Stuart insists his resignation is not forthcoming," said Carter, after speaking with his client. "He is quite content to let Superintendent Hunter bring any charges he desires."

Director Fred Campbell said he "saw no reason for Hunter not naming those charges," and said he believed the Board of Education should know what it was doing in such a matter.

"We want no summary dismissal and no personal spleen without the board knowing about it," challenged Campbell.

"This is a matter of timeliness," explained President Floyd Gray. "Any teacher previous to June 10 may be notified that his services are not desired. After that date the matter will have to be handled some other way."

"If action is not taken by June 10," said Business Manager Lloyd Barzee, "this board is liable for his salary thereafter as an educator."

"I am willing to bring the charges right now," said Hunter.

After a canvass of the board, however, it was decided to hold the special session Wednesday morning to determine the fate of Stuart.

FERGUSON TRIAL FOR GOLDSTONE KILLING OPENS

Courtroom Is Crowded; Defendant Expected To Plead Self-Defense.

The trial of Dan Ferguson, former captain of guards at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company's plant in Alameda, opened today before Superior Judge George Samuels with the courtroom crowded with spectators and friends of both Ferguson and Paul Goldstone who it is alleged Ferguson killed on April 22 following a quarrel at the shipyards.

"Would you hesitate in finding the man guilty even though you knew such a verdict meant death for the defendant?"

This was the question put to the first prospective juror, Mrs. Ida M. Pate, by the prosecution when the case opened this morning.

WOMAN IS QUESTIONED.

"Not if that is the law," she answered.

Ferguson, white haired and pale entered the courtroom and took his seat beside his counsel W. H. Hynes. As he passed down the aisle a number of spectators, said to be friends of Goldstone alleged victim of Captain Ferguson crowded about him until he had to force his way to the table with the assistance of a deputy sheriff.

ACCUSED BOWS HEAD.

When the question was put to the first prospective juror, Captain Ferguson, who has hitherto maintained an air of extreme nonchalance bowed his head in his hands as he awaited the answer of the woman who may be one of those to pass judgment on him. When it came he maintained his posture until after the woman had been temporarily excused.

The prosecution, it is said will ask the death penalty. Frank M. Shay is prosecuting the case.

Hynes repeatedly indicated that he would base his defense of Captain Ferguson on self-defense. It is likely that a jury will not be selected before tomorrow afternoon.

Other jurors who were being examined this afternoon were George McInerney, Thomas Dodds, J. N. Riley, Alice M. Griffin, E. L. Hunt, Sarah Cowen, C. T. Smith, William Ellsworth, M. M. Mitchell and Sarah H. Pezet.

Famous Old Ship To Be Dismantled

The Nero, famous old ship that during the Spanish-American War carried supplies to Admiral Sampson, has for the last time sailed through the Golden Gate. She was taken last night to Mare Island where she will be dismantled. The Nero discovered the so-called bottomless hole in the ocean near Guam while feeling a way across the Pacific for the laying of the ocean cable twenty years ago.

Policemen Urged to Be Friends of Children

Close co-operation between the police, the school and the home was urged by Vollmer. "Among the children in our schools today are to be found the gangsters thugs and murderers of tomorrow," said Vollmer.

Intimation as we have had pointed out to us by scientific studies and our own observations that the majority of our professional crooks were troublesome children long before they became criminals it behooves the policeman to concentrate his attention upon the 'problem child' during the pre-delinquent period.

HELP FOR CHILDREN.

We cannot expect to undo the follies of past generations in a few years of careful training nor perform such miracles as furnish intelligence to an imbecile, but we can help every child by securing for him the environment best adapted for the development of his potentialities after carefully considering his intelligence, temperament, physical and mental health aptitudes tendencies tastes habits, disposition and abilities. Be it remembered, however, that not all problem children become habitual criminals but if they become them ranks that they outnumber habitues are largely recruited.

Examination of school children showing signs of peculiarities of mind by experts and recommendations to parents and teachers as to their care was advocated by Vollmer as a means of averting crimes of after years.

MOB LAW CONDEMNED.

"When one of the many criminal gangs that abound in every large city commits a crime that attracts attention or when crime waves prevail the public being uninformed regarding the basic causes mob rule usurps the powers of constituted authority, real or supposed offenders are dragged to the nearest telegraph pole or tree, where they are put to death amid the plaudits of the lawless assembly," Vollmer continued. Perhaps this summary manner of dealing with felons does have some deterrent effect upon the criminally inclined but the fear instilled subsides and they quickly return to their evil doing trade.

Louis Gerlach, Rich Cattleman, Is Dead

STOCKTON, June 7.—Louis Gerlach, wealthy cattleman, died at his family home here last night at an advanced age. He began in a small way in pioneer days and accumulated ranges in this county and elsewhere in California and Northern Nevada. The town Gerlach in Nevada is named for him. He was also head of the Gerlach Cattle Company composed of the members of his immediate family, who will continue the business. Gerlach leaves a widow and one son Fred who has charge of all the Nevada operations, and four daughters.

Alternative Discussion Is Held by Piedmont Club

Recent attacks on the efficiency of the Piedmont fire and police departments and comparison of the city to a "leech sucking blood from the back of a turtle," met with resentment last night at a meeting of the West Piedmont Improvement club, when various speakers, quoting from the record, showed both departments to be exceptionally efficient and showed that the city had always been ready to pay its share of community expense.

The club met at the Egbert Beach school for a discussion of the city and county government proposal and was addressed by Joseph R. Knowland of Oakland, who was introduced by Frank Nebeker, chairman of the evening. D. R. Aiken is president of the club.

"We have desired to have more information," Nebeker said, in explanation of the purposes of the meeting, "than did a certain business men's club in Oakland where, out of the eighty who were present but thirteen confessed to any knowledge of the subject. And out of that thirteen those called upon for explanations showed that they were completely in the dark."

IMPORTANCE OF ISSUE.

Knowland spoke of the importance of the issue to the people of Alameda county and declared that it was a question more far-reaching in effects than any before the people in years.

"I do not oppose the general plan for city and county consolidation, embracing the entire county and under a proper charter," said the speaker, "and I would not oppose the alternative, if the alternative made it possible for the three largest and contiguous cities, Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda, to vote on the question of the consolidation of these three units.

"Under the unfortunate wording of the law, however, Oakland is the only essential city that may be named, and this means that if Berkeley and Alameda vote 'no' on the original and essentially different proposal, that proceedings must be continued for a city and county of Oakland alone. If Oakland forms such a city and county, Berkeley can then form its own without the consent of the balance of the county, and Alameda may form its own city and county after the separation once takes place, and a city and county is formed of the balance of Alameda county.

"Many of the proponents of city and county consolidation declare that when it comes to a proposition for a city and county of Oakland alone, they will strangle the child for which they were responsible, in order to prevent county division. There are others, however, who publicly declare that in such a contingency they favor a city and county government of Oakland alone. I refer particularly to the president of the Charter league, which organization is sponsoring the present movement for city and county consolidation.

"The president of that league is a most distinguished citizen of Oakland, Dr. George C. Pardee, for whom I have the greatest respect and admiration. Dr. Pardee is always very frank in what he has to say and in a public statement recently issued, he declares: 'Oakland asks the board of freeholders to put before the people of Alameda county the alternative proposal under which no other part of Alameda county can keep Oakland from forming a city and county all by herself.'

"Again, this same authority declares, 'If Alameda city, if Berkeley or any other part of Alameda county imagines that it can get along better without Oakland than with her, why should Oakland, while sorry to see the county divided, be prohibited by any other part of Alameda county from forming her own consolidated city and county?'

"Here we have the testimony of the president of the Charter league favoring, under certain conditions, a city and county of Oakland. This means four cities and counties within the present boundaries of Alameda county. It means Alameda county hopelessly divided, and that we have destroyed for all future time the possibility of a genuine consolidation. For when Berkeley once separates, when Alameda once separates, they can never be brought into a future union."

The speaker declared that as an Oakland businessman he did not believe that the proper way to induce outside communities to join a consolidation movement was by attacks and threats. He declared he thought attacks on Piedmont, recently published, were in poor taste and doubted that the charge, "Piedmont has been draining the Oakland tax fund like a leech draining blood through the back of a turtle," would make Piedmont people friendly toward the movement.

Attacks on the efficiency of the Piedmont police and fire departments, he said, were unwarranted, and, particularly, in the face of a report made during the evening showing that the Piedmont fire department had won second place in a national contest in fire prevention work. It has also been shown that Piedmont has been willing to join Oakland for the construction of sewers and to co-operate in every manner possible. The speaker declared that he did not believe that the people of Piedmont looked to Oakland with contempt and considered it a "rough-neck city," as was charged in the same publication.

CRITICISM SCORED.

At the close of the meeting Cornelius Casey, member of the Tax association, asked if it were possible without the alternative for a small city to defeat the consolidation movement. The answer was "Yes, and the alternative will split the county and prevent any future consolidation of what is now Alameda county or of the three cities."

L. H. Wolf, one of the Piedmont trustees, took occasion to express his resentment of the charges that have been published against the city's efficiency in various departments.

"The attacks made on the Piedmont police and fire departments, and concerning our attitude on sewers," he said, "are not true. We have most efficient departments and we are willing, and have been all along, to stand our full share of the sewer charges. We have assisted Oakland many times with our fire department and Oakland has many times reciprocated. As to the maintenance of the main highways, it is just as important to Oakland as to Piedmont, as over them the people must go to trade with the Oakland merchants."

troublesome surcharge on Pullman tickets. The result is that the traveling man finds two of his principal items of expense virtually "frozen." Hotel keepers blame prohibition for their inability to reduce room rates. They claim that restaurant charges have been lowered.

BLUE SERGE SHORTAGE.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 7.—A severe shortage of blue serge is being experienced in the men's clothing trade, and only a few firms have been able to go on with orders for suits of this material. Retailers who have been shopping the market the last few days have been able to find virtually no blue serges ready for immediate delivery, and manufacturers are declining to guarantee delivery at any specified time because of the uncertain manner in which the material is coming from the mills. Blue serges have been selling even better than usual this year, but on account of the system of hand to mouth buying which has been the curse of the market during the past eight or ten months, many merchants have found themselves without the desired cloth. The small amount of orders placed last fall and winter led inevitably to the present shortage.

Fashion News

NEW YORK, June 7.—After a short period during which it was superseded in the millinery field by navy blue, black is again coming strongly to the fore in materials used in making women's hats. It is said to be a fact that while well-dressed women will purchase hats of variegated hues for sports and garden wear, they will have nothing now but black for street wear. In some of the sport hats, for that matter, black is beginning to show up well. In felt hats for sports use this is particularly true.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—Tweed suits for men's wear are very popular. The new styles have been well received, particularly in the semi-sports models. These are somewhat on the Norfolk idea with a minimum of extreme lines. Owing to the early introduction of tweeds for summer wear, the more popular weaves are of the distinctly porous variety.

CHICAGO, June 7.—At the first fall fashion show of 1921 offered here by the designers of women's apparel, the gored skirts of fall suits offered the distinct new feature. The method of embroidery and the application of fur trimming also are different. Soft materials, such as duvetyns, veldynes and velours predominated among the materials. In colors there was the usual adherence to navy, black and brown. Fire-cracker red is a new note of contrasting trimming for collars and cuffs, going especially well with black.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The vogue among women for knickerbocker costumes on the golf links is increasing especially among those who really take the game seriously. The heavy coats or jackets which at first went with the women's knicker suits in true mannish fashion are about to be discarded, however, in favor of a sleeveless jacket, which give comfort and a touch of femininity at the same time.

CANTATA GIVEN BY GRADUATES

Graduating students were awarded diplomas and certificates of honor at the closing exercises of Our Lady of Lourdes Academy and St. Anthony's school held in the parish auditorium, East Sixteenth street and Sixteenth avenue, last night.

"Veritas," an allegorical cantata, describing the search and discovery of Truth, was presented by the graduating classes preceding the presentation of diplomas by the Right Reverend P. J. Keane, D.D., Bishop of Sacramento, and Rev. Father P. J. Quinn, pastor of St. Anthony's parish.

The cast of characters in "Veritas," with Miss Helene Connell Goodman as leading lady, was as follows:

Hot Water Is Sold As Result of Strike

HULL, Eng., June 7.—The shortage of coal has been so serious here during the strike of miners that the people were unable to obtain hot water. To meet this situation the National Kitchen, which happened to have a supply of coal, sold hot water to the working people at one-half penny a bucket.

The shortage of coal also produced a shortage of ice as it handicapped the artificial ice plants. To obviate this, trawlers were sent to Holland to bring coal, which they exchanged for ice.

Woman Chiropractor Is Held To Answer

ALAMEDA, June 7. — Hazel Harper, chiropractor, was held to answer to the Superior Court today by Judge Elmer Johnson on charges of violating the state medical practice act. She was released on $100 bail.

Her business partner, Miss Esther Wiese, was released.

Complaint against the two was made by A. W. Sazatt of the state medical board, who swore to a warrant for their arrest May 24.

RICE IS BOOSTED IN RESTAURANTS

California rice is being specially honored this week by the stores, restaurants and hotels of the city. California rice has a prominent place on every restaurant menu in the city while merchants are displaying the flaky grains in their windows.

Special sales of rice will be offered by many of the large stores on Saturday, California Rice Day, and every effort is being exerted by the committee in charge of the local campaign to bring before the housewife the food values and economy of California rice.

The contest on the question, "Why throw California rice at newlyweds?" is going strong. The committee is already receiving answers by the hundreds and according to George Shelden, chairman of the Oakland committee, will have difficulty in picking the winners of the prizes. For the first and second best answers the committee is offering $15 and $10. Leading grocers have donated sacks of rice in various sized packages for the answers of lesser merit.

The contest ends Friday night at 5 o'clock, when the answers must be in the hands of the chairman of the committee, 309 Albany building. The winners will be announced Saturday, California Rice Day.

All this week speakers will tell facts concerning the rice industry at the luncheons of the various civic and commercial clubs. They will tell how the rice industry has grown in ten years in California from zero to $20,000,000, and increased the value of thousands of acres of land from $10 an acre to $200.

The Rice Association of California, sponsors of California Rice Day, are particularly anxious to educate the people of the state to the value of rice as a food and to impress the housewife with the superior quality of the home product.

PLAYGROUND NEWS

The recreation department has completed plans for summer playground activities. Beginning Tuesday, June 7, the following playgrounds will be open on summer schedule from 9:15 in the morning until 8:30 in the evening:

Bella Vista, Bushrod, De Fremery, Golden Gate, Mosswood, Park Boulevard, Poplar street, Allendale, Elmhurst, Emerson, Garfield, Hawthorne, Lockwood, Longfellow, Melrose, Prescott, Tompkins, Durant, Fruitvale, Jefferson, Lazear, Lincoln-Piedmont avenue, McChesney, Harrison and Campbell playgrounds, in charge of one director, will be open only until 5:30 p. m. An innovation this summer will be story-telling by experts, who will travel from ground to ground on a regular schedule. Miss Grace Hanson, Miss Viola Powell and Miss Mary Stout will conduct this special work under the direction of Mrs. Emelie Hollington. Special events are planned, including a twilight baseball league, summer track meet, summer regatta, play day for girls, hikes, crew rowing.

The girls' auxiliary to the Oakland Industrial League held a very enjoyable hike to Muir Woods on Sunday. About forty took the trip. Miss Elsie Goodwin was installed in the office of president, with Miss Maud Fox as vice-president. Miss Minnette Brodke organized the party.

Mosswood tea room was the scene of a luncheon recently, when Miss Laura Harlow of Lenox avenue entertained the Lee and Lenox club.

A tennis tournament was held at Bella Vista playground last Sunday. The competition was between experienced players of various playgrounds. They were Jeanne Cosenave, Kate Ebinger, Esther Cameron, Eleanor Clark, Clarida Allen, Elsie Cox. The scores ran as follows:

The Bushrod Women's Outdoor club met on Friday and after a game of volley ball this election of officers was held: President, Mrs. M. C. Vaughn; vice-president, Mrs. F. A. Carter; secretary, Mrs. A. Jr. Peters; treasurer, Mrs. L. Borland; ways and means committee, Mrs. Ruby and Mrs. Peters.

U. S. Naval Mission Aids Peruvian Navy

LIMA, June 7.—Reorganization of the personnel and chief administrative branches of the Peruvian navy is now proceeding under direction of the United States naval mission which were sent here six months ago, upon invitation of the Peruvian government.

The mission probably will remain in Peru two years. It is said to be the first of its kind from the United States to visit a South American republic.

Commander F. B. Freyer is chief of the mission. He was formerly governor of Guam and was Assistant Judge Advocate General of the navy, stationed at Washington before coming here.

Renaming of Cuban Streets Causes Woe

HAVANA, Cuba, June 7.—Renaming Havana streets in honor of modern celebrities is a practice of the city council that causes much woe to business houses, postal officials and tourists. Sometimes the name of a thoroughfare is changed for just a few blocks, and then the difficulty is increased. The people sometimes disregard the new names altogether.

The council recently announced that hereafter O'Reilly street would be known as President Zayas street and Zayas street and Calzado de la Infanta as Avenue President Menocal, in honor, respectively, of the president and retiring president of Cuba.

COURT UPHOLDS S. F. GAS RATE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Judge Frank H. Rudkin of the United States District Court has confirmed, as a whole, the report of the federal master in chancery, ordering the Pacific Gas and Electric company to return to consumers a sum in excess of $2,000,000 and upholding the validity of the gas rates fixed by the board of supervisors in 1913-14-15 and 16.

At the beginning of the controversy the supervisors fixed a rate of 75 cents per 1000 cubic feet. The company objected and appealed to the Federal Court declaring that it was being deprived of its property without due process of law. Pending the litigation, the company charged 85 cents instead of 75 cents. The difference between the two amounts collected will have to be returned to the consumers, according to the decision rendered by Judge Rudkin.

Judge Rudkin ruled that 7 per cent was a just return on capital invested and that any less rate of return would be confiscatory, and that the rate fixed by the San Francisco board of supervisors in these four years was absolutely just and give a reasonable return on capital invested.

CANOE TIPS, SAILOR DIES.

LOS ANGELES, June 7.—John Nowicki, 20, a former sailor, was drowned last night when a canoe in which he was riding capsized in the lake at Westlake Park. Robert Lee Norris, a companion of Nowicki, was rescued by George Wright, another canoist. Nowicki's body had not been recovered early today.

Magazine and Woman's Page of the Oakland Tribune

Holding a Husband

by Adele Garrison

I slipped on a heavier wrap than I had used for strolling with Junior, and taking a magazine with me, I went over to the big veranda of Mrs. Lukens' home to await Leila's arrival. But I found that I couldn't read.

My mind went back years to the days when I was preparing for my own wedding, and when Leila's taxi came up the driveway and my little friend alighted from it I was prepared to be genuinely sympathetic with troubles that my common sense told me were probably imaginary.

But one look at her tortured face showed me that it was no imaginary trouble which was distressing her. I drew her quickly around the house into the shelter of Mrs. Lukens' room.

"What is it, dear?" I asked, with my arms around her.

"Oh, Madge!' Rita—"

Her voice broke into choking sobs.

Rita Brown's name, as Leila Fairfax chokedd on its utterance, relieved the anxiety I hal felt at the sight of my little friend's panic. I had feared—I knew not what, at my first glimpse of her distorted face. But the name of the girl I detested so cordially, assured me that while Leila probably had good reason for the emotion which was shaking her, yet there was hovering over us no calamity like death or maiming accident—the two contingencies I most dread.

Leila was in no condition to tell me anything more than I had learned from her first hysterical mention of Rita's name. I guessed that whatever had happened was something affecting her engagement to Alfred, and that she could not bear to have either her own people or Alfred's devoted mother suspect that anything was wrong. She had kept up appearances, at what cost I could surmise from her pallid face and hollow eyes, until she could no longer control herself. Then she had fled to me, and with the relaxation of the tension under which she had been laboring, had come a complete emotional collapse.

With a wisdom born of himilar experiences of my own, I asked no more questions, made no more comments. I led her to an easy chair, removed her hat and knelt beside her, letting her sob out her grief and terror upon my shoulder.

When long shuddering breaths began to replace the tearing sobs, I knew that the paroxysm had spent itself, and that if I were to help my little friends, the time had arrived. Her emotional tempest had cleared the atmosphere. She must not be left to brood longer, but must be encouraged to revelation.

"Now, "Leila, dear," I said a bit briskly as I saw her fingers groping blindly for a handkerchief and put one of my own into her hand, "tell me what Rita Brown has done."

She dried her eyes efficiently, and spoke clearly, slowly.

"It isn't what she's done, Madge, it's what she's said!"

"I thought so," I muttered to myself, then aloud I said severely:

"Well, you certainly ought to remember the old adage about sticks and stones!"

Leila looked up at me with tragic eyes.

"I'd rather she would 'break my bones' than break my heart," she mournafully declared, then quickly: "Madge, did you know that Alfred and—and—Dicky—"

RITA'S VICIOUS SUGGESTIONS.

"Went to a bachelor dinner last night and haven't reached home yet?" I said briskly. "Why, of course I know it! If that's all that's troubling you, I've a notion to spank you and put you to bed until you get a little sense. You can't keep Alfred tied to your apron strings the rest of your life. You wouldn't want him if you could do it."

"Oh, Madge, you don't understand!" she walled. "If it were just an ordinary dinner, I wouldn't mind, but Rita said—oh, I can't repeat it—it's too horrible!"

I interrupted her sternly:

"Now begin at the beginning and tell me every word Rita Brown said to you about this."

My stronger will swayed hers, and in another minute I was listening to a mess—I can give it no other word—of disgusting descriptions of orgies, born, I was sure, partly in Rita Brown's depraved imagination, partly in lurid literature which she evidently had read. Leila's delicate face burned crimson as she talked, and her eyes dropped from mine.

I remembered suddenly that this girl was like a sheltered debutante in her knowledge of life, despite her years in a New York studio. Her sister Edith had always taken the brunt of things, faced the world in their lives together, and when Edith went across the seas the older women of the artist colony had mothered the young Virginia girl and had shielded her as her sister had done. An elder, a more worldly-wise girl would have dismissed Rita Brown's accusations with a contemptuous word—to Leila, they evidently had been a searing torture.

Eat Prunes!

Prune Butter

(MRS. H. MOLTZEN)

Soak your prunes after having thoroughly washed them and let stand twelve or twenty-four hours in cold water. Then let them come to a boil in the water they were standing in, and cook until very tender. Then pit them and put them through a fruit sieve. Add the juice of a lemon or vanilla and sweeten to taste, then boil in a double boiler until thick enough. Marmalade is made the same way, only take one-half sugar and one-half fruit.

Daily Almanac

TUESDAY, JUNE 7.

A remnant of the English colony left Virginia for England on this day in 1609. They had the idea that this country never would amount to much. In 1776 the resolution for independence was introduced in Congress. Some of the clan may remember a composer who wrote under the name "August Mignon." His real name was John A. Darling, and he was born June 7, 1835.

I've been a pal to Poverty,
Leastwise he has stuck to me;
I'm as poor as dirt and my only shirt
Is the same as your eyes may see.

It is,
It's the same as your eyes may see.

I've seen a pal to Poverty,
But my legs they are hard and strong,
And my soul is gay as I bum my way
And I give 'em a careless song.

I do,
I give 'em a careless song.

I've been a pal to Poverty,
Likewise a good friend to health,
I walk the road with a two-pound load
And I don't give a dang for wealth,

I don't,
I don't give a dang for wealth.

ANSWERING EDISON.

Q. What makes a bee hum?

Q. Does a plant eat?

A. An egg-plant eats after it is hatched.

Q. Is a stone alive?

A. Yes; when it sings past your ear.

Q. Could the sky fall?

A. No, on account of the blue sky law.

Q. What makes a whirlpool?

A. When you take the stopper out of the bathtub.

SAT'DY POST NELL.

Synopsis of Previous Chapters

(Burgess has picked Nell's fence to pieces, with Nell's aid, one murky summer day, as they swing on the garden gate, in close conversation, etc. The man is worried about something to be divulged by the author later on, if his typewriter and the editor's patience hold out. He has tossed his eyes over the landscape, the sky, his feet, Nell and his pulsing automobile in the street. Then he has spoken. "Nell," he has said. Proceed with the story.

CHAPTER III.

Darker, more threatening grew the June day.

Frowns wrinkled the broad forehead of Burgess; frowns that even the beauty of the woman opposite him failed to dissipate.

"Nell," said Burgess; "Nell——"

What was it stopped him? Damned if we know.

(To Be Continued)

Every day our author gives 'em Nell and now he is cussing right out. You see it is a regular story, he-man stuff and all that.

JUST AS EASY.

To pay my debt to summer I've a plan that's right and daisy—
I'll swing me in a hammock in a manner calm and lazy;
I'll amble 'neath the shade trees cool like any honest bummer—
By doing not a thing at all I'll pay my debt to summer.
—Archie.

Unterrified Lodge, Diminishing Order of Pedestrians, discussed psychology and analysis and all kinds of things yesterday as the members walked home from work. The question of two-section streetcars, the ones in which the shorter end is reserved for smoking, was at issue. The members hold that there is nothing more terrifying for the ordinary man than to invade one of these shorter sections when it happens to be nearest the conductor. What, the lodge asks, causes all of the women to pack this smoking room and why do they appear offended if a man lights a cheroot in its precincts? Because of the company's rules, the lodge decided, the men do not dare smoke in the longer section, and because of the women they are frightened out of the other. The situation threatens a cherished institution of the lodge and it is just possible that some drastic action will be taken—a resolution, maybe.

THE INDEPENDENT MAN

He could have winked his eye at shame and kept the friendship of a few
He could have flattered fools for gain, as many pleasant men will do;
But he would neither wink at shame nor flatter folly to its face,
So promptly they got rid of him and put another in his place.

They said of him he talked too much, he would not learn to hold his tongue,
He boldly called a spade a spade, which does not suit the man who's wrong.
The easy "yes, sir," would have paid; instead he boldly answered "No,"
Which so annoyed the man in charge, he felt obliged to let him go.

He could have followed with the throng—instead he chose to walk alone,
When silence would have served him well, he loudly made his judgment known;
Had he but played the friend to one in power, he would have forged ahead,
But knowing he must wear his bonds, he turned his back on him instead.

Oh, we who battle with the world and know the lies we live and tell,
Who flatter fools and wink at shame, because we know it pays us well,
Must in our honest solitude admire so brave a man as he

The Home Kitchen

by JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON.

WAYS TO SERVE EGGS.

It is said there is an art even in boiling eggs if we look for it. However that may be, we should at least understand why eggs act differently under various cooking conditions. Very fresh eggs when dropped into a vessel of boiling water are apt to crack, for their shells are so well filled that the too sudden dilation inside, caused by the heat bursts the shell. If the quantity of water in the pan is small, they do not crack, for the temperature is reduced before dilation takes place. Stale eggs do not crack because the air inside is easily compressed.

Eggs to keep best in the family cold pantry should be placed in a wooden egg rack, heavy end downward, so the eggs do not touch one another. If a large number are purchased at one time they may be smeared lightly with oil or any clean fat, then be packed in sawdust and set in a cool place. Another method of keeping eggs is to place two or three dozen in a large bowl of lime water—being sure all are covered with the liquid. The modern method of using waterglass is for keeping eggs an indefinite period and it is quite successful for use where market facilities are uncertain for procuring eggs promptly.

Savory Eggs.

Boil six eggs hard. Cool, shell and cut them in halves. Remove the yokes and devil them, fill the halves again and lay them on toast rounds that have been lightly spread with deviled tongue or hame. Make a smooth, well-seasoned tomato sauce and turn over all.

Vermicelli Eggs.

Boil six eggs hard. Cool, shell and cut in halves, then in quarters. Remove the yolks. Make a cream sauce and when done add the egg whites and turn over slices of crustless toast on a hot platter. Take the yolks and put into the ricer, then squeeze them over the top of the dish—they look like vermicelli, which gives the dish its name.

Eggs With Mushrooms.

Boil six eggs hard. Cool, shell and cut them lengthwise. After preparing them, saute a half-pound of fresh mushrooms in butter, onion juice, celery salt and pepper. Stir constantly and cook five minutes. Have ready two cupfuls of cream sauce and turn it into the mushroom mixture. Stir until all is blended. Lay the eggs in a hot dish and turn the cream sauce over them. Serve hot, garnished with a few sprays of fresh parsley.

Eggs Scrambled With Sardines.

Open and drain a small box of sardines, then skin, bone and break them up with a silver fork. Add salt, pepper, a tablespoonful of fresh oil or melted butter, and mash the fish to a paste. Break six eggs into a basin, separating the white of one, and beat the rest lightly with a fork. Add pepper, salt and two tablespoonfuls of milk. Put a small lump of butter into a frying-pan and heat, turn in the eggs, add the stiffly beaten white to the fish paste and turn that in, scramble the usual way, using a silver fork to toss and keep the mixture light. Turn on to a hot platter and garnish with parsley. Add, if desired, a few slices of broiled bacon.

Eggs Poached in Honey.

Pour enough strained honey into a hot frying-pan to cover the bottom well. Slip in the eggs, one at a time when the honey is hot, and poach them. Lift the egg with a skimmer and place each on a toast round. Sprinkle with a little grated cheese, then set in the oven for one minute.

Winifred Black Writes FOLKS AND about THINGS

SUCCESS OF FAILURE.

He's a failure, a dead failure, and he knows it, and he doesn't know what to do about it.

And he's only twenty-seven.

A failure at twenty-seven!

Why, boy, you can't be a failure at that age—you haven't even begun to try to live! What do you call being a failure, anyhow?

You're honest and decent and kindly; you try to do the right thing by your friends and the just thing even by those you don't like.

You're not ill, you are not mentally unbalanced, you have no one dependent upon you.

Failure? Life's just beginning to beckon to you down the road.

You've lived in cities too long—that's all that's the matter with you.

And you've allowed yourself to think that every man who can't wear a smart suit and a good-looking hat and put on a clean shirt freshly ironed every day—is a failure.

What a mistake!

Pack up your few little trifles into the smallest bag you can get. If you can't afford a suitcase, get a gunnysack. Throw it over your shoulder and start out into the country. Go as far as you can, and stop at a nice, comfy-looking farmhouse and ask for work—any kind of work.

WORK AND CONTENTMENT.

They'll set you to work the first thing in the morning—oh, yes, it will be early enough, don't worry about that! And when night comes, you'll be so tired that every muscle in your body will ache and every bone, too, and you won't want to do a thing but creep to bed and rest.

And you won't move till morning, and you'll hate to get up and you'll wish you'd stayed in town where people knew enough to stay in bed till daylight. And you'll decide to go back at the end of the week, but if you're the right sort of fellow you won't go back.

You'll stay and you'll work, and at the end of ten days you'll be astonished at yourself. Your muscles will stop aching and so will your bones. You'll eat and sleep as you haven't eaten and slept in years. And you'll have a dozen chances to make good in a dozen different ways.

The little country town at the foot of the hill—all the young men have gone to the city to be "captains of industry." Slip into a pair of shoes that one of them has left behind him. They want a clerk in the little store—they want a helper in the little garage—they need someone up at the station to handle baggage—who but you with your head up and your heart light to get the job?

And you won't have to stop there. You can save your money and get a little interest in the garage or in the store.

You can ask the prettiest girl in town to go to the motion picture show with you and she'll go—if she likes your looks, and the people where you work have a good word to say for you.

A man's a man in the country—yet—thanks to the old stock and the old soil.

DON'T WISH—WORK!

Your family? The ones who never liked you and treated you so badly. The stepmother who drove you from home—don't waste your time trying to remember how she looks. She's out of your life forever. Be glad of it and go on and make a little home for yourself and friends for yourself and get a wife for yourself—a nice, sensible, comfy, country girl who'll love you for what you are and not for what she thinks you might possibly inherit some day.

Stop looking at the crowd in the city streets—stop sitting with the failures on the park benches—stop wishing things were different.

Go out and make them different! You're a man, not a puppet—you're an American, not the cowed product of generations of failures.

Cry on Geraldine's SHOULDER

SPECIAL NOTICE—Some time since someone asked Jerry to help her find her mother and told of having been adopted as a baby from a home managed by a Mrs. Funke in Alameda. A gentleman has read this letter and has sent Jerry a communication for the writer which will be forwarded at once on receipt of writer's address.

Folks, I want you to read the following appealing little letter with friendly hearts. The writer asks for Jerry's help. I know of no better way to help than by printing his actual appeal and letting his honesty and loyalty have their effect upon you as they did upon Jerry. I wish you could see the letter itself with the worry blots and the big love between the lines. Then—if perhaps YOU happened to be one of the thoughtless ones who had started the hurtful talk, I know you would be sorry. And so I send it on, hoping that it WILL reach those who should read it and send them with outstretched hands to beg pardon.

As for "your girl and you," dear Argonne Pal, Jerry loves you both. I'd try to love with the gossip-hurt if I were you, but if the hurt still rankles, that "toot sweet" marriage scheme is a great plan. Tell the little girl not to worry. A certain class of people will always talk anyway. But the ones WHO REALLY COUNT will always stand by you and understand.

Here's the Letter

Dear Jerry:

A little advice, please. I am a young man of 24 and am going with a girl of 24. For the past year I have not missed seeing her more than ten nights. Now, Jerry, I know there is not a better girl living than she is and I have loved her from the first time I went with her. We were going to be married in about six or eight months. The reason that we put it off is that I am not in a position to get married as we should and would like to—that is, to take a little honeymoon trip and also have a little left.

Now last Saturday night we went for a ride (I have a machine) to a small town about 50 miles from here, getting there about 11 Saturday night. We went for something to eat and I was going to start back about 12:30, but could not get the car going. Well, to make a long story short, after working on the machine for four hours it started, and when about half way here we had tire troubles so it was 8 a. m. when we got home.

And Jerry, we have such LOVELY friends around where she stays and they started to talk, and my girl is almost heartbroken. So I told her that we would get married "toot sweet" if she wished. But she said that would only be letting our dear friends think that they were right. So I told her I would write to you and I hope you can understand and I know you will help. With lots of love and best wishes from my girl and me.

ARGONNE.

And Jerry will now stand right up in meeting and add with forceful gestures, that any fellow who will write a straight, manly letter like that is ALL RIGHT and that the people who talked are not.

"Comrade Mother" told us of her struggles to "make good" and the big plan at which she had arrived with her kiddies. Here's an answer:

Dear Geraldine:

About Comrade Mother whose letter was in Sunday's paper. I think she is just fine. I know she is doing right because I was brought up that way. My mother had eight children—four boys and four girls. She had been very strictly brought up. She was never allowed to ask "Why" about anything. So with us she explained the why of everything we had to do. She "asked" us to do things. She didn't tell us we had to. There is a lot of difference. She had a temper, too, but it seldom got the best of her. One of my brothers had her temper, and it wasn't until he was nearly twenty that he learned to control it, but he has with the help of mother's chumminess.

I'm the youngest of her children and now I have a little girl three years old. She is very independent, and temper. O boy! Some people think I'm wasting breath explaining things to her. But little as she is she respects my things and her daddy's. She will never do a thing she has been asked not to if she has been told why. It takes patience but it is worth it. I get cross sometimes and feel like slapping, but I stop short and then my little girl and I have a romp around the house and we feel all fine again.

I know when I was sixteen and seventeen it was pretty handy to be able to use my own judgment. I knew older people knew more than I and never having been bossed, I didn't need to be, but could seek the advice of my elders when I needed it.

I'm a pretty young mother, being just twenty-three and the mother of just one three-year-old, but it's great to be here and I'm glad you are putting in some good licks for the little folks for the sure need it.

I wonder how we got along before you came?

ANNIS.

You may be only twenty-three in years, girlie, but you're one hundred and three in wisdom. I've never seen a finer, healthier attitude toward the mother-and-child relationship and I hope this will tell that Annis girl that Jerry wants her for her friend for keeps.

End Battle of States

Folks, Jerry must hereby serve notice that the Battle of the States is off for the present. Things became so heated that it was impossible to publish them unless we printed the paper on asbestos. I want the writers to know that Jerry appreciated them all and hopes they'll write again on a less combustible subject.

Wants to Have Freedom

Dearest Jerry:

I have come to you for advice. Here is my trouble. I have a very cross and strict aunt who never lets me go out with any of my girl friends. I only can go out with her, which is very seldom. Jerry, I go to high school and when I come home I stay there for the rest of the day. My girl friends tell me I am foolish to stay home and never go out.

Jerry, I am seventeen years old and I think I am old enough to go out once in a while with somebody else, just as long as I get home at a reasonable hour. Don't you think, Jerry, I should go out once in a while?

Answer as quickly as possible for I am waiting.

BETTY CURRAN.

Betty dear, I cannot know the conditions in your home. There are probably two sides to this trouble as there are to every problem and Jerry certainly does not wish to make trouble. But generally speaking, I certainly do think that a girl of seventeen should be "allowed to go out sometimes" PROVIDED she shows herself capable of assuming the responsibility of a certain amount of freedom. In other words, if she wishes to be treated other than as a child, she should prove that she is more than a child. She should do her school work and home duties willingly and promptly. She should respect the home hours and the convenience of those with whom she shares that home. These things any adult would do and if she wishes to be treated as an adult she should do them too. If you were my girl, Betty, I'd "put it up to you" in just these words and give your proposition a try out. I've a big hunch that you would make good.

A. A. C. Would that I could help you, but who "Brown Eyes" is I don't know. She wrote her pitiful story to Jerry, needing a word of comfort and, I think, getting some relief by telling about her troubles. I would be glad to give you her name but she did not sign it.

NAU and DOT. Will you write me again immediately giving your names and addresses. I will try and help you, and promise that your names will be kept in confidence by me.

To the Daughter

Dear Jerry:

In answer to that letter from a daughter who feels she has not given her dear mother the love she deserves to have. I want to say go to it girl, love her and love her, for our big old world is starving for love, and I believe some day we will all throw off the coat of false pride and not be afraid to love each other anywhere.

I, too, felt as this girl does, and still feel that I did not give my dear mother the love she should have had, but I did not understand then. We, none of us, seldom understand until we have a child of our own. And now my mother has gone unto the great beyond, and I can't love her on this earth, so I say love her, dear girl, while you have her.

Jerry, your fine page shows up all our faults and helps us to better them. Those knockers must have a very cold heart and do not like to hear about the heartaches in this world.

Geraldine, I have a sister who I would love to be chummy with and love her, but she acts so cold and I just can't. Is there some way I could get her to see I love her and I want to treat her like a sister and not have her turn up her nose at everything just because I haven't it quite as nice as she.

Thanking you, Jerry,

A READER.

Dear Girl, I like the big friendliness of that letter and I, too, hope that "some day we will not be afraid to love each other anywhere." There is an odd thing about love, however, which applies to the girl who wrote in about herself and her mother and, I imagine, also applies to you and your sister. YOU CAN'T FORCE LOVE. It rests on a mysterious, hidden harmony of adjustment that we can neither analyze nor consciously create. Some natures just "fit" and some don't—and that's all we can do about it. We're willing enough to accept this fact where outsiders are concerned, but we somehow can't quite seem to understand that it also applies to "blood kin." Indeed, the very closeness of the blood bond makes the lack of harmony all the more irritating and baffling. The only plan is to be as kindly as possible when occasion demands—and to leave the other person alone unless he or she seeks you out. Under this plan it is possible that, in time, a new and true attachment may grow. But any effort to force the unity will result in disaster.

More About Lizards

"Beatrice Lee" resented the attention of the masculine sidewalk decorations. Here comes someone who thinks that there may be two sides to the question.

Pal o' Mine:

Would like to say a few words to Beatrice Lee. In the first place, Jerry dear, don't you think perhaps the girl with Beatrice didn't stop to fix her belt, but naturally looked around to see if the gentleman in question was still following them? You see, Beatrice just naturally hates herself; you can tell that from her letter.

I believe in compliments, but let someone else hand them to you. She really doesn't hesitate to tell about all her virtues. Believe me, Jerry, there wouldn't be male pavement lizards if there weren't female pavement lizards.

Don't think for one minute all you girls walk around with beaded lashes downcast and drug store blushes on your cheeks, then try to look innocent, for if the said pavement lizard didn't notice you, you'd run right for a mirror to find out what was the matter. And if you weren't watching him, how did you know he noticed you?

Furthermore, are women these days clinging vines so that you had to run to the theater and bring big buddy out to take you home after such a terrible fright? Women these days are just as able to care for themselves as men, and if you are as athletic as you claim to be, how come? If women have just learned how to think, you better join the ranks and learn, too. You had better think about something else other than how the boys truly loved you when you were 15. Now that I'm thoroughly exhausted, I'll quit.

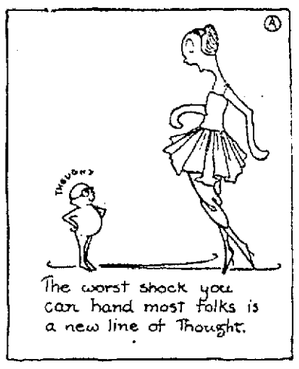
PAT and ENID CHESTERFIELD.

Listen, World!

The worst shock you can hand most people is to give 'em a new line of thought. Without an instant's hesitation they brand it as dangerous and look upon you with profound distrust.

The thought may really be most helpful and you may be worthy of a place in the Hall of Fame for springing it—but that makes no difference. Just because it is different from the thoughts their grandfathers thought before them, and might possibly dislocate some existing arrangements, the mass of people will spurn it and consider that you have personally insulted them because you suggested it.



Moreover, instead of being ashamed of their own inelasticity of mind, they will feel a righteous glow because they have snubbed you.

Nor does this apply only to the ignorant and lowly. The socially elect are just as fussy about being bothered mentally. Thinking, in general, is not regarded as good form. If you MUST think you're, you're supposed to indulge your vice in private, like boot-legging.

Of course they permit Thought Fads. Fads about making love, and getting your soul saved, and busting up the government. Such things put the eclat in the drawing room clatter. But to indulge in them spontaneously and without the social sanction—mercy, NO!

The moral of which is this—Don't think at all if you can possibly avoid it; and if you MUST have thoughts, for goodness sakes, choose fashionable ones.

Letters of Tessie & Joe.

DEAR TESSIE—

I got another letter from the boss written in more of a threatening than a complimentary style. His chief objection to me as a salesman of Daisy Canned Soups is that I don't sell any, and he said I ought to establish a more personal contact stuff and see if ers and then maybe I'd come across with a few orders to lend variety to my expense accounts.

So today I decided to try the personal contac stuff and see if it would change my luck. A ginkus named Hiddock has opened up a new grocery here almost as big as the fire house, and this morning I breezed in looking as cheerful as before prohibition.

"Morning, morning, Mr. Hiddock!" I carols. "Fine weather for this kind of weather. How's the missus?"

"Are you trying to insult me?" he comes back, clouding up as if he was goinig to rain on me.

"Quite the contrary—I mean not at all," I assured him, trying to ooze peace on earth and good will towards grocers.

"Well, then, let me introduce myself as a tectotaler as far as women are concerned, and also as founder and president of the Anti-Female Club, and any man that accuses me of having a wife has got to apologize or fight," he ultimatums.

Well, believe me, Tessie, I saw it was no time to mention soup, so after the weather had cleared a bit I tried another tack. There was a dog snooping around, and nothing makes a man feel more important than praising his dog.

"Some dog you got there!" I broke out, and right away his face lit up like your mother's used to when she found out we didn't intend to stay for supper.

"Yeh? Think so?" he gurglee. "What do you figure he's worth?"

"Fifty dollars if he's worth a Russian rouble," I flashes back, and old Hiddock says, "You can have him for five. Is it a bargain?"

"So the long and the short of it is, I am sending you a kind of a dog by parcels post. Don't let him bite the baby, or vice versa. The dog's name is Olaf for some reason. Husband, JOE.

Uncle Wiggily Stories

by HOWARD R. GARIS

"Come on play sand house with me, Jimmie!"

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SHOVIE OVVIE.

"Uncle Wiggily! Oh, Uncle Wiggily! I wish you would please go get Baby Bunty!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning, to the bunny rabbit gentleman.

"What's the matter now? Why should I go get Baby Bunty?" asked Uncle Wiggily, laying aside his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch, which he was painting with molasses. The reason he was putting molasses on his crutch was so that when the little red and black ants crawled up it they would find something sweet to eat.

"Why should I get Baby Bunty?" asked Uncle Wiggily again. "Do you want her to chase me or play tag?"

"Oh, no; it isn't that!" laughed Nurse Jane. "I know you don't like to be tagged or chased. But Baby Bunty is playing away down at the end of the yard, in the sand pile, and I think she had better come up nearer the hollow stump bungalow, where I can watch her. Please go get her, Uncle Wiggily."

"All right, I will," said the bunny gentleman. So he stopped putting ice cream on the end of his pink twinkling nose—what's that? Wrong again? Oh, I see. I mean he stopped putting molasses on his crutch and away he hopped down to the end of the yard to get Baby Bunty.

The little rabbit girl, who often came to stay with Uncle Wiggily and the muskrat lady housekeeper, was playing, as Nurse Jane had said, in a sand heap at the bottom of the yard.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" cried Baby Bunty, as she saw her friend hopping toward her. "Come an' help me make a sand house!"

"You'd better come up to my hollow stump bungalow house, Baby Bunty!" said Mr. Longears. "Nice Nurse Janey doesn't want you away down here."

"I come after I make san' house!" said Bunty, pretending to speak baby talk.

"No, you must come now!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"Will 'oo make me 'ittle san house?" asked Baby Bunty, cutely.

"No, not now, my dear," the bunny gentleman said.

"Then I get Jimmie!" said Bunty, standing up and throwing some sand behind her.

"Jimmie who?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Jimmie Wibblewobble, the duck boy. Here he comes now," spoke Baby Bunty. She pointed to the duck brother of Lulu and Alice Wibblewobble, who was flapping along the woodland path, not far from Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. "Come on play sand house with me, Jimmie!" called Baby Bunty.

"I can't!" Jimmie answered. "I have to go to the store to get my mother a shovie ovvie!"

"A what?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily.

"A shovie ovvie!" Jimmie answered, and away he waddled before the bunny uncle had time to ask what a shovie ovvie was.

"Nope! Don't want to. Bunty wants play in san'!" lisped the little rabbit girl, pretending to be very little, indeed, and making believe to be peevish.

"If you don't come I'll have to carry you!" Mr. Longears said.

"Oh, I likes be carried!" laughed the little tyke, and down on the sand she flopped, and she stuck out her legs and shoved Uncle Wiggily's paw from under him so he had to sit down also.

"Now we both sittin' down we play san' house!" laughed Baby Bunty. "I likes you, Unk Wigg!"

"Yes, and I like Uncle Wiggily myself, only I specially like his ears to nibble!" suddenly cried a harsh voice, and the bad old Blue Nose Babboon jumped out of the bushes back of Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Baby Bunty, and she wished she had minded at first and had gone to the bungalow with her uncle. Then the Babboon wouldn't have come along.

"I am going to have plenty of ears to nibble today!" said the Bab as I call him for short. He sat down on the sand, a little way from Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty. "I guess I'll nibble the little rabbit girl's ears first, and then yours, Uncle Wiggily," blustered the Babboon.

He was just going to reach out his paw and grasp Baby Bunty when, all of a sudden, along came Jimmie Wibblewobble, the duck boy, again.

"Hurt Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty, will you? Well, I guess not!" quacked Jimmie. And then, all of a sudden such a shower of sand fell all around the bad Bab that he couldn't see through it to get either of the bunnies.

"Quick now!" quacked Jimmie, as the sand showered all around. "Run, Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty!"

Away they ran, safely reaching the bungalow, and then along came Jimmie with a fire shovel under his wing.

"How did you shower sand around the Babboon so he couldn't see us?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"With the new shovie ovvie I went to the store to get for my mother," the duck boy answered. "See, this is what I call a shovie ovvie," and he held up the shovel.

"Well, whatever you call it, our ears are safe," laughed the bunny gentleman. And so they were. And if the mud puddle doesn't want to go to sleep in the nice white bath tub and make it look like a chocolate cake, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the scratchie atchie.

THIRD CANDIDATE ENTERS RACE FOR MONEY RECEIVER

Delay over the appointment at Washington of a receiver of public money for this district has not been occasioned over any conflict of claims between Mrs. Hattie Jewell Anderson, Oakland candidate for the place, and Miss Esther Pujaro of San Francisco. While the two are the only ones who have been announced as possibilities it has leaked out that the entrance of a third candidate, Mrs. French, who was at one time secretary for Senator Hiram Johnson, is the development that has caused the deadlock. It is expected that the appointment will be announced within a short time, and the friends of the Oakland candidate who know the favor she has close to the White House are confident that the place will go to her. At any rate, they say, if Mrs. Anderson does not get this position she will be given something else just as good.

McGEE IN RACE.

John T. Williams, one of San Francisco's aspirants for the United States attorneyship, has arrived in Washington, for which place he departed post haste when he heard that there had been several monkey wrenches thrown in the machinery he had thought well oiled to land him the place. The deadlocked situation changes in complexion with almost every dawn.

A day or two ago R. H. McCormick's friends believed that it was all over but the shouting, and now the word from Washington is that Charles A. A. McGee of Oakland is "in the lead." It is being pointed out that McGee's friend, Secretary Davis of the Department of Labor, has successfully boosted many a Moose into government jobs and that both Davis and McGee are prominent in that order. H. C. Nelson, State Senator from Humboldt, and Charles Fickert, former district attorney of San Francisco, are the other candidates.

WILL REMAIN ON DUTY.

M. J. Kelly, who has resigned his place as tax collector, has given up plans for a short vacation before taking over his duties as superintendent of the mint. Kelly found that as his name is signed to a number of notices concerning the collection of money which must be turned in before July 1 that it would be advisable for him to remain on duty until that date.

It developed today that the latest plan of the friends of Dr. R. L. Richards, who was recently removed as superintendent of the Mendocino State Hospital, is to appeal to the governor to place Richards back on the job after July 1, when the new department of institutions will be in effect. Under the reorganized State government the head of the department of institutions will control the Mendocino hospital, and the board which removed Richards will be without any word in the matter. Governor Stephens, who was in San Francisco yesterday, would not comment on the situation.

HIGHEST AND LOWEST POINTS IN CALIFORNIA

WASHINGTON, June 7.— The highest and lowest points in the United States are in California, within 90 miles of each other, says a bulletin issued by the Geological Survey. Mount Whitney, the highest point, is 14,501 feet above sea level, and in Death Valley there is a depression that lies 276 feet below sea level.

The difference in height of these two points is small, however, the Survey states, as compared with the difference in the height and depts of land in Asia. Mount Everest rises 29,002 feet above sea level, whereas the shores of the Dead Sea lie 1290 feet below.

Information in the hands of the Survey shows that the greatest depth yet found in any ocean is 32,088 feet, a depth at a point about 40 miles north of the island of Mindanao in the Philippines. This would make the bottom of the sea at that point more than 11½ miles below the summit of Mount Everest.

SENTENCE BEGUN FOR VIOLATION OF SEA INJUNCTION

Judge Van Fleet Sentences Man To Sixty Days and $100 Fine.

Edwin Forrest, 24 years old, a member of the Marine Cooks and Waiters' Union, began serving his sentence of sixty days in the Alameda county jail and a fine of $100 today following his trial for contempt of court before Federal Judge William C. Van Fleet yesterday in San Francisco. Forrest was found guilty of violating the temporary order issued by Judge Van Fleet restraining any one from interfering with persons employed on ships or vessels from San Francisco bay.

He was accused of having assaulted Frank Mendez, a waiter on the steamer Golden State, when the latter went to union headquarters on June 1 to turn in his card.

"No strike was ever won by violence, and I am of the opinion none will be," said the court in imposing the sentence.

Replying to a telegram sent to Washington Saturday by Harold M. Ebey, district director of operations of the United States Shipping Board, instructions were received yesterday for the local district to continue to move vessels as if the strike were to last indefinitely. The telegram said that during the past week 99 shipping vessels had been moved from the Atlantic and Gulf ports, and that in Baltimore and Boston conditions were normal.

Andrew Furuseth, international president of the Seaman's Union of America, wired all the maritime unions involved in the strike, saying that all negotiations had been broken off between the engineers and the officials of the United States Shipping Board.

MRS. SCHRAM HAD VERY CLOSE CALL

"I can say this much for Tanlac, it's the best medicine I have ever heard of during the seventy-one years of my life," said Mrs. C. H. Schram, highly esteemed resident of 1711 London street, Los Angeles.

"For five or six years I had suffered dreadfully from indigestion, bloating and terrible pains in my stomach. I had no appetite, and was afraid to eat scarcely a thing on account of the awful distress I knew it would cause me. Many a sleepless night I heard the clock strike almost every hour, and I just felt weak and miserable all the time. Then came the 'flu' and after that I didn't see how I could hold out much longer. My stomach was worse than ever, I had to live on a special diet, and in spite of everything I did and all the medicine I took I could get no better.

"However, I began improving on my very first bottle of Tanlac, and eight bottles of the medicine have put me in the best of health. I eat good, sleep good and feel fine in every way. In fact, I just feel like a new woman, and I only hope my statement will lead others to take Tanlac, for I believe it will help whoever tries it."

Trustees Certain Bonds Will Carry

ESCALON, June 7.—So sanguine are the Escalon school trustees that the proposed $18,000 building bond will carry that they have already given a Stockton firm of architects the task of drawing plans and specifications. They declare, by doing this, building will be started as soon as the election is finished, so that the school addition may be ready for the fall term.

BENNY LEONARD GIVES ROCKY KANSAS A BOXING LESSON IN 12 ROUNDS AT HARRISON

Fight Fans Recall That Memorable Afternoon at Reno, Nevada, When Jim Jeffries Went Down to Defeat

By BOB SHAND

In the places where the boxing fans congregate the Carpentier-Dempsey fight is at present the principal topic of conversation, but when the boys have chattered all they know about the impending battle, the conversation invariably veers back to former fights for the title. Hundreds of local fans went to Reno for the July 4, 1910, scrap between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson and of the hundreds who went probably not more than half a dozen bet the right way. The "inside dope" was that Jeff couldn't lose. The big fellow, under the management of Sam Berger, had signed for a vaudeville tour of the world and the "wise" fans had it all figured that Big Jim would bring back the championship to the Caucasian race. Johnson had only licked little Tommy Burns for the title, anyhow, and in his record were a number of "bad" fights. Your average "expert" couldn't see how Jim could lose to the colored heavyweight—even if he had been out of the game for seven years, during which time he was glad-handing in front of his bar on Spring street, Los Angeles.

Johnson's record was not impressive. He stopped Burns in 14 rounds in Australia in 1908 and then let lumsy Al Kaufman stick ten rounds with him in San Francisco the following year. One month later he topped Stanley Ketchel at Colma in twelve rounds after the middleweight had sent him sprawling to the floor. Johnson's actions got him in wrong with the public. "White Hopes" were ung up out of every village in the ountry and they were all so bad that ohnson could have cleaned the whole rop in one evening.

Who was there among all the white eavyweights to defeat the arrogant ohnson and bring back the championship to the Caucasian race.

Jeffries Induced To Don the Gloves Again

"Would Jeffries fight again?"

Certainly not, said Jim. He had had his fling at the game and was through. But the lure of the dollar was adroitly used and Jim succumbed.

"You ought to get $100,000 from stage work before the fight, Tex Rickard will offer a purse of $101,000 for the fight and there ought to be a quarter of a million from the pictures and the stage after winning the championship he was told.

Jim felt of his aldermanic stomach and thought of the effort it was to climb stairs. He was hog fat and had been living the life of the saloonkeeper for many years. He was 35 years of age.

The almighty dollar won another victory and articles were signed for the fight. Jeff went into training at Rowardennan in the Santa Cruz mountains, while Johnson trained in Nevada.

Jeff's efforts to get in condition were pitiable. He could not run a hundred yards without getting winded and his boxing was a crime. The writer spent two weeks with the big fellow and was one of the few newspapermen privileged to witness Jeff box. The training was done in a handball court fenced off with wire netting and the public was not invited. There was a reason. Instead of boxing with big strong sparring partners Jeff did most of his work with Joe Choynski and Farmer Burns, the latter a wrestler, and he actually put in a lot of time playing with little Dick Adams, local hotel man. His every movement in the gymnasium was an effort, and his punches missed their mark by feet. Jim was the representative of the white race and little was sent to the outside world about his lack of condition. The press agents sent stories out about Jim doing six and ten miles on the road every morning, but a two-mile slow walk was the extent of the road work.

Oakland Men Were Jeff's Companions While Training

Then the governor stepped into the picture and chased the fight from San Francisco to Reno, Nevada. Jim and his entourage moved to the Sagebrush state and Jeffries did most of his training there on the banks of a stream trying to lure trout from the water. Jack Woolley and Dick Adams of Oakland were his constant companions on these trips.

Came the morning of the fight and a million rumors.

"Johnson will be scared to win for fear of being mobbed."

"Johnson won't lay down unless he gets the money in advance and the other side is afraid to trust him for fear he double crosses them."

These were some of the wild tales related to the writer, who arrived in Reno the morning of the battle. Hundreds of Oakland fans who had come up on Mel Moffitt's special train were running in circles trying to get the inside dope and at the same time avoid falling over the crap tables which were protruding on the sidewalks in front of every saloon. It was a busy morning. The town was practically "eaten out" and late arrivals were paying a dollar apiece for any kind of a sandwich.

There was the same uncertainty at the ringside. Rumors were flying thick and fast, but the Jeffries adherents stood pat. Most of them actually believed that Johnson would be afraid to win. The colored champion's intrigues with white women, his defiance of certain laws and his general arrogant demeanor had caused a wave of indignation to sweep the country.

Big Jeff Was Beaten Before the Bout Starts

Then, and then only, the Jeffries backers knew that fear only could keep the colored man from winning.

Billy Jordan introduced the principals. Johnson was greeted coolly, even coldly. Came Jeffries, and bedlam was expected to break loose, but one look at that woe-begone expression on the white man's face brought words of sympathy and fear rather than howls of encouragement from the throng.

The gong sounded and the men squared away. Johnson sprung from his corner. Jeff dragged his tired feet across the canvas to his waiting opponent. Johnson stuck a long left hand into Jim's face. Jeff started a right and missed by a foot. Johnson shot another left to the head and then started to measure his man with his right—thought better of it and dropped the punch to the chest.

The farce continued for fourteen rounds. In the fifteenth Jeff was wobbly in the knees. The full force of Johnson's punches had never reached him, but Old Man Nature was asserting himself. The play could not possibly continue longer. And the finish came in the middle of the fifteenth round.

Johnson was not mobbed or even molested. He had won a fair standup fight, a fight not of his own seeking, and the American public is too fair-minded to dig up an old grudge as a motive for injuring a person who has obeyed the rules of the game.

Dick Adams Went Broke Betting On His Friend

Jeff went farming. Johnson continued defying the law and was ultimately sent to jail for a year. He'll be out three days after the Carpentier-Dempsey fight, and the day he leaves prison Jim Jeffries will probably be selling some of his prize Holsteins for a few thousand dollars and worrying not at all about fights or fighters.

Maybe Little Dick Adams will go back and see the Jersey City battle, even if it will recall unpleasant memories. Dick, Jeffries' closest pal, went for everything he had in the world on Jim and Dick was quite an affluent business man in 1910. He has entirely recuperated, but he isn't betting the entire bankroll any more.

And the other Oakland man who was suspected of putting something in Jeffries' teacup will probably be up on Feather river July 5 fooling the trout.

Johnson Was a Picture of Confidence

Trained to the second and a perfect specimen of the athlete, Jack Johnson oozed confidence while being introduced at Reno. The colored champion's famous "Golden Smile" was in evidence when he entered the ring and it was still there when the fight ended in the fifteenth round. Compare the expression with Jeff's in the other picture.

BOB McALLISTER WAS CLEVEREST MAN DEMPSEY EVER MET IN THE RING

Jack Says Willard Hit Him Hardest Punch He Ever Stopped; Perhaps a Secret Blow

By TAD

(Written for International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 7.—"Who was my hero when I was a kid? Why, Jim Jeffries," said Jack Dempsey to me in his dressing room at Airport recently.

"I always thought Jeff was the greatest man that ever lived. I wondered why it was he didn't run for president. When he beat Fitzsimmons I almost went nutty with joy.

"Do I still think he was good. Bet your life I do. No, I never saw him box. I never saw any of the old stars in a fight. Never saw Corbett, Fitz, Choynski, Goddard, Slavin, Sharkey, Jeff, Johnson, Willard or any of them. I guess Georges Carpentier has seen twenty times as many boxers as I have. The first heavyweight fight I can remember seeing was in New York and that was between Barney Williams and George Asche in 1916.

"No, I never had any of them to copy from. When I started fighting I just went in to knock the other fellow over or get knocked over myself. The hardest fight I ever had in my career was with a fellow you never heard of. It was near Goldfield, Nev. The fellow was Johnny Sudenberg. We fought ten rounds and I won, but, on the square, I looked worse than he did after the fight. I've taken many a licking in fights since, but Sudenberg gave me one in the first few rounds that was a pippin. We took up a collection after the fight and each got seven and a half bucks. Wasn't that rich? Then the mayor heard we had staged a prize fight and ordered us to get out of town.

"How did I get into the ring? Oh, I just drifted along kind of, you know, and got out to 'Frisco and Oakland, and then went right on up. Doc Kearns got me started on the coast, and I guess we were lucky, because in all the starts I had I only lost to one fellow and that was Willie Meehan.

Meehan Was Hardest Opponent To Figure

"Meehan was the hardest fellow to hit I ever fought. He had a way of sliding in and out. I almost broke my back trying to get one in a good spot on him. Who was the cleverest? Oh, Bob McAllister. Gee, I couldn't understand how a guy could get that good. I beat him the night we met but it was like shooting a ghost.

"The hardest hitter? Well, I don't know whether you saw the punch or not, but the hardest punch I ever remember stopping was the one that Willard hit me in the third round at Toledo. You know Doc Kearns told me to go out and take things easy that round, and I was doing as I was told. All of a sudden Willard hooked me with a right-hander on the chin and I had to grab him to hold myself up. Gosh, it was a beaut. It felt as though I had a boiler factory inside my head. I couldn't hear good for an hour afterward. Yes, Gunboat Smith hit me a beaut in 'Frisco. I was dizzy the whole four rounds, but I won from him. Couldn't that fellow sock, though?

"Do I talk to fellows in the ring? No. What's the good? Kid Carpentier? No. Georges wouldn't understand me, any way. The night we shook hands at the Garden, I said, 'Georges, I'm glad to see you.' He smiled and said, 'I thank you. I come to fight this time, no movie pictures.' I laughed and said, 'I'm glad to hear that, Georges; I need the money.' That's all we said, though we laughed for a minute after, I guess, still holding hands."

Strangler Buys Ranch; May Wrestle Mexican

Wrestler Overcomes Big Weight Handicap

SACRAMENTO, June 7. — A weight handicap of 35 pounds did not prevent Jack Dod, local grappler, from defeating Jack Roller, 216-pounder, in two straight falls here last night. Roller secured the first fall, but after that was on the defensive.

CORBETT GIVES SOME TIPS ON TRAINING BOX FIGHTERS

By JAMES J. CORBETT,
Former Heavyweight Champion of the World
(Written expressly for the International News Service)
(Copyright, 1921, by International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 7.—Georges Carpentier and Jack Dempsey have just entered what I consider the most crucial period of their training for the big battle at Jersey City July 2.

Between now and June 20 both fighters must be carried along carefully and the manner in which they are handled, say during the next ten days, will mean a lot.

After June 20 it will be the aim of their trainers, having built them up to a certain point of physical fitness, to prime them for the big fight. Dempsey and his rival are both in very fine physical condition today. They have reached the point where it would be very harmful to do too much or too little work, though the chance of over-training is the most dangerous.

This is where the value of a trainer who knows his man comes in. And from what the fighters have done within the last few days, I imagine that Kearns and Descamps have both entertained fears that their proteges might overstep the limit. Carpentier has not expended any great amount of exertion in the presence of reporters, it is true. But he has been working very hard in private.

And to my notion, the slight cut Jack Dempsey received over his eye Sunday came as more of a blessing than anything else, for it was not serious and it gave the champion a chance for a respite from too much boxing. Dempsey's training schedule of boxing in public every day makes his handling much more difficult than that of Carpentier, for no matter how fast or slow a pace he sets with his sparring partners, he expends energy, and, what is more he boxes in the full glare of the boiling sun. In Carpentier's camp the ring is pitched behind a barn in the shade of trees and Georges gets most of his sunning on the road in the early morning. It is noticeable that he has so far failed to show what might be called even a fair coat of tan, and as he is naturally fair skinned, this is unusual.

One more thing is very essential in connection with the handling of both fighters from now until they enter the ring, and that is the nursing of their mental attitudes.

Dempsey, according to all reports, and certainly when I last saw him, has exhibited the best nature of any heavyweight champion who ever trained for such an important battle. Carpentier, though usually cool and self-possessed, has shown several flashes of nervous temperament, though for the most part his ready smile has been easily provoked. Keeping these two lads in a happy frame of mind means almost as much as whipping them into just the right physical pitch.

Champion Rocks the Rocky Kid With Solid Socks

NEWARK, N. J., June 7.—Benny Leonard's lightweight championship crown is just as far out of reach of Rocky Kansas today as it has ever been.

In twelve rounds of milling before a crowd of 25,000 odd fans at Harrison last night Leonard won a popular decision over the sturdy Buffalonian, giving him a boxing lesson and at times rocking him with terrific punches that would have put a less sturdy opponent down and out.

Carp's Right Hand Is His Best Wallop

By JACK VEIOCK.
International News Service Sports Editor.

MANHASSET, L. I., June 7. — The serious stage of Georges Carpentier's train for Jack Dempsey has arrived.

From now on the French challenger will begin to put in the hard licks with his sparring partners, and as a result he will retreat a bit further into the shell he brought with him across the Atlantic.

Francois Descamps, wily manager of the European champion, announced today that henceforth Georges will perform for the members of the press only twice a week—on Mondays and Thursdays—which means that the experts will get but seven more chances to look him over before he crawls through the ropes with Dempsey at Jersey City, July 2.

In the few workouts Carpentier has performed with press representatives looking on he has failed to exhibit more than a fleeting glimpse of the thing called fighting form. His work-out Monday was no different from the rest, with the exception that he put Jeanette down for a couple of seconds, with a right-hand punch. Carpentier's right hand is without a doubt his best bet. His left is fast and he shoots through enough on it but the real wallop is in the right mitten, and as the writer has recorded before, that right is a very dangerous one for Dempsey or anyone else. Perhaps the most startling thing about Carpentier's showing to date has been his failure to exhibit the marvelous defensive ability with which he is credited. Jeanette and Journee have had no trouble reaching his stomach and his jaw with rights and lefts and a number of old timers who have seen his work have agreed that he is wide open for a good left hand.

Jeff Was Licked Before He Started

Dempsey Will Outweigh the French Champ

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 7—There will be difference in weight of about 20 pounds when Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier peel off their ath robes for the world's heavyweight championship match in Jersey City, June 2. Dempsey said today that he planned to scale exactly 190 pounds in the ring. If he succeeds in keeping his weight at that notch he will be three pounds heavier than he ever has weighed for a fight before. When he won the title from Jess Willard at Toledo two years ago, Dempsey scaled exactly 187 pounds.

"I am growing a bit and I am governing my weight accordingly," Dempsey said. "I think I will be at my best at 190 pounds and will be able to box at top speed. Carpentier I understand, will weigh about 170 pounds."

With the match less than four weeks away Dempsey today is within seven pounds of the weight he hopes to reach. The champion's legs are as thin as lightweights.

Boxers Will Perform At Neptune Beach Tomorrow Evening

Pat Larue will make his debut as a matchmaker tomorrow night when the first weekly outdoor boxing show will be held on the beach at Neptune Beach. Permission from the city authorities of Alameda to hold the boxing events has been granted.

The boxing bouts will be directly supervised by the Alameda police force. Lieutenant Daly will serve as the third man in the ring.

In addition to the boxing, there will be several special features staged as interludes by the management, including a night fire dive by Harvey Parry, the daring boy plunger. Other events are the appearance of the Lessard twins, and special gymnastic stunts in the ring.

Joe Medina vs. Percy Carl.
Ronnie Irwin vs. John Forney.
George Davis vs. George Mendez.
Bill Smith vs. Eddie Grande.
Jack Thomas vs. Eddie Finn.
Joe Mendez vs. Bobbie Jackson.
George Boshey vs. Frank Donovan.

Women are now eligible to win the V. C.

JIMMY CAVENEY PRESSING SPENCER FOR HITTING HONORS

SOUTHPAWS HAVE PROVED MOST CONSISTENT IN FIRST TWO MONTHS WINNERS FOR THE OAKS

COOPER, KNIGHT SHOWED GOOD WORK WITH STICK AGAINST THE BEAVERS

BY EDDIE MURPHY

By making one of the biggest gains to be made by any player in the space of one week in batting averages, Jimmy Caveney, shortstop for the San Francisco Seals is in a position today where he must be classed as the second best hitter in the Pacific Coast league, if not the best. The high altitude and short fences at Salt Lake enabled Jimmy to make a wonderful gain in the averages. For the seven games played with the Bees, he collected twenty-one base hits, or an average of three per a game, and jumped from .320 to .373. But after looking at the way that Jimmy O'Connell, Maury Schick and Willie Kamm lost points for their hitting at Salt Lake last week, Jimmy Caveney might come back to say that it wasn't the Salt Lake altitude and short fences that brought him his big gain.

Tub Spencer, catcher for the Seattle club, failed to take part in any games last week, so he held his figures of .392, otherwise Caveney might be ahead of him also, as it was a rather disastrous week for a number of the heavy hitters, among them being Hack Miller of the Oaks, Ryan of Sacramento, Cunningham of Seattle, French and Schneider of Vernon, Cox of Portland, Eldred and Middleton of Seattle and the few Seals mentioned above.

Knight and Cooper Improve in Hitting

Among other players in the select circle besides Jimmy Caveney who made extra large gains in the averages by their work last week are Jack Knight of the Oaks, Jenkins, Sand, Strand and Wilhoit of Salt Lake, Sam Agnew of the Seals, Art Koehler of the Oaks, Fitzgerald of the Seals and Stumpf of Seattle.

The hitting by Jack Knight was a big help to the Oaks last week, while Hack Miller was going along just at an ordinary gait, and which resulted in the dropping of eleven points Knight gathered twelve hits for himself last week and hopped from .328 to .349

Claude Cooper, the speedy outfielder of the Oaks who featured last week in the fielding line with several sensational catches, one that helped to win the morning game for the locals on Sunday, made almost as nice a gain as Knight. Claude got thirteen hits off the Portland pitchers and is now nine points of being in the select circle. Last week he was away down at .274. If Claude can keep up that hitting for a little while longer, the Oaks will soon have an outfield hitting better than .325 for Denny Willie is well over the .300 mark with Hack Mille..

Two batters fell out of the select circle last week. They were Middleton and Eldred. But four others went into it, so the list of .300 hitters this week is larger than ever.

Miller Is a Bear At Scoring Runs

Hack Miller of the Oaks is getting stronger every week in his fight to become the leading run maker in the Pacific Coast league, and today finds him but one run behind Texdahl Westerzil, who is leading with 47. Last week Miller was four behind the Rainier. Joe Wilhoit of Salt Lake had a great week against the Seal pitchers, so he scored ten runs in the seven games and is tied with Miller for second honors. Jimmy Caveney, who wasn't listed with the leading runmakers last week, scored twelve times at Salt Lake and is running close to Miller and Wilhoit.

Justin Fitzgerald of the Seals and Billy Lane of the Oaks remained tied for base stealing. Each got away with one last week. Charley Pick of the Coyotes is right on their trail.

Jimmy Caveney also stepped into the limelight in hitting two-baggers, for he got six at Salt Lake and is now tied with Bill Kenworthy, who has twenty-five to his credit

Pete Compton of Seattle hit two more homers and is now leading with nine, while Miller, Ellison and Kamm are tied for second honors with 7.

Athenian Nile Members Play Golf Tomorrow

Annual Club Tournament Will Start Over the Sequoyah Links.

By W. D. McNICOLL

The Athenian club golf tournament, the first half of which takes place at Sequoyah tomorrow, was attracted a record number of entries. The annual golf tournament is looked forward to by the golfing member of the club, many of whom preserve those dates months ahead. The contest is over 36 holes, medal play at handicap. The first 18 holes will be played at Sequoyah and the second round will take place at Claremont a week from tomorrow when the complete scores will be handed in and the numerous prizes presented at a dinner. In a contest of this kind a slight adjustment of players' club handicap is often necessary. Already those changes have been made and posted by Claud B. Barton, who has in the past so successfully handicapped those events.

The competitors will tee off in the following order. The handicaps are for 18 holes:

DESCAMPS IS KIDDING THE EXPERTS NOW

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

MANHASSET, L. I., June 7. — "Like you say to the little craps—'come the seben'—so it is with Demsay and Carpenzhay." So figures Francois Descamps, manager of the French ring idol.

"If Demsay make the pass first, he win. If Carponzhay—ah, if Carponzhay he make the pass first, he win. It is all in the throw. We gamble," he said today, coming as near as he has to telling his ring plans.

Descamps was jubilant today. Instead of talking with his shoulders and his hands, instead of answering everything with an "I do not say," he had his tongue in high gear. He showed the first symptoms of good humor yesterday when his Georges knocked Joe Jeanette to the floor.

"So far until now, Georges he has been doing la box for the journalists. Now he go and do the work for Demsay. He has been doing what you call the 'spoof'; now we have the real.

"You must be detectif now to see Georges. He only show himself Monday and Thursday for the press. He must have more time to his alone.

"Three new box partners they come tomorrow or maybe the next day. Who are they? Ah, zat is what you say my beezeness. I like to make the press guess. They are so good.

MAYBE, MAYBE, MAYBE.

"Harry Greb? I don't know Billy Miske? I don't know. Maybe Bill Brennan. Maybe Jess Willard. You don't know. Ha ha. I have you in the doubt. Francois, he smart, no?

"I am not doing the joke when I say we finish play. We go to the real work for Demsay. We not to do too much but we work everything just for Demsay.

"Georges is in fine shape. He feels good and he is anxious to work. We want to get the punch ready.

"Somebody say today, Georges, he have good legs for running. He can run backways for three, four rounds. Let me say to the country, Georges he never run from anyone. He never run from Demsay.

"He go in. He think—'come the seben.' He let go. Maybe Demsay he let go. Maybe Carponzhay miss. Maybe Demsay miss. If it is the miss it is the lose. We take the beeg chance—'come seben!'"

Changes Made In Rules for Olympic Games

LAUSANNE, June 7. — Four entrants and four starters will be the maximum limit allowed any one nation in each event of future Olympic games. This and other radical alterations in the program for the 1924 international meet at Paris and succeeding Olympic games were announced here following a protracted session of the Olympic Congress. It was decided that the amateur rule governing the eligibility of entrants in future Olympic games should be that of the international federation governing such sport. The rugby football, grass hockey, archery, golf, the tug-of-war, the three thousand meter walk and throwing the 56-pound weight were eliminated from the program of events. All contests will be in the afternoon. Horse riding and polo will be open to civilian entrants in future.

In the swimming 100-meter back stroke and 200-meter breast stroke races were added for women competitors, and the 300-meter free style race was lengthened to 400 meters. In the event for men swimmers, the 400-meter breast stroke was eliminted.

Couch, Fittery Best Hurlers In P C. League

Winn Has Best Winning Record For Oaks, But Krause Pitched Well.

Johnny Couch of the San Francisco Seals leads the list of regular pitchers in the Pacific Coast league, according to the figures gained through the numbers of wins and defeats, but Couch hasn't anything on Paul (Lefty) Fittery of the Sacramento Coyotes, who had won twelve games and lost five and was responsible for but twenty runs, while Couch won ten games and lost two, and was responsible for thirty-four runs. Reinhart of Los Angeles is listed ahead of Couch, but he pitched only seven games and lost two, and was record of the Oakland pitchers in wins and loses, but he was responsible for a great many runs. Figuring on the "runs responsible for" system Harry Krause has the best record of any Oakland pitcher.

Baseball Gossip

The Seals are home today from Salt Lake to battle with "Red" Killefer's Angels, but we haven't heard anything of a scrap between Jimmy O'Connell, the Seal first sacker, and "Don" Brown, third sacker of the Bees, taking place last week at Salt Lake. Jimmy was supposed to do all kinds of rough things to Brown when he met him at Salt Lake, but probably Jimmy refused to be encouraged by the stories.

Of all the fly chasers in the Coast League, there doesn't appear to be any one who has shown up with Claude Cooper this season in going after long drives and pulling them down. During the couple of week that the Oaks were at home, Cooper made some of the most remarkable catches that have been witnessed on the Oakland and San Francisco diamonds. Claude just starts running when it looks like there is not a chance in a hundred for him to get his hands on the ball, but he managed to get his hands on some that looked impossible. He was grabbing them with the tips of his glove fingers.

Lew Blue, former Beaver, is certainly making a big hit with the major league fans. He is not only living up to his reputation of fielding around first base, but he is proving a big surprise by his hitting. Yesterday he was lead-off man for the Tigers and hit a homer, double and single and scored four runs.

Harry Heilmann contributed a triple and two singles to aid the Tigers in downing the Athletics 12 to 8. Bobby Jones, Johnny Bassler and Young got two hits each for the Tigers.

The Boston Red Sox batted Walter Mails, the Cleveland Indian southpaw, from the box in the sixth inning, but Walter escaped charge for the defeat because Cleveland tied the score in the seventh and then Caldwell allowed the Sox a run.

The St Louis Browns defeated the Yanks 5 to 1. One of the hits was a double by Babe Ruth. Bodie and Peckinpaugh went hitless, and Hawks as a pinch-hitter failed to deliver.

The Chicago White Sox took the short end of a 10 to 6 score in their game with Washington. The Sox made five errors, two of them going against Johnson and one to Milligan.

Cutshaw hit a double and two singles and Walter Schmidt went hitless for the Pirates who defeated the Giants 5 to 4. Bancroft hit a triple and Kelly a single for the Giants.

The Cardinals continued their heavy hitting and defeated the Phillies 11 to 0.

Sammy Bohne's home run was the only tally for the Reds, while the Braves piled up six. Bohne also hit two singles. Louie Fonseca made a boot and went hitless for the Reds. Herb Brenton pitched for the Reds and allowed eleven hits.

"Dutch" Ruether on the mound for Brooklyn was touched for thirteen hits, but beat the Cubs 7 to 4. Ruether got two hits himself. Ivan Olson and Jimmy Johnston each hit two safe ones for the Dodgers. Malsel and Terry each hit two and Hollocher one for the Cubs.

NEW YORK — Managers Cobb of Detroit and Speaker of Cleveland set good examples to their players yesterday. The Tiger leader slammed out his eighth home run of the season. Two of Cobb's players, Dauss and Blue, followed suit. Speaker returned to the Indian line up as a regular and made four hits.

Calatone Water Nine Defeats Moose

Herman Harice's Calatone Water team stepped out and added another easy win to their list last Sunday. Their victims were the Oakland Moose who were held to three hits by "Chick" Hafey, the Calatone's star flinger. Sinclair led the slugging for the Calatones by getting four safe hits. Williams and Turney got three each. The winners also played fast ball in the field, and look like they will make good opponents for the Best Tractors or Halton-Didlers. Next Sunday the Calatones go to Newark to play the Wedgewoods of that town. The score:

Bankers Defeated By Modern Woodmen

The Modern Woodmen traveled to San Leandro and defeated the town bank nine 5 to 2. McNeill's hitting and Sorinke's pitching featured. McNeill hit a homer, double and single, Sullivan of the Woodmen threw out Griffith from right field on a hit that ordinarily counts as a single. Thompson of the bankers made some nice catches. The Rangers got two runs in the first inning, and the Woodmen tied it up in the second, and then they battled evenly until the ninth, when the Woodmen cinched the game.

Juney's Emery Ball Is Hammered Hard By Gilroy Batters

Gilroy and Salinas put first place in the Mission League by defeating the Sonas 6 to 2, in a slow but interesting game. Gilroy took a three-run lead in the first inning and kept Salinas scoreless until the sixth, when Salinas tied the score by hitting Caldera for three hits and took a two-run lead in the seventh, tying the score, and put the winning run over in the eighth. Frank Juney tried his old emery stuff in the seventh, which caused a good deal of grabbing back and forth, but Gilroy ate his newest up by whaling him for two singles, two doubles and a three-bagger in the two frames. The score.

NEWS OF U. S. INDUSTRIAL AND FINANCIAL CIRCLES

FURTHER SLUMP IN PRICES IS DUE TO LIQUIDATION

Continuance of Selling Pressure Causes Lower Levels For Stocks.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Initial prices in the stock market today pointed to a continuance of yesterday's selling pressure. This was based in part on further unsettlement of the foreign exchange rates. High grade rails, oils, motors, shippings and numerous unclassified shares were lower by liberal fractions to 1½ points. Especial heaviness was shown by Reading, Texas and Pacific, Mexican and Panama Petroleums, General Asphalt, Atlantic Gulf, American International, Cuban Sugar, U S Rubber, International Paper and several leather issues. The few nominal gains at the opening included Canadian Pacific and Houston Oil.

Closing out of speculative accounts and further calling of loans by banks provoked heavy liquidation during the morning. Sales in the first two hours approximated 500,000 shares, the entire list establishing lower prices.

Foreign exchange steadied slightly, but only a moderate supply of call money was obtainable at 7½ per cent.

Louisville and Nashville extended loss to 9 points at midday. Fresh elements of weakness were uncovered in the oils, steels, equipments and specialties. Lackawanna Steel, Chicago, Pneumatic Tool, Pressed Steel Car and Industrial Alcohol were 2 to 4 points under yesterday's final prices.

Shorts covered extensively in the last hour, leaders recovering 1 to 3 points. The rally was accompanied by marked improvement in foreign exchange. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 1,100,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 7.—Wheat declined in price today owing in a large degree to excellent weather conditions prevailing over the greater part of the winter crop belt. Opening quotations, which varied from 1c lower to ⅛ advance, with July $1.29¼ to $1.29¾, and September, $1.16½ to $1.17, were followed by material setbacks all around.

Subsequently buying on the part of houses with seaboard connections helped about an upturn in prices. The close was unsettled, half net lower to a like advance, with July $1.29¾ to $1.30 and, September, $1.16¾ to $1.17.

The close:

Wheat, July, $1.29¾; September, $1.16¾.

Corn—July, 65c; September, 65⅝c.

Oats, July, 38⅞; September, 40½c.

Pork, July, $17.60.

Lard, July, $9.75; September, $10.07.

Ribs, July, $10.12; September, $10.35.

Rye—No. 2, $1.39@1.40.

Barley—60@71c.

Clover seed—$13@18.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 7. — The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of from 1 to 10 points. Part of the buying was due to firm cables and an improvement in the English labor situation. There was selling by New Orleans and other southern interests. Liverpool was one of the buyers. Spot houses took July and there was considerable switching from near to later months. After the start there was an increase of local selling pressure which sent the list back to last night's closing level.

Narrow buying caused an upturn in the last hour. The close was steady at a net advance of 14 to 24 points.

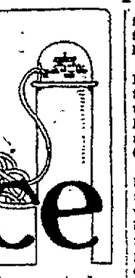
Business and Finance



Chief interest of Oakland fruit and vegetable shippers today lies in the question of how soon the announced reduction in eastern rates can become effective. If eastern agreements can be made at once so that the benefit of the general reductions from California, Oregon, Nevada, Arizona, Washington and Idaho points published last night will be immediate, then great good will come to the handlers of this year's crop.

If there is general delay in making the new rates effective, it will be too late to move many of the fruits and vegetables now coming in full maturity, it was stated today by Oakland shippers.

The announcement says that the new rates will be effective on apples on September 1 and on other products "as soon as possible."

(a) Vegetables, fresh or green, including melons and cantaloupes, carloads, minimum weight 20,000 lbs., as per Item 1535, Eastbound Tr

RAILROAD HOPE AT PUBLIC DOOR, SPROULE HOLDS

S. P. President's Oakland Talk Stirs Comment of Business.

General discussion was going on today in business and shipping circles as the result of the address made yesterday at the Kiwanis Club luncheon by William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific. The ball room of the Hotel Oakland was entirely filled with a highly representative Eastbay audience on the occasion, the Kiwanis Club having several score guests.

Sproule's discussion, which took the form of a review of the railroad situation since 1914, today was commented on by several as one of the most authoritative and enlightening that has been heard on the Pacific coast since the war.

Presenting the case of the railroads as analagous to that of business generally, but affected by vital considerations which do not touch other businesses, the Southern Pacific president drew a picture which had both a dark and a hopeful side.

THREE NEEDS.

Three things, he declared, were immediately necessary for national prosperity:

1—Full restoration of a peace status with Germany which, Sproule said, he was happy to see apparently was at hand.

2—An adjustment of the tariff which, while high enough to protect would not be so high as to stop the exchange of foreign goods upon which the real international economic readjustment rests.

3—An early and drastic re-adjustment of internal imports. This, the speaker dwelt on as the most important of all, declaring that the tax burden had become so complicated and so tremendous, based upon artificial and political standards, that it threatened the economic life of the nation.

TAX BURDEN.

On this third point he declared that the national tax burden far exceeded all transportation charges put together, that in California the burden was more than $1,000,000 a day and that of this sum more than half went out of the state not to return. He declared that the Southern Pacific was now faced with the duty of paying 50 cents on the dollar of all its earnings to the state at which assertion a murmur went over the audience.

Under the present stifling circumstances, the Southern Pacific president said, it is a question of how long the railroads can endure.

But he was not pessimistic, but rather optimistic, declaring that he did not believe government ownership would ensue but that the business sense of the nation would soon gather in such force as to correct the wrongs which he held to exist.

SOME BITTERNESS.

A note of some bitterness crept into his tone when he spoke of government control of the railways.

He asked his auditors to imagine their businesses taken over as a war measure with the promise that they would be returned as they went and to picture their surprise to find that they had not been kept up and that in addition they were returned with the entire working forces altered in their disposition toward their employers and work.

He declared that during the war "unseen powers" labored behind Washington in favor of the labor elements and many that these had wrought made of the changes.

For the principles of arbitrary price-fixing and demonstrated in rate and wage control, Sproule had vigorous invective. He declared that the railroads must see at least a partial return to old standards before they could hope to prosper.

RATE MISTAKES.

He decried as a mistake the drastic rate increases which, he said, because they were made in an attempt to remedy cumulative errors of omission, at a time when the nation's business was stagnant and therefore had failed to render the railways any measure of relief. He pictured the readjustments business might have made had the increases been gradual and at the times when they first became necessary.

"Until the country gets rid of arbitrary price-fixing whether for commodities in which you deal or for railway rates and the conditions of labor, I fear we cannot go very far in improving conditions as they exist today," he said.

In reviewing war conditions, Sproule blamed the priority system for the so-called breakdown of the railroads. What did break down, he said, was industrial machinery and the priority system, not the railroads. It was this system under which the muddle forced government control, Sproule said, whereat began a new chapter in railway history under which the railways were "regulated on economic theory and principles of political expediency," which, he asserted, was the situation still prevailing, return to private ownership notwithstanding.

HOPE FOR FUTURE.

The net result, he said, "was that the railroads find themselves subject to more or less remorseless attack because they are victims of a situation over which they have no control."

The first actual measure of relief, Sproule said, was promised by the 12 per cent wage reductions to take effect July 1.

The hopeful note of the talk was embodied wholly in the declaration of earnest belief by the railway executive that the inertia from which the country has been suffering was about to be cast off and that while business now marked time waiting on the President and Congress, helpful changes were about to be made.

In conclusion an interesting note was struck in the declaration that the talk was the first Sproule had had opportunity to make to a friendly audience since the return of the railroads to private ownership.

LEMONS MAKE NEW PRICE GAIN; MELONS DOWN

First Northern Apples Come; Berries Hold Steady On Market.

One of the chief features of the citrus fruit market has been the rapid rise in the price of lemons. Another increase which became generally effective here today made a net gain in prices of $3 or a little more a box in the last two weeks.

Lemons today were quoted at $7 which is generally 50 cents above the f. o. b. price at Southern California shipping points.

According to dealers the increase is explained by the fact that the California market is ruled by auction markets of the large eastern consuming centers. Warm weather in the east has been a big factor in shooting up the lemon prices.

One authority says that lemons in St. Louis have sold at more than $9 a box during last week. St. Louis has been regarded as one of the poorest lemon markets.

While the lemon market has been gaining, advanced delivery of southern cantaloupes has resulted in marked declines in prices. Quotations today were generally $1 under a week ago. Good melons now are had at $4 a crate and ponies as low as $3.25, high freight rates notwithstanding. Honey Dew melons also are offered lower. Practically all are on express shipments because of the perishable nature of the goods. Large melons were offered today as low as $2.50 a crate.

Little change was felt today in the prices in the berry and small fruit market. There were delivered 553 chests of strawberries, 33 of currants, 1 of raspberries, 6 of blackberries 4 of gooseberries and 6 of Loganberries, besides a scattering of these berries in crates and other forms of pack.

First new Sacramento apples were offered today in standard pack at about $3.50 a box and in baskets at $1.50. The apples generally were small. Peaches held steady at about $2.75 a basket although there were some sales in advance of that figure.

SHIPPING NEWS

The little power schooner Golden West, which was recently purchased from the Golden West Brewery of Oakland, joined the ranks of the gasoline coasting freighters, which began active service since the steam schooner's men tied up on account of the strike and sailed for Crescent City yesterday, where she will load lumber for this port. Since the strike every gasoline craft that can carry a fair amount of freight has been placed in outside service, and many of them have never been past Lime Point. The Golden West was built for the river trade and carried beer from the Oakland Brewery to river points, and was known as the floating beer wagon. From now on, until the strike is ended, she will be a lumber packet, and is under command of Captain Crone.

The Whitelaw wrecker Greenwood, came off the drydock of Barnes & Tibbetts yesterday after being cleaned and painted and returned to her berth pier 38, where she is getting ready for her annual cruise to Southern California waters to overhaul the moorings of the oil companies. Captain John A. Dollard, who was master of the Greenwood for a week, was relieved by Captain W. A. Thor who will take the vessel south.

For the first time in many years the Alaska Packers' docks at Alameda have vessels tied up at this time of the year. As the salmon pack will be small this season, the ship Star of Lapland 3000 ton register, and the ship Indiana, 1413 tons register, besides the tender Kanak, 121 tons register, were not sent to Alaska this spring. The P. B. Peterson Company has the bark B. P. Cheney 1200 ton register and the tender Lehua, also laid up here.

An explosion in the engine room of the fishing schooner Teton, resulted in a total loss of that vessel last night at Banks Island, near Prince Rupert. A leaking valve with distillate was the cause of the explosion. The crew was compelled to jump overboard to escape the flames and reached shore in a dory, uninjured. The vessel is owned by V. M. Dafoe, of Vancouver, B. C., and was fully insured.

The first vessel for Norton Sound, Alaska, left Seattle last night. She was the steamer Cordova, and with a full cargo of freight and eighty men, who will be employed on the lower Yukon river and St. Michaels, began her first voyage this year. The steamer Victoria sails tonight for Nome, on her first voyage with a full passenger list and all cargo space taken.

Fishing off the Oregon coast was reported very good when the gas schooner Decorah with 17,000 pounds of halibut and codfish, and the schooner Spray with 18,000 pounds of the same class of fish reached Portland today. Most of the fishing vessels leave for Puget Sound and fish off Vancouver Island and Southeast Alaska, but this new fishing ground off the Oregon coast is a shorter distance to the market, and has proved good.

The steamer Silver State, one of the 535's for the Pacific coast, has left New York for this port. She will stop at Cuba to take on 150 Chinese as passengers, who are being returned to China. The Silver State is a new vessel of 8393 tons register and owned by the United States Shipping Board, under charter to the Admiral line, to be run between the Pacific coast and Asia, via the Orient.

The shipping board steamer West Sequana, which arrived here on May 7 from France with 5450 tons of general cargo, was towed from Oakland Harbor to Benicia where she will join the idle fleet of the Shipping Board at that place.

The steamer West Jena arrived yesterday from Batavia and way ports with a general cargo. On May 14 while en route here, August Rocke, the ship carpenter, died and was buried at sea. She is under command of Captain Jacobsen and chartered by Struthers & Dixon.

The Italian armored cruiser Libia, from Genoa for the Asiatic coast, is on her way here, via New Orleans, and the Panama Canal, and is due early in July. She will load supplies and fuel. The Libia is the first vessel of the Italian government sent to the China coast since the year 1915. When she arrives she will be open for inspection for a few days to the public.

Change of masters registered at the United States Custom House: Captain J. M. Maclachlan, ship John Ena; Captain W. A. Thor, steamer Greenwood; Captain S. C. Sullivan, motor schooner Charles Watson; Captain George N. Rice, gas launch Risdon.

The Right Investment for Professional Men

If you are a doctor, dentist, lawyer, minister, teacher, or writer, here is the sort of investment you ought to consider:

It must first of all be safe, because you cannot afford to lose your money. It must be free from attention or worry, because you cannot afford to waste your time. It must possess a high degree of marketability, because you may have to sell. And, finally, it should pay you a good income.

There are many good investments that meet these requirements, but it is doubtful if any can better serve your purpose than the Ten Year Gold Notes of the General Petroleum Corporation.

An investment of $992.50 pays you $70 a year interest and $1050 at redemption, or $496.25 (for $500 denomination) pays you $35 a year interest and $525 at redemption.

Write us today for information. If you have never bought bonds before, mention that fact in your letter, and we will send you some very interesting additional information.

WEATHER FORECAST

Oakland and Vicinity—Cloudy or foggy tonight and in the morning becoming fair during the day Wednesday, moderate northwesterly winds.

Northern and Southern California—Tonight and Wednesday fair, except cloudy or foggy near the coast tonight and in the morning, moderate northwesterly winds.

Nevada—Fair.

CONDITIONS.

Depressions are central over Alberta and the Colorado valley, while an area of high pressure is moving inland over the north Pacific state. These conditions have caused light rain in Washington and Oregon, cloudy or foggy weather near the California coast and fair weather over the interior of the Pacific slope. Rain has also fallen from the Rocky mountains to the Mississippi river to Tennessee. There have been no marked temperature changes.

Conditions are favorable for fair weather in this district tonight and Wednesday, except showers in the northern Plateau and fog near the coast tonight.

Jam Up Against Fortune!

California's gold yield fades into insignificance beside her wealth of OIL! Petroleum pays millions of dollars each year in dividends to the residents of a single California city! Fortunes pour from acres of ground which are tapped by producing wells—and all this is YOURS if you act to make it so!

Take B. & M. Oil, with 160 acres right against the lease where 73 wells are returning millions of dollars yearly to stockholders in General Petroleum!

Lost Hills In this field alone, our 160 acres adjoin the property which MADE "G. P." Their producers are right across our property line—our ground is "sure-shot stuff"—and big enough to make B. & M. one of the BIG companies of the State when fully developed.

South Mountain The field that saw Union Oil grow to power and profit, where wells are worth a million! Here producers hold year after year to 1000 barrel flow! 160 acres, including ground that is conceded to be PROVEN. That's your SECOND shot at oil-money!

DELEGATES FROM ASIA AND AFRICA ATTEND MEETING

Two hundred and fifty delegates, including representatives from California, Nevada and Arizona, national officers from throughout the east, and missionaries from China, Japan, India and South Africa, have registered at the First Baptist church, Oakland, for the annual convention of the South Pacific District of the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission society, which is being held here this year in connection with the Golden Jubilee celebration of the society.

Delegates began arriving yesterday morning, and immediately upon registration were turned over to the hospitality committee which had made reservations for them at the Key Route Inn, and in various homes throughout the Eastbay. Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery, the president of the national organization, arrived last week and is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Hill of Berkeley. With Mrs. Montgomery are a number of girls from foreign fields, who will take part in the convention. The party will be entertained tomorrow at the St. Francis hotel, San Francisco, by the San Francisco Center of the California Civic League.

MISSIONARIES ARRIVE.

The party of foreign missionaries arrived in Oakland from Seattle yesterday. It includes Dr. Y. Nandamah of Kanigiri, the first Telupu woman to study medicine; Dr. Ma Saw, superintendent of Lady Dufferin hospital, Rangoon, Burma; Nakaji San, dean of the Bible Woman's Training School, Osaka, Japan; Kan En Yong, head of the kindergarten department of the normal school of Hangchow, China; Miss Martha Wenscke, head of the Girls' School, Poland, and Mrs. Frances Kolator, of Czecho-Slovakia.

Among the prominent women from the district who arrived yesterday are Mrs. Andrew McLeish, vice-president, home administration; Mrs. E. E. Adams, recording secretary and national publicity chairman, and Mrs. M. C. Treat.

The officers of the South Pacific District, with the national officers of the society and the heads of the various departments are in session this afternoon, outlining the course that the convention business is to take during the three days' session. Special stress will be laid on appeals for additional recruits for missionary fields, it is stated.

BANQUET TONIGHT.

This evening department heads, state and district officers, and the national officers will be the guests at a complimentary banquet to be given at the Key Route Inn. There will be no session of the convention this evening.

The main features of the convention, according to Mrs. J. M. Davis, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the First church, will be the banquet and pageant which will take place on Thursday evening, at the closing session of the convention. Over one hundred persons will take part in the pageant, "The Call and the Answer," which was written by Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery. Many of the national officers will meet tonight at 7:30 for a final practice.

IOWA BANK ROBBED.

WILLIAMS, Ia., June 7.—Robbers broke into the First National Bank here early today, blew the safe and escaped with $4000.

The per capita consumption of coffee in the United States last year was about 500 cups.

PLANS MADE FOR ENTERTAINMENT OF DELEGATES

Committees appointed months ago by Mrs. J. M. Davis, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church, in connection with plans for the Golden Jubilee celebration of the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, which is going on at the First Baptist Church, have arranged for the entertainment of the 250 delegates who have assembled for the convention.

Not content with providing accommodations for the guests in hotels and private homes, plans have been made to show the delegates the various points of civic beauty in the Eastbay. Tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the delegates will be taken on an automobile tour throughout the entire Eastbay section, and those who are entertaining the delegates in their homes have been asked to conduct the guests on tours during the time the convention is not in session.

Western Roads Want 1920 Scale Changed

CHICAGO, June 7.—Western railroads, including the Southern Pacific and Illinois Central systems, today renewed their efforts before the Railroad Labor Board to cut the wages of employees.

L. W. Baldwin, vice-president of the Illinois Central, and J. H. Dyer of the Southern Pacific asked that the wage increases granted by the board in 1920 be entirely wiped out.

The famous Tennessee cedar has long been the source of pencil wood, but the supply is about exhausted.

OAKLAND NAMES COMMITTEE TO HEAR ARGUMENT

Arrangements Being Made for Discussion of Consolidation Question.

With the naming of the twenty Oakland business men who will meet with committees of similar size from Berkeley and Alameda for a round-table discussion of the city and county consolidation proposal, the Merchants' Exchange is informed today that plans for the calling of the meeting will be made at once.

The chance for a general discussion of the consolidation question, and more particularly of the alternative proposal, by the business men of the three largest cities in the county has been welcomed by all who have been approached. In Berkeley and Alameda the business men say that out of the discussion may come an understanding that may prevent the division of the county into three or four parts.

The Merchants' Exchange was responsible for inviting the business men to meet when it adopted resolutions to that effect some time ago. In those same resolutions the exchange declared that it opposed the formation of a new county which would not include Berkeley, Alameda and Oakland, a position which has brought favorable response from those cities. At a meeting tonight a portion of the board of directors will seek to have this position reversed.

It is held by others that after the exchange has declared for a county to include at least the three largest cities and has invited the merchants of those cities to meet in discussion, that to come out for a county of any lesser area would be to put the organization and the business men invited to participate in the discussion in a ridiculous light.

The Oakland men named on the committee are: H. V. Capwell, J. C. Downey, William Jurgens, H. K. Jackson, C. Monroe, H. Katchinski, Max Horwinski, A. Schleuter, G. Roos, Joseph H. King, R. A. Leet, J. A. Young, W. R. Whitthorne, Irving Kahn, L. B. Magoon, Carlsten Schmidt, Harmon Bell, J. Lesser, J. Smith and William Nat Friend.

'Clara' To Be Named In Stillman Trial

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., June 7.—Supreme Court Justice Keough today limited until June 14 the stay which he granted yesterday in the Stillman divorce case. Opposing counsel then agreed to resume hearings before Referee Gleason June 15 at Poughkeepsie.

Justice Keough gave counsel for Mrs. Anne Stillman permission to file an amended answer to her banker husband's complaint charging her with infidelity. Defense counsel had announced yesterday that if this permission were received, a woman known only as Clara would be named as an additional co-respondent. In her original answer Mrs. Stillman named only Mrs. Florence A. Leeds, an ex-chorus girl.

Women's Auxiliary To Entertain Post

ALAMEDA, June 7.—The members of Alameda Post, American Legion, are to be the guests of the Women's Auxiliary at a dance and reception tonight. The affair will be held in Moose hall, Central avenue near Park street, the present headquarters of Alameda Post. This is part of the regular co-operative work between the Post and Auxiliary.

MONEY IN MOUSE NEST.

ALTOONA, Pa., June 7.—It was nothing new to the piano tuner sent by an Altoona music house to an Altoona home to discover a mouse's nest under the keyboard. But when he noticed tiny bits of paper like some of Uncle Sam's "long green," his curiosity was aroused. He removed the nest and found it was partly composed of a $50 bill nibbled at the edges. The woman of the house said that last autumn her husband had slipped the bill under the parlor carpet for safe keeping. A few weeks ago they needed it, but couldn't find it.

GRAND LODGE OF COLORED ORDER IN OAKLAND SESSION

Over 250 delegates, representing thirty lodges, arrived in Oakland yesterday for the sixty-seventh annual communication of the Grand Lodge, F. and A. M. (colored), which opened yesterday at Oakland Auditorium. Grand Master J. H. Wilson is presiding.

The day was given over to a report of the condition of the organization, delivered by the grand master, and to reports from the various grand officers on the activities of the lodge, the results accomplished during the past year, and an outline of plans for the future.

A public reception for the delegates was held last night in Foresters' hall. Commissioner Frank Colbourn, representing Mayor J. L. Davie, spoke, welcoming the delegates to Oakland. Grand Master Wilson replied on behalf of the lodge. A short musical program followed and the reception was closed by the serving of refreshments.

CONDITION OF ORDER.

The second session of the convention was called to order this morning at 10 o'clock and was devoted to the reports of the grand secretary and treasurer. Reports were also heard on the growth and financial condition of the craft.

Legislative and important matters affecting the organization occupied the delegates this afternoon. The Lodge of Sorrow will be held tonight in Foresters' hall.

Election of officers will be held tomorrow and the meeting place of the next annual communication will be decided upon. The evening session, which will conclude the convention, will include a public installation of officers followed by a public entertainment at the Auditorium.

LODGES REPRESENTED.

The communication this year is said to be one of the largest held by the lodges of this state. The thirty lodges presented and the delegates are:

Neighbors of Woodcraft Are Entertained by City

The city of Oakland was joint host today with the Oakland circles, Neighbors of Woodcraft, in furnishing the delegates in attendance at the twenty-second annual district circle meeting of the organization, a launch ride around Lake Merritt from 11:30 to 12:15 o'clock. Two hundred and seventy-five delegates rode in the four launches, which were provided by the municipal boathouse, and which met the delegates at Twelfth street landing, took them around the lake and finally deposited them at the canoe house, where a picnic luncheon was served. Mrs. Emma Hunt of Fruitvale Circle No. 585 was in charge of the launch ride and luncheon.

TWO DIVISIONS.

The delegates were divided into two divisions, the first half eating while the other were touring the lake. At the close of the luncheon another trip around the lake was made and the delegates taken to the Twelfth street landing, from which place they went to the auditorium to take up the business of the afternoon session.

Exemplification of the mysteries of the organization by the juvenile circle, an organization of children of the members, was the feature of the session last night.

The various activities in which the organization engages, its benefits, social service work, and what the organization stands for were made known by short recitations by the members of the juvenile circle.

PROGRAM IS GIVEN.

Recitation of welcome, C. Rottman; explanation of the benefits of the organization—Fraternal, Alice Barkmeyer; social, Don Lovett; insurance, Robley Larson; thimble club, Wilma Orton; woodcraft home, Arthur Bacon; woodcraft juveniles, Jimmie Hilland; presentation of baskets of flowers to the district officers, L. Bowers, H. Hahn and M. Baldwin, by Juvenile pages Margaret Nolan, Cornelia Musch, Marjorie Kent and Gladys Young; piano duet, the Ehrenfort twins; song, Margaret Gelden; dance, Dorothy Cruni; piano solo, Myrtle Waitman; song, "Buy Home Bonds," by the pages, led by Freddie Schmallenberg. The verses explaining the benefits of the order were written by M. Rottman.

PERSONNEL OF OFFICERS.

The officers of the Juvenile Circle are as follows: Arthur Bacon, gas guardian; B. Ehrenpfort, guardian; Alice Rottman, advisor; R. Larson, magician; J. Holland attendant; A. Schmallenberg, inner sentinel; B. Ehrenpfort, outer sentinel; M. Ehrenpfort, captain of the guard; Wilma Orton and Mary Nolan, flag bearers; Don Lovett, clerk; Alvin Ehrenpfort, banker; A. Barkmeyer, D. Crum, E. Bursik, D. Ken, A. Musch, and E. Smith, guards; C. Musch, E. Smith, M. Nolan, C. Rottman, G. Young, F. Schallenberg and M. Nolan, pages. The children are drilled by the senior guardian, Marion Hunt.

This morning's business session was given over to reports from the various district officers. District officers will be elected and installed, and grand delegates and alternates chosen at the closing session this evening. The place for the next meeting will also be chosen.

Man Scorns Jail; Wants Term in Prison; Gets It

Frank Smith of Hayward, charged with grand larceny, had his own ideas about the kind of punishment he should have for taking tools from a house in course of construction in Hayward. When he appeared before Superior Judge George Samuels today for arraignment, after having been held to answer to the Superior Court, he was asked if he desired a lawyer. He replied in the negative, and when asked to plead he said he was guilty.

"Do you wish me to continue this matter for two or three days in order that I may look further into your case?" Judge Samuels asked.

"I don't think so," replied Smith.

"You are now facing a charge of grand larceny which calls for a term in the state's prison," said the judge. "If you give us time on this matter we may find it possible to reduce this charge to petty larceny. The court doesn't want to send you to the state's prison if the offense doesn't warrant it. Do you want to give us time or take your sentence now?"

"I'll take it now," replied Smith.

Judge Samuels was still inclined to favor the prisoner.

"Were you ever in trouble before?"

"Once, for petty larceny in Los Angeles."

"Were you ever arrested in Oakland?"

"Yes. I got drunk last Fourth of July."

"The tools you confess you took are worth about $60, according to the complaint," continued the judge. "I think 30 days would suffice for punishment if you want to give us time to look into this case."

"I believe I'll take my sentence now," Smith insisted.

He will be taken to San Quentin tomorrow to start serving a term from one to fifteen years. At the time he confessed his guilt today the probation officer was ready to recommend that he be given probation.

Property Owners Must Clear Lots

ALAMEDA, June 7. — Alameda property owners have been notified by C. E. Hickok, city engineer, to clear their vacant lots of grass. This is in the interest of fire prevention and is a campaign carried out every year by the city officials and the fire department.

Hickok announces that in case the property owners fail to clean up their lots, the city will do the work and send the owners the bill. Through the fire prevention campaign the fire hazard of Alameda last year was cut down to a minimum.

U. S. TO PROVIDE EQUIPMENT FOR AN AIR RESERVE

Allied Flyers' Club To Recruit More Membership For New Organization.

Answers to questionnaires sent to all members of the Allied Flyers' Club regarding the establishment here of an air service reserve, including all branches of the air service, brought the assurance today that such a unit will be formed, according to Harvey M. Pugh, secretary of the club.

The main object in the immediate future is to find all reserve pilots and other ex-air service men who will undergo the regular reserve training for two weeks, under army pay.

Members of the unit who have qualified as pilots will be able to obtain ships for practice at Crissy field, San Francisco, the government supplying all equipment, and, when necessary, experienced pilots as instructors until the reservists regain the "feel of the air."

The reserve unit will be made up of men from the entire Eastbay district and members of the Allied Flyers' Club who have not yet mailed in the answers to the questionnaires are urged to do so.

Fruitvale Bridge To Reopen For Traffic

ALAMEDA, June 7.—The Fruitvale bridge, which has been closed to general traffic for a long period, will soon be ready for service again, according to announcement from the Chamber of Commerce this morning.

The repair work has been done by the county and between eight and ten thousand dollars have been spent. The bridge has undergone a complete overhauling.

The closing of the bridge to the trains completely eliminated the loop service between Alameda and Oakland. This will be resumed as soon as the bridge is ready for service and this, according to the county engineer's office, will be within a few days.

Two Richmond Girls Are Sunday Brides

RICHMOND, June 7.—Miss Vera Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Williams, became the bride of Glen E. Schach, Standard Oil employee, at the First Christian church Sunday evening. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas A. Boyer. Members of the bridal party were: Miss Caroline A. Boehm, bridesmaid; little Miss Susan Crane, flower girl; Archie F. Iveagh, best man. Miss Marguerite Knoble sang "O Promise Me," and Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Vera Wyatt.

Another Sunday bride was Miss Mary Sievers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sievers, who became Mrs. George Scott in a ceremony at the First Baptist church. The marriage was informal. Rev. C. C. Poole performed the ceremony.
